Mulryan, Nixon Council Winners

San Rafael Victors Boast Wide Margin

San Rafael voters yesterday elected incumbent Lawrence E. Mulryan to his first full term on the city council and tapped county planning commission chairman Jack G. Nixon to fill the council's long vacant fifth seat.

Both the frontrunning Mulryan, who polled 5,141 votes, and Nixon, who polled 4,540 votes, described their victories as signalling a "new horizon" for the city and cited their concerns for careful planning in the wake of the city's rapid growth.

Both councilman-elect expressed surprise at the relatively poor showing of city planning commission chairman and runnerup Thomas R. O'Toole, who polled 3,561 votes. O'Toole, considered a potent candidate, lost a previous bid for a council seat in 1971 by 174 votes when he polled 3,341 ballots.

Voter turnout in the election, for which 22,094 registered voters were eligible to cast ballots, was only 38 per cent, according to County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer. Voter turnout in the 1971 council contest was 47.7 per cent.

Other unsuccessful council candidates were Carl J. (Red) Brown, 1,960 votes; Richard C. Fox, 1,144 votes and Leo Tinkler, 266 votes.

Mulryan called his victory a "mandate for listening to good planning" and said it signals a new horizon for the city, "an end to letting any kind of development in regardless of the consequences." Mulryan said that his victory, coupled with that of Nixon, marks a probable shift of power on the council. "We now have a council that's really committed to long range planning," he said.

The 35-year-old Mulryan, appointed to the council in 1970 when Fred C. Robbins Jr. was named city attorney, said he was surprised at Nixon's margin of victory over O'Toole. "I thought it would be a lot closer" than 979 votes, he said.

Nixon, 40, called his victory a measure of local concern "over how we plan this town" and said it reflects a "progressive outlook among citizens." He also expressed surprise at his margin of victory over O'Toole, saying he expected the outcome to be "much closer"

Nixon's term on the county planning commission, to which he was appointed in 1969, expires tomorrow, but he took the occasion of his election victory to announce his immediate resignation.

Nixon said he intends to work closely with all council colleagues and noted his election

One Amendment To Charter Fails

San Rafael voters yesterday approved seven proposed amendments to the city charter, but roundly rejected an eighth proposal which would have hiked the city's lid on promotional spending.

Proposition F, defeated by a vote of 4,818 to 3,439, would have increased from $1,000 to a $15,000 maximum the amount of money the city can spend annually for municipal advertising and promotional purposes. The vote marked the fourth time since 1967 that proposals to delete or increase the $1,000 lid — established by the original city charter in 1912 — have been defeated.

City officials had argued that increasing promotional expenses would allow funding of an annual municipal parade and financing the city's 100th anniversary celebration next year.

The city will now have to rely on private funding to finance the centennial celebration, said City Mgr. William J. Bielser in the wake of the defeat of Proposition F.

Charter amendments approved by voters are:

Proposition C, approved by a vote of 4,381 to 3,972, makes the post of city treasurer appointive rather than elective. Voters had rejected the proposal three times previously.

Proposition D, approved by a vote of 4,637 to 3,804, reduces from three years to one year

Novatans Turn Down Flood Bond

Novato area voters narrowly refused to approve a $4.5 million bond issue for flood control work yesterday.

The vote of 3,346 yes to 1,891 no gave the bond issue only a 63.9 per cent majority, instead of the 66-⅔ per cent needed.

Election night onlookers speculated that the fact that the area to be taxed for the flood control bonds included much land that would not be directly benefitted, and the lack of precise plans fog the work to be

San Anselmo Bonds For Open Space Lose

San Anselmo voters, bucking a trend, rejected yesterday a $500,000 bond issue to buy open space lands.

It was the first defeat for open space forces in Marin after victories in similar campaigns in San Rafael, Tiburon, Lucas Valley and Marinwood.

Voters countywide also had voted last November to form a regional park district with designs on open space preservation.

The San Anselmo vote was 1,754 in favor and 996 against, falling short of the needed two-thirds majority for passage. The measure got a 64 per cent favorable vote.

Mayor Lewis S. Stewart was disheartened over the result. "I'm disappointed. We really can't offer any excuses," he said.

One of the measure's most outspoken critics, Sarah Nome, blamed the defeat in part on the failure of city officials to heed advice to use zoning tools to preserve open land.

The $500,000, which would have been used to preserve undesignated portions of 226 undeveloped acres, was in any event "only enough to buy very few parcels," said Mrs. Nome, a long-time critic of city council policies.

Some of the larger parcels under study for purchase were the Rosenthal and Indian tract properties.

Shocks, Surprises In Light Turnout

Marin voters, despite a seizure of ballot box apathy, managed to produce some election day shock and surprise yesterday.

Amid a turnout viewed by county officials as woeful, a conservationist unexpectedly ran away with a seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board, a new political lineup was established on the San Rafael City Council and bond measures produced mixed results.

In addition, voters seated many new faces on local school boards as numerous incumbents decided not to run. Of the 21 incumbents who did seek new terms, only one — Michael Aitken in the Bolinas-Stinson School District — was ousted.

Perhaps the major surprise was in the Division Four race in the Marin Municipal Water District, where Dr. L. Martin Griffin, physician and conservationist, was a landslide winner.

It was a campaign fought on the issue of growth versus no-growth, raising the possible emergence of the agency as a planning body.

Fairfax Voters Do Turnabout In Approving Safety Building Bond

Fairfax voters performed a turnabout yesterday when they approved a $300,000 bond issue to finance a new public safety building for the town.

The vote was 1,103 yes to 419 no — or 72.5 per cent in favor when only a 66-⅔ per cent vote was needed. The bond issue won by a margin of 265 votes, over the two-thirds requirement, despite a light turnout.

Only slightly more than one-third of the town's 4,313 eligible voters went to the polls.

A similar bond issue was turned down by the voters five years ago.

Opponents to yesterday's bond proposal argued that the new police and fire station would displace families now living in houses that would be taken over, that the the town park would lose valuable space be endangered by the building and that redwood trees would project.

Mayor E. Ross Parkerson steadfastly opposed the proposal; it was put on yesterday's ballot only after Councilman Frank J. Egger — also opposed — switched his stand Feb. 13 to give the town council the necessary four-fifths vote to put the measure before the people.

Griffin Scores Easy Water Board Victory

Dr. L. Martin Griffin, a physician with a lofty record in conservation, was the runaway winner yesterday of a seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board that is pivotal in more ways than one.

Not only will Griffin, who outdistanced two other candidates, break a deadlock on the board but is expected to spark a new era in the agency's century-old history.

Griffin, billed as the anti-growth candidate, got 4,205 votes to 1,370 for his biggest rival during the campaign, former Mill Valley councilman Jerome C. Hauke. Accountant Ross S. Shade ran third with but 211 votes.

Griffin, a 53-year-old Kent Woodlands resident, will replace Eugene A. Miller as board representative of Division Four, an area including Mill Valley and parts of Tamalpais Valley, Corte Madera and Kentfield.

Miller resigned last November, throwing the board into a 2-2 split on such vital issues as a proposed moratorium on new connections, particularly for large developments.

Griffin, whose record as a conservationist includes a term as president of the Audubon Society and as a prime mover of Marin park and open space acquisition, said during the campaign he would vote against all but the smallest water supply hookups until new water sources are found, possibly through tapping Walker Creek.

Last night, Griffin told newsmen he wished to "study the water situation very carefully"

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Irish Gunmen

BELFAST (UPI — Cruising gunmen sprayed a Belfast street with machine gun fire late yesterday, wounding five men in a Roman Catholic district at the end of another day of bombing and shooting.

Altogether, violence Tuesday left one man dead and another 14 wounded.

The gunmen, firing from a car at persons on both sides of the street, mowed down a hospital security guard and two other men standing at the door of a bar, then shot two more men on a street corner of McDonnell Street before speeding away.

Police said one of the wounded men was in serious condition.

Funds For War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee meeting in a closed session has voted to give President Nixon an additional $150 million to carry on the war in Indochina until June 30.

The funds are included in a special provision of the 1973 supplemental appropriations bill which gives the Defense Department authority to transfer an extra $500 million from surplus accounts into operations that are costing more than originally planned.

An unsuccessful attempt to kill the transfer authority in the House subcommittee on Defense Appropriations was made Tuesday by Rep. Joseph P. Addabo, D-Conn.

Police Payoffs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eleven city policemen were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on charges of taking payoffs to protect a 10-year-old numbers racket. It was the capital's biggest case of police corruption in more than 20 years.

Two former policemen and 10 alleged gamblers were also charged in six counts with bribery, conspiracy or perjury.

The indictments charged that seven gamblers paid off seven officers and that various policemen, including an internal affairs division member, lied to the grand jury. Other counts alleged that 15 persons, both police and suspected gamblers, conspired to protect one another from arrest or prosecution.

Doctor Fired

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Pennsylvania Welfare Secretary Helene Wohlgemuth has fired a hospital superintendent after retarded patients were found locked in five-by-five wooden cages at Polk State School and Hospital.

Mrs. Wohlgemuth said the dismissal of Dr. Games McClelland, 58, was effective May 1. She took the action following an unannounced visit to the hospital in northwestern Pennsylvania last Saturday.

"In a women's day room was a cage made of wooden slats with a small door and a padlock," she said. "The cage was about five by five by five and inside sitting on the floor was a woman.

"In the men's ward, I saw men in 'play pens.' "

Soviet Policy

MOSCOW (UPI) — Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev has called a plenary session of the ruling central committee to review foreign and internal policy, party sources said Tuesday.

The plenum will meet for the first time this year next Monday with its 396 members hearing Brezhnev's report on the international and domestic situation and adopting directives for future Soviet policy.

Flood Threat

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Mississippi River, swollen with water from the north, and a day of torrential rainstorms, threatened flood-weary Louisiana today.

Gov. Edwin W. Edwards called out 300 National Guard troops to join 300 guardsmen already on duty today in five cities north and west of New Orleans.

The residents of Morgan City, Jena, Marksville, Jonesville and Opelousas were told to be prepared to evacuate if flooding gets worse.

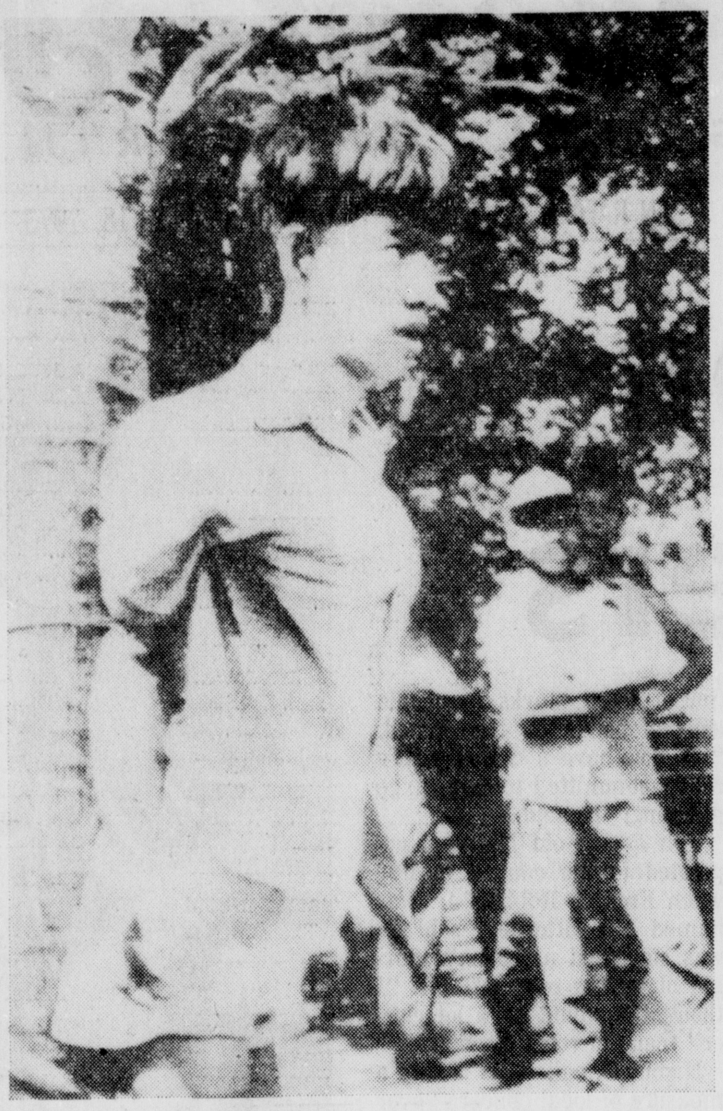
Cambodian Leader Seeking Support Of The Opposition



CAMBODIA CAPTIVE — A suspected Communist was tied to a tree with rope and a bicycle innertube during questioning by Cambodian government troops 15 miles southeast of Phnom Penh yesterday. Some 1,500 Communists overran the central marketplace at Tran Khnar, just south of Phnom Penh, with government defenders engaged in fierce hand-to-hand combat.

(UPI Telephoto)

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian President Lon Nol held round the clock negotiations today with opposition Cambodian politicians in a move to bring them into his government. The United States has urged such a step as necessary to any possible cease-fire talks.

Cambodia is the only country in Indochina without a formal cease-fire, and there was no sign of a letup in fighting or U.S. bombing in the country. Despite 42 consecutive days of massive American bombing the rebels have shown no sign of diminishing their offensive actions.

Western diplomats and prominent Cambodian politicians said Lon Nol's decision to expand his government was made after President Nixon's envoy, Gen. Alexander Haig, exerted strong pressure on the ailing president to include members of the loyal opposition, including Sirik Matak, in the government.

The negotiations, being held in the Presidential palace, began shortly after Lon Nol Tuesday night announced the retirement of Premier Hang Thun Hak and the other 14 members of his cabinet.

Sirik Matak, a longtime friend of Lon Nol's and former deputy Prime Minister, is a favorite of the U.S. embassy here because of his efficiency. He has been out of favor with Lon Nol for the past two months.

Sources within the Presidential Palace said the negotiations include the popular In Tam, in addition to Sirik Matak, and leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties.

According to Lon Nol, the first two steps in revamping his regime will be the naming of a new cabinet and the establishment of a "high political council" to aid in the policymaking process of the state. Both the new cabinet and the "high political council" will include high-ranking leaders of opposition political parties, thus broadening the base of popular support of the government, Lon Nol said.

Cambodia is in the throes of its worst economic and military crisis as a result of the current Communist offensive, and most western diplomats welcomed Lon Nol's announcement of a cabinet reshuffle.

"I only hope that this time he is sincere in asking for the collaboration of the other parties," said one high-ranking diplomat.

Political leaders said they believed Lon Nol's appeal was directed at former Deputy Premier Sisowath Sirik Matak and the popular leader of the opposition Democratic party, In Tam. Both have refused repeatedly to join the government unless Lon Nol relinquishes some of his all-encompassing powers and defined their powers and responsibliities.

Last February, In Tam accepted an appointment as Lon Nol's adviser on national reunification but he resigned 10 days later when he discovered the post carried no power or responsibilities.

That appointment was made after Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in a visit to the capital Feb. 1, exerted what U.S. Embassy sources termed "strong pressure" on Lon Nol to include members of the opposition in his one-party regime and thus broaden the base of his support.

Indonesia Asks Copter Crash Probe

SAIGON (UPI) — Indonesia threatened today to pull its peace supervision troops out of the field and back to regional headquarters unless a full investigation is made into the shooting down of a peace commission helicopter.

Nine persons were killed April 7 when their International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) helicopter was shot down by groundfire in Communist-held territory in Quang Tri Province.

A second helicopter, accompanying the one that crashed, also was forced down by groundfire but no one on board was injured.

The American pilots of the second helicopter said they were on course, following instructions given by the Viet Cong, when the incident occurred, but the Communists contend they were off course.

A spokesman for the Canadian ICCS delegation said Ambassador Michel Gauvin sent a letter to the Viet Cong today asking permission for an ICCS team to go back to the crash site to continue its investigation.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said today Gauvin had issued a statement earlier in the week suggesting the Communists had moved the helicopter wreckage to prove their contention that both choppers were off course when hit. VNA, quoting an article in the newspaper Nhan Dan (People's Daily), said the suggestion was "a product of his (Gauvin's) imagination."

An Indonesian statement read to the ICCS today said unless the ICCS conducts a full investigation of the helicopter incident, "the Indonesian delegation reserves its right to unilaterally withdraw its teams to the regional headquarters and to suspend its participation in investigation whenever and wherever it deems necessary."

More Post-Truce Outbreaks Reported

SAIGON (UPI) — Post-truce fighting flared up again in South Vietnam today after a comparative lull lasting 48 hours. The Saigon command said sharp battles were reported in all four of the country's military corps areas.

The command reported 120 Communist cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today, up from the 85 reported Tuesday, a low for reported violations of the Jan. 28 truce.

In the northern I Corps area, Communist gunners shelled and attacked a South Vietnamese infantry position late Tuesday near the former American artillery base nicknamed Fire Base Sally. The attack was repulsed but three infantrymen were killed and six wounded, the command said. Communist casualties were not known.

Early today, militiamen in the II Corps area in the Central Highlands near Tuy Hoa, 250 miles north of Saigon, exchanged a fusillade of small arms fire with Communist troops. The militiamen claimed killing five Communists and losing no killed or wounded of their own.

Later today, government militiamen in the III Corps region around Saigon came under ground attack at two positions 18 and 35 miles northwest of Saigon, the command said. Two militiamen were reported killed and five Communists wounded.

U.S. Planes Hit Red Units In Laos Again

VIENTIANE (UPI) — U.S. warplanes bombed in Laos for the second consecutive day yesterday to counter a weekend Communist offensive and North Vietnam claimed the air raids killed a number of civilians in Communist-controlled areas of the country.

Acting Laotian Defense Minister Sisouk Na Champassak said U.S. jets and B52 bombers from bases in Thailand Monday struck Communist positions in the Tha Vieng area, 100 miles northeast of Vientiane, and U.S. Pacific command headquarters in Honolulu said the U.S. planes returned to action again Tuesday at the request of the Laotian government.

Radio Hanoi, in a report quoting the Laotian Communist Pathet Lao news agency and monitored in Saigon, said Tuesday B52s killed a number of civilians in Communistcontrolled areas of the country Sunday and Monday and tactical warplanes hit the areas again.

The radio report said the returning tactical jets "sowed more death and destruction."

Sisouk pledged to recapture all three government positions lost in the weekend Communist offensive—two in the north and one in the south on the Plain of Jars. The Communist attacks were viewed as a major violation of the Feb. 22 Laotian cease-fire agreement, prompting the United States to authorize the U.S. air raids.

Irish Gunmen

BELFAST (UPI — Cruising gunmen sprayed a Belfast street with machine gun fire late yesterday, wounding five men in a Roman Catholic district at the end of another day of bombing and shooting.

Altogether, violence Tuesday left one man dead and another 14 wounded.

The gunmen, firing from a car at persons on both sides of the street, mowed down a hospital security guard and two other men standing at the door of a bar, then shot two more men on a street corner of McDonnell Street before speeding away.

Police said one of the wounded men was in serious condition.

Funds For War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee meeting in a closed session has voted to give President Nixon an additional $150 million to carry on the war in Indochina until June 30.

The funds are included in a special provision of the 1973 supplemental appropriations bill which gives the Defense Department authority to transfer an extra $500 million from surplus accounts into operations that are costing more than originally planned.

An unsuccessful attempt to kill the transfer authority in the House subcommittee on Defense Appropriations was made Tuesday by Rep. Joseph P. Addabo, D-Conn.

Police Payoffs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eleven city policemen were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on charges of taking payoffs to protect a 10-year-old numbers racket. It was the capital's biggest case of police corruption in more than 20 years.

Two former policemen and 10 alleged gamblers were also charged in six counts with bribery, conspiracy or perjury.

The indictments charged that seven gamblers paid off seven officers and that various policemen, including an internal affairs division member, lied to the grand jury. Other counts alleged that 15 persons, both police and suspected gamblers, conspired to protect one another from arrest or prosecution.

Doctor Fired

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Pennsylvania Welfare Secretary Helene Wohlgemuth has fired a hospital superintendent after retarded patients were found locked in five-by-five wooden cages at Polk State School and Hospital.

Mrs. Wohlgemuth said the dismissal of Dr. Games McClelland, 58, was effective May 1. She took the action following an unannounced visit to the hospital in northwestern Pennsylvania last Saturday.

"In a women's day room was a cage made of wooden slats with a small door and a padlock," she said. "The cage was about five by five by five and inside sitting on the floor was a woman.

"In the men's ward, I saw men in 'play pens.' "

Soviet Policy

MOSCOW (UPI) — Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev has called a plenary session of the ruling central committee to review foreign and internal policy, party sources said Tuesday.

The plenum will meet for the first time this year next Monday with its 396 members hearing Brezhnev's report on the international and domestic situation and adopting directives for future Soviet policy.

Flood Threat

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Mississippi River, swollen with water from the north, and a day of torrential rainstorms, threatened flood-weary Louisiana today.

Gov. Edwin W. Edwards called out 300 National Guard troops to join 300 guardsmen already on duty today in five cities north and west of New Orleans.

The residents of Morgan City, Jena, Marksville, Jonesville and Opelousas were told to be prepared to evacuate if flooding gets worse.

Reading Will Face Seale In Oakland Mayor Runoff

OAKLAND (UPI) — Mayor John Reading won the most votes when he sought reelection in Tuesday's municipal election but not enough to prevent a runoff against Black Panther Party chairman Bobby Seale.

Final but unofficial tabulations of Oakland's 436 precincts showed the retired Republican business man failed by just 84 votes to win a majority of the ballots in the eight-man race.

He did, however, top Seale by more than 34,000 ballots as he sought his third straight four-year term as mayor of California's fifth largest city.

Because he didn't get 51 per cent of the votes, a runoff between the two leading candidates will be held May 15.

Reading, 55, polled 55,342 ballots to 21,314 for Seale, 36, cofounder of the militant Black Panthers who is making his first bid for public office.

Of the eight in the race, four were black.

This was the first election in which minority groups made up a majority in this industrial city of 362,000 and Seale said he wanted to use the $7,500 a year post as a platform to launch "revolutionaries" who would seek "liberation" across the country through the ballot box.

JOHN READING
In runoff with Seale

Seale shed his guns and power diplomacy during the campaigning for a stand as a liberal politician advocating better housing and lighting conditions and special taxes on capital income, stocks and bonds.

Panthers concentrated most of their election efforts in areas where the black population was the heaviest, providing an automobile fleet to transport voters to the polls.

Blacks make up 35 per cent of Oakland's population and, with other minority groups, outnumber whites.

Seale conducted the most visible campaign, touring the city in motorcades, meeting merchants and shoppers.

He visited city council meetings and addressed civic groups.

His stand was a far cry from the time he was bound and gagged in court during the Chicago Seven riot conspiracy trials following the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

That case against him was dropped. He later was accused of ordering a fellow Panther killed in New Haven, Conn., but that trial ended in a hung jury.

Voting was heavy on a cold but sunny day with 110,851 ballots cast. Counting was delayed by computer problems which Alameda County registrar Rene Davison blamed on human error.

"The county had mistakenly coded the computer to count precincts instead of absentee ballots," he said. "Absentees went into the computer and were rejected. Then we had to start all over again."

There was a two-hour delay.

Godfrey's Protest To Air Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Entertainer Arthur Godfrey says he has stopped making auto commercials for Chrysler Corp. to protest air pollution caused by internal combustion engines.

"The only automobile I could now sell in good conscience is an electric car I have been driving on and off for the past two years in Detroit," Godfrey told a House subcommittee Tuesday.

Chief Restricts Chase Methods

EAST ST.LOUIS, Ill. (UPI) — Police Chief William E. Dye has ordered police not to use firearms and barricades when chasing car thieves.

"It is far better to either delay the arrest or abandon the pursuit rather than injure or kill anyone needlessly," Dye said in the directive, made public Tuesday.

It was issued after the fatal shooting April 7 of a 16-year-old youth who had run a stop sign in a stolen car.

Two Youths Are Cited For Contempt

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas yesterday sent two youths to jail for contempt of court.

Scott Keithan Adams, 19, of 131 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was ordered to serve 12 hours in Marin County Jail for failing to appear last week for a trial he had requested on a traffic ticket.

Adams said he had been ill and had forgotten about the court date. The Judge told Adams he had tied up the court's time and that of the officer summoned to testify against him about the traffic ticket.

After hearing Adams sentenced, a friend, Melvin Douglas Sutton, 19, of 286 Marion Avenue, Mill Valley, shouted an obscenity and slammed out of the courtroom. A bailiff chased him into the hallway. After a brief argument, Sutton was handcuffed and returned to court. Judge Thomas ordered him to serve one day in jail for his outburst.

Moderate-Liberals Turn Back Radicals In Berkeley Election

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Voters have ended the radical April Coalition's chances for a majority on the Berkeley City Council by electing three members of the moderate-liberal Berkeley Four slate and only one radical.

Tuesday's election also saw passage of an initiative easing marijuana penalties. The measure requires the police department to place marijuana law enforcement as its lowest priority.

The Berkeley Four, a faction considered not quite so far left as the April Coalition, had the top three voter getters in the four-seat council race.

Incumbent Susan Hone, who replaced Warren Widner on the council when he became mayor, collected 23,497 votes, followed by Wilmont Sweeney with 23,497 and law professor Henry Ramsey Jr., with 23,067. Sweeney became the first black on the council when he was first elected in 1961.

The one radical April Coalition victor, Ying Lee Kelley, got 21,022 votes. Mrs. Kelley, 41, is a history teacher at a Berkeley junior high. She becomes the fourth radical to be elected to the nine-person council.

Trailing behind Mrs. Kelley was unsuccessful radical Margot Dashiell, 20,803, and Joe Garrett, a Berkeley Four candidate who got 20,069 votes.

A key platform plank in the April Coalition program was "true community control of (all) land use"... through community ownership of land. The group also supported "all struggles by oppressed peoples everywhere against the financial and industrial elites which control our lives."

The Berkeley Four support a need for a municipal income tax and alternatives to the city manager form of government.

The marijuana initiative passed 28,116 to 18,032. The initiative to municipalize Pacific Gas & Electric Co. facilities in the city was heavily defeated, 27,121 to 19,879.

Two of the four initiatives to have more community control over the police were victorious. The measure to require the city council's approval of mutual aid pacts between police and all other law enforcement agencies passed 24,890 to 21,274. Measure 7, which provides for establishment of a police review commission, passed 25,536 to 20,146.

Voters defeated a measure that would have required Berkeley policemen to live in the city of Berkeley, 24,157 to 22,590.

The most radical measure on the ballot, calling for a 30-hour work week for 40 hours pay, was heavily defeated, 39,924 to 6,965.

Angry Students Damage Motel

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — A group of vacationing Texas high school students, angry about an early return home because of misconduct, damaged 31 motel rooms Tuesday.

Forty-one of the 104 students from South Oak Cliff High School in Dallas were arrested. Assistant Police Chief Carl Petry said he expected they would be released after making restitution agreements with the Ramada Inn.

New Punishment

TORBAY, England (UPI) — The Torbay council has approved a new punishment for young lawbreakers. Instead of sending them to a juvenile prison, it plans to sentence them to a vacation in the countryside in a camper purchased by the town.

Reading Will Face Seale In Oakland Mayor Runoff

OAKLAND (UPI) — Mayor John Reading won the most votes when he sought reelection in Tuesday's municipal election but not enough to prevent a runoff against Black Panther Party chairman Bobby Seale.

Final but unofficial tabulations of Oakland's 436 precincts showed the retired Republican business man failed by just 84 votes to win a majority of the ballots in the eight-man race.

He did, however, top Seale by more than 34,000 ballots as he sought his third straight four-year term as mayor of California's fifth largest city.

Because he didn't get 51 per cent of the votes, a runoff between the two leading candidates will be held May 15.

Reading, 55, polled 55,342 ballots to 21,314 for Seale, 36, cofounder of the militant Black Panthers who is making his first bid for public office.

Of the eight in the race, four were black.

This was the first election in which minority groups made up a majority in this industrial city of 362,000 and Seale said he wanted to use the $7,500 a year post as a platform to launch "revolutionaries" who would seek "liberation" across the country through the ballot box.

JOHN READING
In runoff with Seale

Seale shed his guns and power diplomacy during the campaigning for a stand as a liberal politician advocating better housing and lighting conditions and special taxes on capital income, stocks and bonds.

Panthers concentrated most of their election efforts in areas where the black population was the heaviest, providing an automobile fleet to transport voters to the polls.

Blacks make up 35 per cent of Oakland's population and, with other minority groups, outnumber whites.

Seale conducted the most visible campaign, touring the city in motorcades, meeting merchants and shoppers.

He visited city council meetings and addressed civic groups.

His stand was a far cry from the time he was bound and gagged in court during the Chicago Seven riot conspiracy trials following the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

That case against him was dropped. He later was accused of ordering a fellow Panther killed in New Haven, Conn., but that trial ended in a hung jury.

Voting was heavy on a cold but sunny day with 110,851 ballots cast. Counting was delayed by computer problems which Alameda County registrar Rene Davison blamed on human error.

"The county had mistakenly coded the computer to count precincts instead of absentee ballots," he said. "Absentees went into the computer and were rejected. Then we had to start all over again."

There was a two-hour delay.

Godfrey's Protest To Air Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Entertainer Arthur Godfrey says he has stopped making auto commercials for Chrysler Corp. to protest air pollution caused by internal combustion engines.

"The only automobile I could now sell in good conscience is an electric car I have been driving on and off for the past two years in Detroit," Godfrey told a House subcommittee Tuesday.

Chief Restricts Chase Methods

EAST ST.LOUIS, Ill. (UPI) — Police Chief William E. Dye has ordered police not to use firearms and barricades when chasing car thieves.

"It is far better to either delay the arrest or abandon the pursuit rather than injure or kill anyone needlessly," Dye said in the directive, made public Tuesday.

It was issued after the fatal shooting April 7 of a 16-year-old youth who had run a stop sign in a stolen car.

Two Youths Are Cited For Contempt

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas yesterday sent two youths to jail for contempt of court.

Scott Keithan Adams, 19, of 131 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was ordered to serve 12 hours in Marin County Jail for failing to appear last week for a trial he had requested on a traffic ticket.

Adams said he had been ill and had forgotten about the court date. The Judge told Adams he had tied up the court's time and that of the officer summoned to testify against him about the traffic ticket.

After hearing Adams sentenced, a friend, Melvin Douglas Sutton, 19, of 286 Marion Avenue, Mill Valley, shouted an obscenity and slammed out of the courtroom. A bailiff chased him into the hallway. After a brief argument, Sutton was handcuffed and returned to court. Judge Thomas ordered him to serve one day in jail for his outburst.

Moderate-Liberals Turn Back Radicals In Berkeley Election

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Voters have ended the radical April Coalition's chances for a majority on the Berkeley City Council by electing three members of the moderate-liberal Berkeley Four slate and only one radical.

Tuesday's election also saw passage of an initiative easing marijuana penalties. The measure requires the police department to place marijuana law enforcement as its lowest priority.

The Berkeley Four, a faction considered not quite so far left as the April Coalition, had the top three voter getters in the four-seat council race.

Incumbent Susan Hone, who replaced Warren Widner on the council when he became mayor, collected 23,497 votes, followed by Wilmont Sweeney with 23,497 and law professor Henry Ramsey Jr., with 23,067. Sweeney became the first black on the council when he was first elected in 1961.

The one radical April Coalition victor, Ying Lee Kelley, got 21,022 votes. Mrs. Kelley, 41, is a history teacher at a Berkeley junior high. She becomes the fourth radical to be elected to the nine-person council.

Trailing behind Mrs. Kelley was unsuccessful radical Margot Dashiell, 20,803, and Joe Garrett, a Berkeley Four candidate who got 20,069 votes.

A key platform plank in the April Coalition program was "true community control of (all) land use"... through community ownership of land. The group also supported "all struggles by oppressed peoples everywhere against the financial and industrial elites which control our lives."

The Berkeley Four support a need for a municipal income tax and alternatives to the city manager form of government.

The marijuana initiative passed 28,116 to 18,032. The initiative to municipalize Pacific Gas & Electric Co. facilities in the city was heavily defeated, 27,121 to 19,879.

Two of the four initiatives to have more community control over the police were victorious. The measure to require the city council's approval of mutual aid pacts between police and all other law enforcement agencies passed 24,890 to 21,274. Measure 7, which provides for establishment of a police review commission, passed 25,536 to 20,146.

Voters defeated a measure that would have required Berkeley policemen to live in the city of Berkeley, 24,157 to 22,590.

The most radical measure on the ballot, calling for a 30-hour work week for 40 hours pay, was heavily defeated, 39,924 to 6,965.

Angry Students Damage Motel

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — A group of vacationing Texas high school students, angry about an early return home because of misconduct, damaged 31 motel rooms Tuesday.

Forty-one of the 104 students from South Oak Cliff High School in Dallas were arrested. Assistant Police Chief Carl Petry said he expected they would be released after making restitution agreements with the Ramada Inn.

New Punishment

TORBAY, England (UPI) — The Torbay council has approved a new punishment for young lawbreakers. Instead of sending them to a juvenile prison, it plans to sentence them to a vacation in the countryside in a camper purchased by the town.

ROUNDUP

In San Rafael, voters returned City Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan to office, and picked Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the county planning commission, to take the place of the late Harry Barbier.

The victors forecast more planning and a slowdown in the city's growth rate as a result of the mandate.

The $1.5 million bond issue for construction in the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District passed handily.

Of three bond issues on the Marin ballot, Fairfax produced the only winner — a $300,000 measure to finance a new public safety building.

San Anselmo voters, ignoring a trend, turned down a $500,000 open space bond issue, while Novato voters rejected a $4.5 million proposal to control flooding of the type that ravaged part of the city in January.

Throughout the county, voter turnout was "very poor," according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer. He estimated the San Rafael turnout at 38 per cent, and said the figure certainly was lower elsewhere.

He was at a loss to explain the situation, given the sparkling weather and a fairly busy ballot in most areas.

Meyer could give no firm turnout figures because of use for the first time in a California election of two table-top computers to count ballots. The counting went smoothly enough — it was finished by 11:30 p.m., some two hours earlier than with the traditional paper ballots used for local elections — but the machines didn't produce readily available voter turnout figures.

The computers, no larger than a small file cabinet, were rented for the evening from the Computer Election Service Co. at a cost of $1,000, to be put against the purchase cost if the county decides to buy them.

While Meyer expressed satisfaction with their efficiency, he said they are more suitable for smaller elections that don't have diverse ballots.

Wins Election

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cardiss Collins, 41, widow of Rep. George Collins, easily won the Democratic nomination for her husband's vacant 7th Congressional District seat Tuesday.

CHARTER

the residency requirement which candidates for elective office must meet. The proposal, made in accordance with recent court decisions, had been rejected by voters once before.

Proposition E, approved by a vote of 5,242 to 2,937, raises from $2,500 to $3,500 the amount of money the city may spend before being required to call for bids. Voters approved a proposai to hike the lid on public works contracts from $1,500 to $2,500 without formal bidding in 1967.

Proposition G, approved by a vote of 4,465 to 3,510, permits the San Rafael Board of Education to fill its own board vacancies, a power now permitted the board only if the council fails to appoint a replacement within 60 days. Proposition G also provides that the term of an appointment or election in a special election will expire at the next municipal election. Citizens appointed or elected to elective vacancies previously served for the remainder of an unexpired term.

Proposition H, approved by a vote of 4,034 ot 3,832, will allow the city council to set the size of the fire commission by city ordinance and allow city fathers to expand, decrease or abolish the group at will. The commission is now limited to five members. A proposal to expand the commission to seven members was rejected by voters in 1969.

Proposition J, approved by a vote of 3,996 to 3,859, will allow the city council to set the size of the parks and recreation commission by city ordinance and allow city fathers to expand, decrease or abolish the group at will. The commission is now limited to five members. A proposal to expand the commission to seven members was rejected by voters in 1969.

Proposition K, approved by a vote of 3,981 to 3,853, will allow the city council to set the size of the library board by city ordinance and allow city fathers to expand, decrease or abolish the group at will. The board is now limited to five members. A proposal to expand the board to seven members was rejected by voters in 1969.

WATER

in view of a threatened shortage, but added later he believes the district has overcommitted what is termed the agency's "current safe yield" of 26,000 acre feet per year.

"People are fed up with the growth we've had in the last 25 years," he said. "They want reasonable growth, slow growth."

Griffin said he advocates development commensurate with the goals of the Marin Countywide Master Plan, which proposes a slow-growth policy designed to save the county's rural areas.

Griffin said, however, he seeks an end to district ties with the Sonoma Water Agency, with whom the district has unsuccessfully tried to contract for Russian River water.

The board is currently split on whether to go ahead with plans to construct a North Marin intertie, in cooperation with the Sonoma agency, that would bring up to 4,000 acre feet of water into the district annually.

Hauke, in contrast to Griffin, said during the campaign he wouldn't vote for a moratorium on new connections until a bond issue for new supply was decided.

And he said he would consider importing Russian River water if no Marin sources could be found.

While noting last night he still believes planning control functions belong with city and county government, Hauke said yesterday's outcome showed to him that apparently "voters have found these bodies inadequate to do the job."

Sonoma Oppose Fair Proposal

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Plans to move the Renaissance Faire to the border of Sonoma County has drawn strong opposition from the Sonoma Board of Supervisors.

Marin officials asked the board to comment on the plans since the fair would be moved to Highway 101 south of San Antonio Creek at the Sonoma County line.

The supervisors Monday urged total rejection of the plans when they heard that all highway crossover points would be closed between Novato and Petaluma Boulevard South.

Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma said the traffic pattern would cause undue hardships on ranchers who live in the area and would bring further congestion to traffic in Petaluma.

Action On Ridgeland Delayed

Action by the Tiburon Planning Commission on rezoning much of the city's open ridgelands to require developers to set aside open space was delayed last night until an environmental impact report is finished.

A further hearing on the rezoning will be held at the commission's May 7 meeting, according to Richard G. Arjo, director of community development.

The proposed rezoning would create three new zones: residential planned development 1, with densities from one unit per 10 acres to one unit per acre; RPD-2, with 1.1 to 2.5 units per acre, and RPD-3, with three to 13 units per acre.

These zones would replace the planned residential and cluster zones, Arjo said. New densities would conform generally to existing densities for the lands, the only change being the requirement that open space be included whenever possible.

The proposed rezoning covers roughly 400 acres of undeveloped land, most of it on the Tiburon Ridge, said Arjo.

The delay to May 7 was required to give city staff time to prepare a report gauging the impact the rezoning would have on Tiburon's environment, Arjo said.

The commission also approved precise plans last night for a 14-unit apartment building at 48 Lyford Drive. The applicant was Harold Lever, Arjo said.

Four Music Scholarships Set By College

Four full tuition scholarships will be awarded by the Sonoma State College Music Department next month.

Applicants must be students at Sonoma State beginning in the fall and interested persons should apply for admission immediately.

Applications are available at the music department and must be submitted by May 1. The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of grade point average, financial need and promise as a musician. Applicants must have at least a B average in high school or college.

Auditions will be held May 14 and winners will be announced.

Piea Made To Felony Charge

A 25-year-old Tiburon man, thought to have stolen two valuable Oriental rugs from a Belvedere home, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony grand theft charge.

Preliminary hearing for Raymond David Clawson Jr. was then set for April 26.

Belvedere police arrested him Monday after investigating the disappearance of the rugs valued at a total of $2,000 from the home of Lucille Bryan of 4 Lagoon Road during the previous week.

Police said they still are looking for others, who may have been involved.

Prime Interest Rates Are Hiked

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major banks raised their prime interest rates Tuesday from 6 ½ to 6 ¾ per cent following new interest guidelines set up Monday by the Nixon administration.

The prime rate is that which banks charge their most creditworthy corporate customers.

Among those raising rates were Chase Manhattan and Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York, and the First National Bank of Boston.

Copter Line Adds Four New Flights

SFO Helicopter Airlines, Inc. of Oakland has announced the addition of four new flights to its commuter service between San Francisco Airport and Marin County.

From San Francisco Airport to Marin County, flights have been added at 9:37 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. From Marin to the airport, flights are now scheduled at 9:52 p.m. and 5:45 p.m.

Recreation Panel Postpones Meeting

The regular meeting of the Sausalito Recreation Commission, scheduled for tomorrow, will not be held due to lack of a quorum.

The session has been postponed until April 26 at 8 p.m. in city hall, according to Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works.

COUNCIL

will break the deadlock situation the council has often been confronted with since the death of Harry A. Barbier last fall. The council, which failed to agree on a replacement for Barbier's seat at that time, called a special election to fill the seat and consolidated it with yesterday's municipal election to coincide with the expiration of Barbier's term.

O'Toole, who also appeared surprised at Nixon's margin of victory, declared that he will not run for election to the council again. "This is it," he said.

"The conservationists got it . . . the ones who want to save the hills," he said. He praised his volunteers for running hard-fought campaign, saying "never once were we sneaky or dirty."

O'Toole said his campaign fund — at issue because he did not disclose its amount before the election — "did not figure in the race in my opinion." Unlike other candidates, O'Toole declined to disclose the extent of his financial backing, although he did announce names of his contributors.

Mulryan and Nixon said O'Toole's failure to disclose specific contributions offered by backers and the total of his campaign fund probably affected his margin of defeat. "It cast a shadow of a doubt over Tom for some people," said Nixon, adding, however, that the issue was not a deciding factor in the race. Mulryan said that state law, which requires revelation of financial backing after local elections, is "too lenient" and should require that candidates make such disclosures before the election. "Tom made a mistake," he said.

"We never said anything about Mulryan and Nixon during the campaign and we have nothing to say about them now," said Andrea Boggs, O'Toole's campaign coordinator.

Victims Of Auto Accidents Satisfactory

Two persons were reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital after suffering injuries in separate automobile accidents yesterday, according to hospital authorities.

John A. Hanson, 9, of 15 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, was admitted at 3:45 p.m. after suffering head injuries as a result of a fall from a moving car, the hospital said.

Loren Krogh, 25, of 6 Nave Court, Novato, was transferred at 5:17 p.m. from Sonoma. He received cuts on his forehead and scalp and numerous scrapes in a car crash, according to the hospital report.

Details of the accidents were not available.

Entry Case To Superior Court

Richard Sheldon Knowles, 21, of Fairfax, was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of breaking into a San Rafael home.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of municipal Court ordered him to appear next Wednesday.

Knowles was arrested April 6 after Paul Hillesheim of 50 Miraflores Avenue returned home and flushed a man from his home. The man fled, but Hillesheim followed and cornered Knowles in nearby bushes.

He was then turned over to San Rafael police.

Consolidation Plan Opposed

The Marin Conservation League has denounced proposed consolidation of county departments.

The league's board of directors declared Monday night that lumping the planning and parks and recreation departments under the public works department would amount to downgrading planning, parks and open space.

The proposal by County Administrator John Barrows, the board said, would "impose cumbersome, unresponsive controls."

Cadogan Named To Fire Board

Edwin A. Cadogan has been reappointed to the Bolinas Fire Protection District Board, replacing the man who defeated him in an election for the board post.

Cadogan, a former College of Marin instructor, was named to succeed Daniel E. Smith, who resigned, at the board's Monday session.

Smith, a truck driver, defeated Cadogan in the November 1971 election.

FLOOD

done made the tiny difference that doomed the proposal.

"It's a shame," declared Marin County Board of Supervisors Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, a Novato resident.

"There's really no other way of solving the problem. I'm at a loss to decide what to do next," Baptiste added. He had strongly supported the bond measure.

Only slightly more than 31 per cent of the 16,770 eligible voters cast ballots on the issue, despite Novato's flood troubles in January.

"We had to include the hillsides as well as the flatlands" in the 44-square mile area voting on the project, Baptiste noted. "Until I can analyze the precincts, I don't know where we fell down."

The area to be taxed by the bond included Black Point, Indian Valley and other neighborhoods far removed from the flooding effects of Novato Creek.

Novato City Councilman George C. Quesada was the lone official critic of the bond issue, demanding more specific plans for the flood control work before putting the bond issue before voters. There was no opposition argument on the ballot.

Yesterday's vote was far closer than the flood control measure on the ballot in 1958, when a $900,000 bond issue lost by a vote of 1,400 to 333.

Police Officer Hired In Cotati

The Cotati City Council last night hired Clemente Melgarejo as a police officer.

Under a new personnel policy, all hirings and firings must be done by the city council.

In San Rafael, voters returned City Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan to office, and picked Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the county planning commission, to take the place of the late Harry Barbier.

The victors forecast more planning and a slowdown in the city's growth rate as a result of the mandate.

The $1.5 million bond issue for construction in the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District passed handily.

Of three bond issues on the Marin ballot, Fairfax produced the only winner — a $300,000 measure to finance a new public safety building.

San Anselmo voters, ignoring a trend, turned down a $500,000 open space bond issue, while Novato voters rejected a $4.5 million proposal to control flooding of the type that ravaged part of the city in January.

Throughout the county, voter turnout was "very poor," according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer. He estimated the San Rafael turnout at 38 per cent, and said the figure certainly was lower elsewhere.

He was at a loss to explain the situation, given the sparkling weather and a fairly busy ballot in most areas.

Meyer could give no firm turnout figures because of use for the first time in a California election of two table-top computers to count ballots. The counting went smoothly enough — it was finished by 11:30 p.m., some two hours earlier than with the traditional paper ballots used for local elections — but the machines didn't produce readily available voter turnout figures.

The computers, no larger than a small file cabinet, were rented for the evening from the Computer Election Service Co. at a cost of $1,000, to be put against the purchase cost if the county decides to buy them.

While Meyer expressed satisfaction with their efficiency, he said they are more suitable for smaller elections that don't have diverse ballots.

Wins Election

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cardiss Collins, 41, widow of Rep. George Collins, easily won the Democratic nomination for her husband's vacant 7th Congressional District seat Tuesday.

CHARTER

the residency requirement which candidates for elective office must meet. The proposal, made in accordance with recent court decisions, had been rejected by voters once before.

Proposition E, approved by a vote of 5,242 to 2,937, raises from $2,500 to $3,500 the amount of money the city may spend before being required to call for bids. Voters approved a proposal to hike the lid on public works contracts from $1,500 to $2,500 without formal bidding in 1967.

Proposition G, approved by a vote of 4,465 to 3,510, permits the San Rafael Board of Education to fill its own board vacancies, a power now permitted the board only if the council fails to appoint a replacement within 60 days. Proposition G also provides that the term of an appointment or election in a special election will expire at the next municipal election. Citizens appointed or elected to elective vacancies previously served for the remainder of an unexpired term.

Proposition H, approved by a vote of 4,034 ot 3,832, will allow the city council to set the size of the fire commission by city ordinance and allow city fathers to expand, decrease or abolish the group at will. The commission is now limited to five members. A proposal to expand the commission to seven members was rejected by voters in 1969.

Proposition J, approved by a vote of 3,996 to 3,859, will allow the city council to set the size of the parks and recreation commission by city ordinance and allow city fathers to expand, decrease or abolish the group at will. The commission is now limited to five members. A proposal to expand the commission to seven members was rejected by voters in 1969.

Proposition K, approved by a vote of 3,981 to 3,853, will allow the city council to set the size of the library board by city ordinance and allow city fathers to expand, decrease or abolish the group at will. The board is now limited to five members. A proposal to expand the board to seven members was rejected by voters in 1969.

WATER

in view of a threatened shortage, but added later he believes the district has overcommitted what is termed the agency's "current safe yield" of 26,000 acre feet per year.

"People are fed up with the growth we've had in the last 25 years," he said. "They want reasonable growth, slow growth."

Griffin said he advocates development commensurate with the goals of the Marin Countywide Master Plan, which proposes a slow-growth policy designed to save the county's rural areas.

Griffin said, however, he seeks an end to district ties with the Sonoma Water Agency, with whom the district has unsuccessfully tried to contract for Russian River water.

The board is currently split on whether to go ahead with plans to construct a North Marin intertie, in cooperation with the Sonoma agency, that would bring up to 4,000 acre feet of water into the district annually.

Hauke, in contrast to Griffin, said during the campaign he wouldn't vote for a moratorium on new connections until a bond issue for new supply was decided.

And he said he would consider importing Russian River water if no Marin sources could be found.

While noting last night he still believes planning control functions belong with city and county government, Hauke said yesterday's outcome showed to him that apparently "voters have found these bodies inadequate to do the job."

Sonoma Oppose Fair Proposal

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Plans to move the Renaissance Faire to the border of Sonoma County has drawn strong opposition from the Sonoma Board of Supervisors.

Marin officials asked the board to comment on the plans since the fair would be moved to Highway 101 south of San Antonio Creek at the Sonoma County line.

The supervisors Monday urged total rejection of the plans when they heard that all highway crossover points would be closed between Novato and Petaluma Boulevard South.

Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma said the traffic pattern would cause undue hardships on ranchers who live in the area and would bring further congestion to traffic in Petaluma.

Action On Ridgeland Delayed

Action by the Tiburon Planning Commission on rezoning much of the city's open ridgelands to require developers to set aside open space was delayed last night until an environmental impact report is finished.

A further hearing on the rezoning will be held at the commission's May 7 meeting, according to Richard G. Arjo, director of community development.

The proposed rezoning would create three new zones: residential planned development 1, with densities from one unit per 10 acres to one unit per acre; RPD-2, with 1.1 to 2.5 units per acre, and RPD-3, with three to 13 units per acre.

These zones would replace the planned residential and cluster zones, Arjo said. New densities would conform generally to existing densities for the lands, the only change being the requirement that open space be included whenever possible.

The proposed rezoning covers roughly 400 acres of undeveloped land, most of it on the Tiburon Ridge, said Arjo.

The delay to May 7 was required to give city staff time to prepare a report gauging the impact the rezoning would have on Tiburon's environment, Arjo said.

The commission also approved precise plans last night for a 14-unit apartment building at 48 Lyford Drive. The applicant was Harold Lever, Arjo said.

Four Music Scholarships Set By College

Four full tuition scholarships will be awarded by the Sonoma State College Music Department next month.

Applicants must be students at Sonoma State beginning in the fall and interested persons should apply for admission immediately.

Applications are available at the music department and must be submitted by May 1. The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of grade point average, financial need and promise as a musician. Applicants must have at least a B average in high school or college.

Auditions will be held May 14 and winners will be announced.

Plea Made To Felony Charge

A 25-year-old Tiburon man, thought to have stolen two valuable Oriental rugs from a Belvedere home, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony grand theft charge.

Preliminary hearing for Raymond David Clawson Jr. was then set for April 26.

Belvedere police arrested him Monday after investigating the disappearance of the rugs valued at a total of $2,000 from the home of Lucille Bryan of 4 Lagoon Road during the previous week.

Police said they still are looking for others, who may have been involved.

Prime Interest Rates Are Hiked

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major banks raised their prime interest rates Tuesday from 6 ½ to 6 ¾ per cent following new interest guidelines set up Monday by the Nixon administration.

The prime rate is that which banks charge their most creditworthy corporate customers.

Among those raising rates were Chase Manhattan and Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York, and the First National Bank of Boston.

Copter Line Adds Four New Flights

SFO Helicopter Airlines, Inc. of Oakland has announced the addition of four new flights to its commuter service between San Francisco Airport and Marin County.

From San Francisco Airport to Marin County, flights have been added at 9:37 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. From Marin to the airport, flights are now scheduled at 9:52 p.m. and 5:45 p.m.

Recreation Panel Postpones Meeting

The regular meeting of the Sausalito Recreation Commission, scheduled for tomorrow, will not be held due to lack of a quorum.

The session has been postponed until April 26 at 8 p.m. in city hall, according to Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works.

will break the deadlock situation the council has often been confronted with since the death of Harry A. Barbier last fall. The council, which failed to agree on a replacement for Barbier's seat at that time, called a special election to fill the seat and consolidated it with yesterday's municipal election to coincide with the expiration of Barbier's term.

O'Toole, who also appeared surprised at Nixon's margin of victory, declared that he will not run for election to the council again. "This is it," he said.

"The conservationists got it . . . the ones who want to save the hills," he said. He praised his volunteers for running hard-fought campaign, saying "never once were we sneaky or dirty."

O'Toole said his campaign fund — at issue because he did not disclose its amount before the election — "did not figure in the race in my opinion." Unlike other candidates, O'Toole declined to disclose the extent of his financial backing, although he did announce names of his contributors.

Mulryan and Nixon said O'Toole's failure to disclose specific contributions offered by backers and the total of his campaign fund probably affected his margin of defeat. "It cast a shadow of a doubt over Tom for some people," said Nixon, adding, however, that the issue was not a deciding factor in the race. Mulryan said that state law, which requires revelation of financial backing after local elections, is "too lenient" and should require that candidates make such disclosures before the election. "Tom made a mistake," he said.

"We never said anything about Mulryan and Nixon during the campaign and we have nothing to say about them now," said Andrea Boggs, O'Toole's campaign coordinator.

Victims Of Auto Accidents Satisfactory

Two persons were reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital after suffering injuries in separate automobile accidents yesterday, according to hospital authorities.

John A. Hanson, 9, of 15 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, was admitted at 3:45 p.m. after suffering head injuries as a result of a fall from a moving car, the hospital said.

Loren Krogh, 25, of 6 Nave Court, Novato, was transferred at 5:17 p.m. from Sonoma. He received cuts on his forehead and scalp and numerous scrapes in a car crash, according to the hospital report.

Details of the accidents were not available.

Entry Case To Superior Court

Richard Sheldon Knowles, 21, of Fairfax, was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of breaking into a San Rafael home.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of municipal Court ordered him to appear next Wednesday.

Knowles was arrested April 6 after Paul Hillesheim of 50 Miraflores Avenue returned home and flushed a man from his home. The man fled, but Hillesheim followed and cornered Knowles in nearby bushes.

He was then turned over to San Rafael police.

Consolidation Plan Opposed

The Marin Conservation League has denounced proposed consolidation of county departments.

The league's board of directors declared Monday night that lumping the planning and parks and recreation departments under the public works department would amount to downgrading planning, parks and open space.

The proposal by County Administrator John Barrows, the board said, would "impose cumbersome, unresponsive controls."

Cadogan Named To Fire Board

Edwin A. Cadogan has been reappointed to the Bolinas Fire Protection District Board, replacing the man who defeated him in an election for the board post.

Cadogan, a former College of Marin instructor, was named to succeed Daniel E. Smith, who resigned, at the board's Monday session.

Smith, a truck driver, defeated Cadogan in the November 1971 election.

Private memorial service for Ray E. Henfling, a former College of Marin trustee and manager of the Borden Dairy Co. in San Rafael, was held yesterday.

Henfling, 64, died Monday at a San Francisco sanatorium.

He was born in Fresno and came to Marin in 1942 with his wife, Eloise. They built a house on Grand Avenue, where they lived until 1951, when they moved to San Jose.

During his years in Marin, Henfling served on the College of Marin board of trustees and as president of the San Rafael Rotary Club. He was employed as manager of the Borden Dairy Co. in San Rafael.

For the past 10 years Henfling had been administrator of the Christian Science Benevolent Association on the Pacific Coast in San Francisco, a sanatorium for treatment of persons of the Christian Science faith.

In addition to his wife, who lives in Walnut Creek, Henfling is survived by two daughters, Sally Fedde of Campbell and Sue Johnston of Sacramento.

The family prefers contributions to the Christian Science Benevolent Association on the Pacific Coast.

FLOOD

done made the tiny difference that doomed the proposal.

"It's a shame," declared Marin County Board of Supervisors Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, a Novato resident.

"There's really no other way of solving the problem. I'm at a loss to decide what to do next," Baptiste added. He had strongly supported the bond measure.

Only slightly more than 31 per cent of the 16,770 eligible voters cast ballots on the issue, despite Novato's flood troubles in January.

"We had to include the hillsides as well as the flatlands" in the 44-square mile area voting on the project, Baptiste noted. "Until I can analyze the precincts, I don't know where we fell down."

The area to be taxed by the bond included Black Point, Indian Valley and other neighborhoods far removed from the flooding effects of Novato Creek.

Novato City Councilman George C. Quesada was the lone official critic of the bond issue, demanding more specific plans for the flood control work before putting the bond issue before voters. There was no opposition argument on the ballot.

Yesterday's vote was far closer than the flood control measure on the ballot in 1958, when a $900,000 bond issue lost by a vote of 1,400 to 333.

Police Officer Hired In Cotati

The Cotati City Council last night hired Clemente Melgarejo as a police officer.

Melgarejo, 26, has a bachelor's degree in psychology from Sonoma State College. He is a resident of Rohnert Park and has been a member of the Cotati reserve police. He will receive a salary of $640 per month and will replace an officer fired by the council last month.

Under a new personnel policy, all hirings and firings must be done by the city council.

Xerox Strikers Near Agreement

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Negotiators for 4,800 striking employes reached a tentative contract agreement with the Xerox Corp. Tuesday night.

A union spokesman said the striking workers, members of Local 14A of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, would not return to their jobs until the contract was ratified by a membership vote Saturday.

Gains Eagle rank

San Rafael Scout Due Eagle Rank

Stephen Foehr, 17, junior assistant scoutmaster of Scout Troop 18, will be given the Eagle rank at 7:30 p.m. April 25 in Scout Hall, San Rafael.

Foehr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foehr, 12 Culloden Park Road, San Rafael, is a junior at San Rafael High School where he is a member of the band and track team.

Since he joined the troop in June of 1967, he has served as patrol leader, senior patrol leader and now as junior assistant scoutmaster.

Foehr has been an active member of the Takalo Lodge of the Order of the Arrow and has served on its dance committee and is currently chairman of the Indian Lore Committee. During the summers of 1971 and 1972 he was a staff member at the Marin-Sierra Scout Summer Camp. This year he will be on the staff of the Cubs' Day Camp at Tamarancho near Fairfax.

For his Eagle project, Foehr taught Sunday School at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

Before joining Troop 18, he was a Cub and a Webelo.

His hobbies include archery and camping.

Flood Zone Is Created In Novato

The Novato City Council last night adopted an emergency ordinance creating a floodway zone to control building on flood plains to prevent additional flooding.

The zone covers the area of last winter's flooding, generally along South Novato Boulevard from Diablo Avenue to Sunset Parkway, where a moratorium has been placed on building until June 6.

The ordinance, effective immediately, prohibits any building which would cause flood damage, greater than 1 per cent of the value of adjacent land or .5 per cent of the value of adjacent structures.

Thomas Gruhn of 1253 Yukon Way said the provisions should apply to the cumulative flooding caused by several developments in an area, not just a single development, and developers should be required to put up a bond to cover any flood damage they cause.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg described the ordinance "as probably the best we can do under the circumstances," and advised that tougher restrictions might leave the city subject to inverse condemnation suits by developers.

Public works director Clifford E. Temps said the next step is to apply the new zone to properties in the area, and requested a 90-day extension of the moratorium.

The council will consider extending the moratorium at its May 1 meeting.

Council May Reactivate Airport Unit

With Hamilton Air Force Base to go on reserve status and talk of commercial use there rekindled, the Novato City Council will consider reactivating the city airport committee.

Joseph Seminario, chairman of Marin Alert, which opposed joint commercial-military use of the base, urged reactivating the committee to study possible uses at the base.

His request was backed by Virgil Birdsall, chairman of the North Marin unit of the Marin Conservation League and Alfred Rivasplata, president of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg suggested "that we wait until the dust settles." He said he believes the military will be at the base "for a long time to come . . . and I don't think there will be an opportunity for alternate uses."

(The Novato City Council last year opposed joint civilian military use at the base.)

Councilmen agreed to notify former committee members to see if they want to serve and will consider appointments at a closed session at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House.

A Family Tragedy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Doris Britzker, 20, heard someone enter her house in the night Tuesday and called out, "Who's there?" When no one answered, she grabbed a shotgun and fired five times toward the sound of approaching footsteps, killing her father, Harold Britzker, 53.

Novato Sees No Conflict In Commercial Development Plans

The Novato City Council, apparently satisfied as to absence of conflict with the city's downtown plan, last night introduced an ordinance to zone 33.7 acres at a future freeway interchange for commercial development.

Novato Center Inc. is seeking the zoning at the future Highway 101-Rowland Boulevard interchange as the key to development of the 455-acre Hanna Ranch, northeast of Highways 101 and 37.

Richard R. Hanna, president of Novato Center, notified the council the firm will demonstrate the proposed retail uses are the type that wouldn't locate in the downtown area.

At previous meetings, the firm has said it is seeking highway-oriented businesses, such as Levitz Furniture, and there was comment that the site would be suitable for a K-Mart store.

Under the proposed ordinance, 79 acres between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Co. tracks, will be zoned for light industrial, which will permit not only industry but a proposed golf driving range, tennis center, office area and motel-convention center.

East of the railroad, the firm plans a 218-acre public golf course, a 68.3-acre lake and park area and 15.8-acre mobile coach park for travelers.

The Novato City Council Also:

REVENUE SHARING — Received the results of a survey of 90 residents on how they want the city's $115,000 in federal revenue sharing funds allocated, with street improvements ranked first; recreation facilities, second; land acquisition for parks and open space, third; reducing taxes, fourth, and Civic Center improvements, fifth.

COUNCIL PAY — Adopted an ordinance raising the salary of councilmen from $150 to $200 a month, which will become effective after municipal elections in April 1974.

UNDERGROUND — Adopted resolutions forming underground utility districts along DeLong Avenue from Redwood Boulevard to Reichart Avenue and along East Grant Avenue from Redwood Boulevard to Scott Street by a 4-1 vote with Councilman George C. Quesada dissefting because an adjacent sector wasn't included.

WOODLANDS — Postponed until June 19 prezoning the 67-acre Woodlands Co. property opposite 496 Olive Avenue.

ANNEXATION — Set June 5 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on annexation of 13.33 acres along Eucalyptus Avenue, south of Center Road and west of St. Francis Avenue.

ROAD PROJECTS — Approved plans for widening Center Road between Stanford Court and Wilson Avenue and landscaping along Novato Boulevard from San Miguel Way and San Marin Drive.

DELEGATES — Appointed F. Wayne Sartain as the city delegate and David Price Jones as alternate delegate to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

CONFERENCE — Voted to contribute $25 to an environmental conference in Marin May 19.

FILING FEE — Postponed until May 1 final action on an ordinance to establish a $25 fee for filing nomination papers for elective city offices by a 3-2 vote with Jones and Dorothy P. Young opposing the delay.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Monday to a closed session to consider appointments to a reactivated city airport committee and open session at 8 p.m. to continue review of the Novato General Plan map.

Consumer Unrest Seen Worsening

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Consumer Affairs will begin watchdogging "significant" hearings of the Public Utilities Commission, Director John T. Kehoe said Tuesday.

"For too long the PUC has been considered the 'protector of business' and this idea must either be discarded through careful analysis or exposed as true and corrected," said Kehoe.

"Department personnel will attend and monitor the activities of the PUC and join as appropriate in the actions as an 'interested party'," the director said in a prepared statement.

The PUC has wide ranging control over rates, jurisdictions and planning by California's electric, water, gas, telephone and airline industries, among others.

Miniature War At Wounded Knee

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Members of the Indian force occupying Wounded Knee exchanged "thousands of rounds" of gunfire with federal agents Tuesday and at least two persons from inside the village were wounded.

One of the injured was hospitalized in Rapid City, S.D., in "very critical condition." Hospital officials said the man, "apparently white," underwent surgery for a head wound. The second injured man, shot in the hand, remained in the village of Wounded Knee. Neither man was identified.

There were reports that there might have been other injuries.

Tuesday's exchange of gunfire ended an uneasy, threeweek truce at the tiny hamlet on the Oglala Sioux reservation.

Although Tuesday's firefight was the first announced violation of a three-week cease-fire, government sources said there had been unannounced sporadic gunfire almost every night during the truce.

The government said the shooting, which went on for hours, started when Indians fired on an FBI helicopter. The shooting began about two hours after three small planes dropped supplies into the besieged hamlet by parachute at dawn. The shooting stopped, government sources said, at 5:40 p.m. MST.

Stanley Pottinger, the chief federal negotiator, gave a briefing of the incident for newsmen.

"Federal forces during the heavy firing ceased fire three times unilaterally and simultaneously requested Wounded Knee to cease. There was no response," Pottinger said. "The marshals maintained their policy of protective firing only."

Asked about reports that Indians from the settlement had "charged" federal positions, Pottinger said some of them did get out of the bunkers and run toward federal forces, but then ran back to the bunkers.

"The action taken was aggressive," he said.

Pottinger said the "most serious aspect" of Tuesday's exchange of gunfire was that "they don't seem to have command constraints" in the village.

Nixon Now Ready To Let Ax Fall In The Watergate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bowing to mounting pressure from all sides, President Nixon has begun a personal investigation of the Watergate bugging case and said he will fire anyone in the government who is guilty.

"I condemn any attempts to cover up in this case, no matter who is involved," Nixon said in a three-minute statement to reporters yesterday.

Amplifying Nixon's remarks, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler strongly hinted that some presidential aides would be dismissed.

Republicans, who had been demanding that Nixon clean up the Watergate affair, expressed satisfaction and relief. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., the 1964 presidential candidate, who said a week ago that the nation was beginning to think Nixon "is trying to hide something," said:

"I am very pleased that President Nixon has made it possible for us to get to the bottom of the Watergate situation."

In another development, President Nixon's campaign organization reportedly has offered a $525,000 out-of-court settlement of a suit filed by the Democrats in connection with the Watergate bugging.

The Democrats slapped Nixon's reelection committee with a $6.4 million civil damage suit after the political expionage was uncovered. If the Democrats accept the settlement, the trial expected to begin in June would not be held. The Republicans apparently are anxious to avoid a summer re-run of the criminal trial earlier this year in which seven persons were convicted or pleaded guilty in the case.

Nixon ordered all White House aides to testify before a Senate investigating committee and took out of their hands any further investigation of the June 17 bugging of the Democratic national headquarters.

Several past and present members of the White House staff and the Committee to Reelect the President have been mentioned in connection with the bugging as well as other alleged acts of political espionage and sabotage during the 1972 presidential campaign.

After months of declaring full faith in his staff and saying he would not permit their testimony before the Senate committee, Nixon finally spoke amid a flurry of criticism from within his own party and press reports that other White House aides were involved.

"If any person in the executive branch or in the government is indicted by the grand jury, my policy will be to immediately suspend him. If he is convicted, he will, of course, be automatically discharged," Nixon said.

"I have expressed to the appropriate authorities my view that no individual holding, in the past or at the present, a position of major importance in the administration should be given immunity from prosecution."

Nixon told reporters Aug. 29 that an investigation conducted by White House Counsel John W. Dean III at his request had revealed that "no one in the White House, no one in this administration, presently employed," was involved in the Watergate break-in.

Ziegler said this and other Nixon statements were based on information he had at the time and did not take into account the results of subsequent investigation.

Nixon said he began "intensive new investigations" on March 21, the day convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. sent Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica a letter saying government witnesses had committed perjury during the January trial and that "political pressures" had been exerted for the defendants to plead guilty and remain silent.

Nixon said he and Assistant Attorney General Henry W. Peterson, who is assisting him in the investigation, conferred Sunday afternoon about the case.

"I can report today that there have been major developments in the case concerning which it would be improper to be more specific now, except to say that real progress has been made in finding the truth," Nixon said.

Ziegler said no one on the White House staff has resigned as a result of the investigation and that all staff members were performing their regular duties.

Nixon spoke to reporters 24 hours after the Senate's Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities adopted guidelines providing for open, sworn testimony from all witnesses in the hearings to begin about May 15. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the chairman, said he refused to back down from his demands that White House aides appear under the same rules.

Man Decides To Take Judge's Car

CHICAGO (UPI) — Joseph Condon, 32, left the courtroom a free man Tuesday after Judge John F. Reeynolds dismissed disorderly conduct charges against him, but was arrested minutes later and charged with stealing the judge's car.

Condon of Trevose Heights, Pa., took Reynolds' Cadillac shortly after leaving the courtroom, and was arrested minutes later at a service station about four blocks away, police said. Condon was charged with auto theft.

Martha Now Claims She Fears Of Being 'Killed'

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell fears she would be "killed tomorrow" if she told all she knows about the Watergate bugging case.

The wife of John N. Mitchell, the former attorney general and campaign manager to President Nixon, made the remark yesterday after she picked up the telephone in her New York City apartment and called this reporter in Washington.

"I'm not kidding, I fear for my life," Mrs. Mitchell said. She said she had "so much to tell" but "I'm afraid I'd be killed tomorrow."

Mrs. Mitchell said she had had threats against her life — "even this afternoon." She would not elaborate.

Her call came a short time after Nixon at a White House briefing announced he was personally conducting a new Watergate investigation and implied some of his own aides may have been involved in the political espionage case.

Mrs. Mitchell expressed a fondness for Nixon but said he was "surrounded by a bunch of kooks."

She said she found it "incredible" that Nixon did not name high officials involved.

As her daughter, Marty, 11, tried to get her to hang up, Mrs. Mitchell repeated her fears that "they're trying to nail my husband" with the blame in the Watergate affair.

"I think they're going to try to blame it on my John," she said.

Mitchell was Nixon's campaign manager at the time of the break-in at Democratic national headquarters last June 17. Mitchell resigned shortly thereafter, but has insisted he knew nothing about the burglary and wiretapping, which led to the conviction of Nixon campaign aides.

Mrs. Mitchell spoke derisively of the "little boys at the White House" and expressed anger at "what they've done to me."

She accused White House aides of being instrumental in sending her son, Lt. Jay Jennings, to Vietnam, where she said he engaged in severe fighting.

Mrs. Mitchell expressed anger when she was told that White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had denied that Mitchell met with Nixon at the White House last Saturday.

"That's a goddamn lie," she said.

She said Nixon himself called Mitchell Saturday morning and asked him to come to Washington. She said that Mitchell speaks on the telephone with Nixon daily.

Mrs. Mitchell said she wanted to testify herself about the Watergate case.

"I can sit down and tell a story that will flabbergast you," she said. "I can't wait to get up on the hill and tell them what I know."

Miniature War At Wounded Knee

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Members of the Indian force occupying Wounded Knee exchanged "thousands of rounds" of gunfire with federal agents Tuesday and at least two persons from inside the village were wounded.

One of the injured was hospitalized in Rapid City, S.D., in "very critical condition." Hospital officials said the man, "apparently white," underwent surgery for a head wound. The second injured man, shot in the hand, remained in the village of Wounded Knee. Neither man was identified.

There were reports that there might have been other injuries.

Tuesday's exchange of gunfire ended an uneasy, threeweek truce at the tiny hamlet on the Oglala Sioux reservation.

Although Tuesday's firefight was the first announced violation of a three-week cease-fire, government sources said there had been unannounced sporadic gunfire almost every night during the truce.

The government said the shooting, which went on for hours, started when Indians fired on an FBI helicopter. The shooting began about two hours after three small planes dropped supplies into the besieged hamlet by parachute at dawn. The shooting stopped, government sources said, at 5:40 p.m. MST.

Stanley Pottinger, the chief federal negotiator, gave a briefing of the incident for newsmen.

"Federal forces during the heavy firing ceased fire three times unilaterally and simultaneously requested Wounded Knee to cease. There was no response," Pottinger said. "The marshals maintained their policy of protective firing only."

Asked about reports that Indians from the settlement had "charged" federal positions, Pottinger said some of them did get out of the bunkers and run toward federal forces, but then ran back to the bunkers.

"The action taken was aggressive," he said.

Pottinger said the "most serious aspect" of Tuesday's exchange of gunfire was that "they don't seem to have command constraints" in the village.

Smog Device State Costs Criticized

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The cost of equipping California cars with a new, federally required smog device should be borne by all Americans, not just those living in California, says the state's top environmental official.

Resources Secretary Norman B. Livermore made the statement Tuesday in response to last week's announcement by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that California would have separate emission standards from the remainder of the nation in 1975.

In a letter to EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, Livermore suggested the cost involved in meeting the tougher California standards be distributed throughout the nation with equal price hikes for 1975 cars.

By that year, all new cars sold in California must be equipped with a catalytic converter, designed to reduce emissions of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide.

"Since the requirements are part of a federal program under which Californians are being required to provide catalytic converter experience in 1975 for the whole nation, it would only be fair to spread the cost to purchasers of 1975 models nationwide," said Livermore in a statement.

Work Launched In Belvedere On Revising Zoning Ordinance

The Belvedere Planning Commission has begun work on revising its zoning ordinance and set an adjourned meeting on the matter for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the community center.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said commissioners briefly discussed the proposed ordinance changes Monday but decided they need more time to study them.

The new ordinance would incorporate various suggestions of the planning firm of Livingston and Blayney in their Belvedere planning study, completed in November 1971.

The suggested new ordinance is a combination of the Livingston and Blayney report along with work by Cavalli and Robert A. Switzer, a summer intern hired last year by Belvedere.

Under the proposed ordinance, two new zones would be created: open space and cove multiple dwelling zones. The latter would differ from the regular multiple-family dwelling zone in that it would allow professional offices, churches, club buildings and apartment offices with a use permit.

Height limits for structures would be reduced from 42 to 36 feet in the multiple zone and from 32 to 28 feet in all other zones.

A new provision of the proposed ordinance is one limiting the amount of land which can be covered by buildings. It is proposed that no more than 50 per cent lot coverage be allowed in the R-15 zone (covering steep slopes), the single-family zone and the commercial zone and 60 per cent in the multiple family and R-2 (duplex) zones.

Also under consideration are minimum requirements for lot sizes as compared to the number of apartment units. Thus, 4,000 square feet would be required for each unit of three or more bedrooms and 3,000 square feet for one or two-bedroom units in the R-2 zone.

In the multiple zones, 3,000 square feet would be required for three or more bedrooms, 2,500 square feet for each two-bedroom unit and 2,000 square feet for each one-bedroom unit.

The proposed ordinance also would require that each apartment bring with it 300 or 200 square feet of open space, depending on zone.

These suggested amendments to the zoning ordinance and others which may be advanced will be considered by the planning commission at a series of workshop sessions, Cavalli said, and ultimately will be forwarded to the city council for review.

Miss MacLaine said she had been invited by the Peking government to "bring a delegation of regular American women to meet regular Chinese women...In China the equality of women is an official fact, an academic fact. In America we have not achieved it. I'm just curious to see how it all compares."

Actress Leading Group To China

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Shirley MacLaine, leading a group of 12 "regular American women," left Tuesday for China, where she said they expect to see "and applaud" the "only successful achievement of women's equality."

Miss MacLaine said she had been invited by the Peking government to "bring a delegation of regular American women to meet regular Chinese women...In China the equality of women is an official fact, an academic fact. In America we have not achieved it. I'm just curious to see how it all compares."

Death Penalty

LONDON (UPI) — Parliament began work on legislation Tuesday to abolish the death penalty in Northern Ireland, one week after it rejected a proposal to restore capital punishment in Britain.

Safeway's Mrs. Wright's Easy-Scoop Biscuits

Recipe Compliments of Ladies' Luncheon League

- 2½ Cups Mrs. Wrights Biscuit Mix
- ⅓ Cup Lucerne Instant Non-fat Dry Milk
- 1½ Tablespoons Sugar
- ¾ Cup of Water

Just mix all the ingredients with a fork in one bowl. The dough will be very wet . . . that's the way it should be. Scoop out the dough with a small ice cream scoop and place the biscuits on a cookie sheet (if you line it with foil you won't have any pan to clean). Grease cookie sheet or foil lightly before placing biscuits on it. This recipe makes 9-12 large biscuits depending on the size of the ice cream scoop. Bake for 10 to 12 minutes in a 450 degree oven and serve a happy family.

Consumer Agency Will Watchdog PUC Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicts consumer unrest over high food prices will get worse.

"It will only get more intense," Butz said Tuesday as he talked to reporters at a national meeting of farm editors.

But Butz again criticized efforts by congressional Democrats to legislate price rollbacks or controls.

"All the hassle is because there's political hay in controls and rollbacks," he said. "It's because the body politic somehow feels that you can issue a decree and take 20 cents a pound off sirloin steak."

Mailliard Marin Office Will Open In San Rafael

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, whose district has included most of Marin for the past five years, will open his first office in the county next Wednesday.

The office, manned by a staff of two, will be in the Mission Rafael Post Office, 910 D Street, San Rafael.

A spokesman for the congressman said Marin citizens had asked for an office in the county in addition to the main one in the Federal Building in San Francisco.

Mailliard's challengers in past elections claimed the fact he had no office in Marin meant he was indifferent to the Marin electorate.

Mailliard, whose district now includes all of Marin as well as part of San Francisco, failed to carry Marin in the November election. Plans for a Marin office were launched shortly after the election.

New Charge Plan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastern Women's Center, an abortion clinic on Manhattan's fashionable upper East Side, announced today that payment for any of its services may be charged on a Master Charge credit card.

Petaluma Subdivision Approved By Council

Playing a game of compromise, the Petaluma City Council yesterday approved plans for a westside subdivision over the objections of neighbors.

Arthur Condiotti Enterprises received approval for a 179-unit subdivision on I Street Extension at Sunnyslope Road. New conditions required by the council had whittled the development down from its original 187 units.

Disappointed neighbors, who had fought the development for months, left the council session grumbling and discussing the possibility of a lawsuit to stop construction.

Residents complained the entire subdivision of 369 units would cause flooding problems because of inadequate drainage plans. Others complained that already overcrowded streets would be made even more dangerous by the increased traffic.

In several compromises with the council, Condiotti saud he would contribute an unspecified amount of money toward the improvement of Sunnyslope Road. The council said the funds will be kept in a special fund for 18 months in hopes that an assessment district can be formed. If the formation is rejected by residents, the city will use the funds for whatever size project proves possible.

In return, the council told Condiotti it would also give an unspecified amount of its gasoline sales tax revenue to reduce his costs on improving I Street.

Residents complained that drainage problems would not be solved, but heard councilmen report the Petaluma Area Advisory Board to the Sonoma County Water Agency would be asked to launch an intensive study on needed improvements.

In the council decision William A. Perry, Jr. cast the only dissenting vote. Councilman Richard W. Clecak was absent.

Iowa Man Again Protests Taxes

MOUNT VERNON, Iowa (UPI) — As the April 16 deadline passed for filing income tax returns, Walter Gormly wrote a letter to President Nixon. He said he "can put my money to better use than to pay taxes to support a military obsession in this country."

For the 26th time since 1944, Gormley, 58, refused to report his income. He served three years in prison for refusing to go to a special camp for war objections during World War II.

Those Envelopes Being Checked For Penalties

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Workers at the Internal Revenue Service Center aren't throwing away envelopes today.

As tax returns pour into the center from California and Hawaii, the employes save the envelopes in order to check the postmarks — and to assess a one-half per cent penalty on returns mailed after midnight Monday.

Jim Aguirre, the center's public affairs officer, said more than 2 million pieces of mail—a fourth of all 1972 returns—were expected this week.

He said envelopes accompanying returns are thrown away until those mailed close to the deadline start arriving. Then they are saved and checked.

SINATRA COMES OUT OF RETIREMENT

Pledge By Nixon On NATO Units

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has pledged Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti that he will maintain U. S. troop commitments to NATO while efforts are made to negotiate general force reductions in Europe. The two leaders conclude two days of talks today..

Nixon had a first round of discussions with Andreotti at the White House yesterday and entertained him last night at a dinner.

Administration officials said Nixon also was stressing in the talks the need to get a better break for American exports abroad in the expected trade negotiations later this year between the United States, the European Common Market and Japan.

The Italian statesman is the latest European leader to confer with Nixon during the U. S. effort to revamp relations with Europe following the Vietnam War and prior to the visit of Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in June.

British Prime Minister Edward Heath visited here in February. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt is expected here in May and a visit by French President Georges Pompidou is to be scheduled in the near future..

In welcoming Andreotti to the White House, the President declared that Italy and the United States had renewed an old friendship and reasserted it, but also that they had begun the structure of a new relationship between the United States and Italy.

Rotarians Told Progress Great

A conference of about 500 Rotarians in San Rafael was told yesterday that more progress has been made in the past 60 years to improve the quality of human life than in the past 2,000 years, but that the effect of strict ecological controls on U.S. business — which sparked that progress — has been staggering.

Charles Gould, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, said that more doctors, nurses and educators have been trained and more hospitals and schools built during his lifetime than any other time in history. He noted that human life expectancy has increased 25 years in the past half century.

Gould, publisher of the Examiner since 1961, was featured speaker at a luncheon during the District 513 Conference of Rotary International, encompassing an area from Redwood City to Eureka. The three-day conference, which concludes today at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael, is one of the largest ever held in Marin County.

He declared that the amount of unemployment resulting from projects curtailed due to ecological concerns has been a staggering blow to the economy.

The publisher chided air pollution critics, saying that environmental problems have been around since the world began.

He recalled that in New York, before the widespread use of the automobile, 15,000 horses dropped dead each year on the streets from disease, and that 20,000 human deaths were attributed yearly to disease spread by flies from manure and the bodies of the horses.

The inability to determine whether the temperature of the oceans will be changed by atomic power stations is a major factor in the U.S. power crisis, Gould saud, adding with a smile that maybe we should complain to God for changing the temperatures of the oceans throughout history.

Gould said he supports the use of DDT and pointed out that the governor of Oregon has requested that he be allowed to authorize the use of the pesticide to combat a species of moth that has been responsible for the destruction of thousands of acres of prime timberland.

There has been no recorded human death from DDT, the publisher said, but there have been five recorded deaths from DDT substitutes.

Referring to recent truth-in-labeling legislation, Gould said that American industry had been taking steps to correct the problem long before government agencies intervened, and that the U.S. consumer is intelligent enough to know which products are good and bad.

We should put on our currency what it's worth, the same as packaging, he joked.

The Rotarians gave Gould a standing ovation.

The conference was to conclude this afternoon with the Outstanding Rotarian of the Year award, a salute to the 50th anniversary of the Rotary Club of Petaluma, an address by John Dalton, director of Rotary International, and a farewell salute to Alfred D. Quilici of San Rafael, retiring district governor.

Strike Of Eastern Is Short-Lived

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A seven-hour, nationwide strike by stewards and stewardesses against Eastern Airlines ended today when the two sides reached tentative agreement on a new contract.

The airline said from its Miami headquarters that "certain selected flights" would be operating on schedule this morning. It did not specify which ones.

The full, normal schedule was expected to be in effect by noon, Eastern said.

The company had canceled all its flights soon after the strike began.

Eastern is one of the world's largest passenger airlines. It carries about 75,000 passengers each day between 101 cities in the United States, and others in Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Bermuda, the Bahamas and Jamaica.

Mediator George Ives announced the agreement at 1 a.m. EST, seven hours after the walkout began and 72 hours after the two sides sat down for intensive bargaining. "The strike has been terminated," Ives said.

He refused to give any details of the agreement because it still is subject to ratification by the 4,600 members of the Airline Stewards and Stewardesses Division of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union.

Sandra Norton, spokeswoman for the strikers, said as the walkout began, "This is not a wildcat strike. This is a legal strike under the labor act. We had done everything required of us. Our 30-day cooling off period expired yesterday. We extended the deadline until today. We are on strike."

The number of flight hours stewards and stewardesses have to work was one of the major issues.

A spokesman for the union said before the agreement that wage proposals were in line with the 5.5 per cent federal guidelines and that the company had offered better fringe benefits.

SINATRA COMES OUT OF RETIREMENT

Pledge By Nixon On NATO Units

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has pledged Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti that he will maintain U. S. troop commitments to NATO while efforts are made to negotiate general force reductions in Europe. The two leaders conclude two days of talks today..

Nixon had a first round of discussions with Andreotti at the White House yesterday and entertained him last night at a dinner.

Administration officials said Nixon also was stressing in the talks the need to get a better break for American exports abroad in the expected trade negotiations later this year between the United States, the European Common Market and Japan.

The Italian statesman is the latest European leader to confer with Nixon during the U. S. effort to revamp relations with Europe following the Vietnam War and prior to the visit of Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in June.

British Prime Minister Edward Heath visited here in February. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt is expected here in May and a visit by French President Georges Pompidou is to be scheduled in the near future..

In welcoming Andreotti to the White House, the President declared that Italy and the United States had renewed an old friendship and reasserted it, but also that they had begun the structure of a new relationship between the United States and Italy.

Rotarians Told Progress Great

A conference of about 500 Rotarians in San Rafael was told yesterday that more progress has been made in the past 60 years to improve the quality of human life than in the past 2,000 years, but that the effect of strict ecological controls on U.S. business — which sparked that progress — has been staggering.

Charles Gould, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, said that more doctors, nurses and educators have been trained and more hospitals and schools built during his lifetime than any other time in history. He noted that human life expectancy has increased 25 years in the past half century.

Gould, publisher of the Examiner since 1961, was featured speaker at a luncheon during the District 513 Conference of Rotary International, encompassing an area from Redwood City to Eureka. The three-day conference, which concludes today at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael, is one of the largest ever held in Marin County.

He declared that the amount of unemployment resulting from projects curtailed due to ecological concerns has been a staggering blow to the economy.

The publisher chided air pollution critics, saying that environmental problems have been around since the world began.

He recalled that in New York, before the widespread use of the automobile, 15,000 horses dropped dead each year on the streets from disease, and that 20,000 human deaths were attributed yearly to disease spread by flies from manure and the bodies of the horses.

The inability to determine whether the temperature of the oceans will be changed by atomic power stations is a major factor in the U.S. power crisis, Gould saud, adding with a smile that maybe we should complain to God for changing the temperatures of the oceans throughout history.

Gould said he supports the use of DDT and pointed out that the governor of Oregon has requested that he be allowed to authorize the use of the pesticide to combat a species of moth that has been responsible for the destruction of thousands of acres of prime timberland.

There has been no recorded human death from DDT, the publisher said, but there have been five recorded deaths from DDT substitutes.

Referring to recent truth-in-labeling legislation, Gould said that American industry had been taking steps to correct the problem long before government agencies intervened, and that the U.S. consumer is intelligent enough to know which products are good and bad.

Rohnert Park Council Members Face Recall

A movement to recall four Rohnert Park city councilmen is being formed by residents who oppose the city's growth policy, according to Councilman Vernon P. Smith.

Smith said individuals have been considering the recall of all but himself for several months and agreed to form an organization after the Monday council meeting in which three subdivision maps were approved.

"The people think they're selling out to the developers," Smith said. He said the group was especially upset when the council voted 4-1 to remove an earlier condition that developers must contribute funds when their subdivisions crowd schools.

Smith, who opposed the plans and walked out of the meeting in protest, said residents have tried to get a firm growth control policy from the council and have failed.

"The council has continually endorsed the concept of protecting schools from too much growth, but they don't carry it out," Smith said. The councilman said he would not personally circulate recall petitions against his colleagues, but said he will meet with members of the group to give them background on city-growth.

Smith said that Councilman Arthur N. Roberts was originally excluded from recall consideration, but was added to the list after his vote and comments in favor of developers Monday night. The other target councilman are Mayor Armando Flores, Louis G. Beary and Warren K. Hopkins.

Smith said members of the recall movement will identify themselves soon after plans are prepared.

State To Sell Old Fairground

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state will sell the old state fairgrounds to a Sacramento group led by Marvin L. (Buzz) Oates for $1.25 million, it was announced today.

Lawrence R. Robinson Jr., state director of General Services, said the sale is expected to be completed May 22 with the proceeds used mainly to pay off a loan on the land by the Public Employes' Retirement System.

Oates plans to develop a residential and commercial complex on the property, which is near a planned University of California medical school at Davis.

State fairs now are held at a new complex called Cal-Expo.

Coastal Commission Fee For Appeals Protested

I-J Special Report

WOODSIDE — The California Coastal Alliance today protested the state coastal commission's new regulation imposing a $50 fee to appeal decisions of te six regional commissions.

Janet K. Adams, state chairman of the alliance, protested in a letter to the chairman of the state commission that the fee "will eliminate legitimate appeals from responsible, conscientious individuals and citizen groups."

If the fee was intended to deter capricious appeals, she noted in her letter to chairman Melvin B. Lane, the act that created the commission allows it to "decline to hear appeals that it determines raise no substantial issues."

Mrs. Adams urged the fee be eliminated, commenting the alliance was "extremely distressed" by the fee.

The alliance put the act that created the commissions on the November ballot, and campaigned for its passage against massive opposition from land owners, developers and utilities.

The Piedmont Crescent, a curving area stretching from Raleigh, N.C., to Greenville, S.C., contains the major share of industries in the two Carolinas.

Marines Hurt By Live Grenade

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) — Seven Marine recruits were injured Tuesday when an instructor mistakenly hurled a live grenade during a demonstration.

The recruits, part of a class of 238 from the Parris Island, S.C., training station, were not seriously hurt. Neither they nor the instructor were identified.

A Marine spokesman said the recruits were sitting in a bleachers watching the instructor demonstrate the technique for throwing grenades. The instructor picked up a live M-26 fregmentation grenade instead of a dummy grenade and hurled it over his shoulder. It exploded about 40 feet, its maximum range, from the bleachers.

Bicyclist Killed In Hit And Run

A 12-year-old Cotati bicyclist was killed when a hit-and-run driver struck him head-on at 8:50 p.m. yesterday on Old Redwood Highway near Railroad Avenue, Cotati.

Keith Hudgins, 8561 Lorado Drive, Cotati, was pronounced dead on arrival at Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

The California Highway Patrol said the boy was riding south on Old Redwood Highway when the northbound car veered across the road while passing other cars and struck him head-on. Witnesses told officers the driver pulled over to the side of the road, stopped briefly and fled.

The car was described as yellow and foreign-made. Officers said the front end of the car should have considerable damage.

The boy was the son of Lea Hudgins of Cotati and Kenneth Hudgins of Alabama.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

The nation's oldest tree farm is at Perkinston Junior College in Stone County, Miss., where the first pine seedling nursery was begun in 1885.

Dock Fire Pollution Charges Eyed

Officials of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District today were trying to decide whether to bring charges against the owner of the huge drydocks in Richardson Bay which were heavily damaged by fire yesterday.

A spokesman for the district said J. Christopher Roberts, who bought the massive structures in 1969, could conceivably be charged with responsibility for an illegal fire resulting in air pollution.

Roberts said yesterday the blaze had been deliberately set by an unknown person or persons, but district officials and Marin County fire officials are apparently not convinced this is the case.

"We haven't yet determined that it was arson," said Asst. County Fire Chief H. Stan Rowan.

The district spokesman, who reported the district is investigating the fire's origin on its own, said "If they find an arsonist, we may bring our own charges — of creating air pollution — against him. But if the fire was caused by simple negligence, we may go after the owner."

The flames which destroyed the midsection of the four drydocks also put a damper on the county's plans for removing the docks, considered an eyesore by nearby residents since their arrival in Richardson Bay in 1965.

County officials — who have been working for a long time to find a way to get rid of the docks — had hoped to persuade a salvage firm to dismantle them in exchange for the lumber they contain. But that plan may be up in smoke now since much of the timber was destroyed.

Yesterday County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney told the Marin County Board of Supervisors it might be possible to encourage the Coast Guard to declare the remains a "hazard to navigation." If this were done, it would be up to the federal government to remove them. But Maloney admitted he was "not too optimistic" that idea would work.

Roberts has said he plans to continue to dismantle the docks and "remove them entirely" from the bay mud.

"I'm not too optimistic about that, either," Maloney said with a laugh. "But it will be great if he really does do it."

In light of the long battle by county and Sausalito officials to get rid of the offending structures, many persons were wondering today why the Coast Guard fought so hard to extinguish the blaze.

"The Coast Guard has the responsibility for saving lives and property at sea or in navigable waters like the bay," a spokesman for the service explained today. "When we were notified of the fire by the Sausalito police, we went in and did what we could."

He said "If the authorities had passed the word they did not want the things saved, we might have been able to simply do nothing, so long as the fire did not jeopardize nearby property. But we received no such word from the authorities."

To Face Charges

NICOSIA (UPI) — Public prosecutors today filed charges of murder, intended murder and possession of explosives against seven of the nine Arabs who attacked the Israeli ambassador's residence and an El Al airliner here April 9.

Coastal Commission Fee For Appeals Protested

I-J Special Report

WOODSIDE — The California Coastal Alliance today protested the state coastal commission's new regulation imposing a $50 fee to appeal decisions of te six regional commissions.

Janet K. Adams, state chairman of the alliance, protested in a letter to the chairman of the state commission that the fee "will eliminate legitimate appeals from responsible, conscientious individuals and citizen groups."

If the fee was intended to deter capricious appeals, she noted in her letter to chairman Melvin B. Lane, the act that created the commission allows it to "decline to hear appeals that it determines raise no substantial issues."

Mrs. Adams urged the fee be eliminated, commenting the alliance was "extremely distressed" by the fee.

The alliance put the act that created the commissions on the November ballot, and campaigned for its passage against massive opposition from land owners, developers and utilities.

Marines Hurt By Live Grenade

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) — Seven Marine recruits were injured Tuesday when an instructor mistakenly hurled a live grenade during a demonstration.

The recruits, part of a class of 238 from the Parris Island, S.C., training station, were not seriously hurt. Neither they nor the instructor were identified.

A Marine spokesman said the recruits were sitting in a bleachers watching the instructor demonstrate the technique for throwing grenades. The instructor picked up a live M-26 fregmentation grenade instead of a dummy grenade and hurled it over his shoulder. It exploded about 40 feet, its maximum range, from the bleachers.

Bicyclist Killed In Hit And Run

A 12-year-old Cotati bicyclist was killed when a hit-and-run driver struck him head-on at 8:50 p.m. yesterday on Old Redwood Highway near Railroad Avenue, Cotati.

Keith Hudgins, 8561 Lorado Drive, Cotati, was pronounced dead on arrival at Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

The California Highway Patrol said the boy was riding south on Old Redwood Highway when the northbound car veered across the road while passing other cars and struck him head-on. Witnesses told officers the driver pulled over to the side of the road, stopped briefly and fled.

The car was described as yellow and foreign-made. Officers said the front end of the car should have considerable damage.

The boy was the son of Lea Hudgins of Cotati and Kenneth Hudgins of Alabama.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Rohnert Park Council Members Face Recall

A movement to recall four Rohnert Park city councilmen is being formed by residents who oppose the city's growth policy, according to Councilman Vernon P. Smith.

Smith said individuals have been considering the recall of all but himself for several months and agreed to form an organization after the Monday council meeting in which three subdivision maps were approved.

"The people think they're selling out to the developers," Smith said. He said the group was especially upset when the council voted 4-1 to remove an earlier condition that developers must contribute funds when their subdivisions crowd schools.

Smith, who opposed the plans and walked out of the meeting in protest, said residents have tried to get a firm growth control policy from the council and have failed.

"The council has continually endorsed the concept of protecting schools from too much growth, but they don't carry it out," Smith said. The councilman said he would not personally circulate recall petitions against his colleagues, but said he will meet with members of the group to give them background on city-growth.

Smith said that Councilman Arthur N. Roberts was originally excluded from recall consideration, but was added to the list after his vote and comments in favor of developers Monday night. The other target councilman are Mayor Armando Flores, Louis G. Beary and Warren K. Hopkins.

Smith said members of the recall movement will identify themselves soon after plans are prepared.

State To Sell Old Fairground

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state will sell the old state fairgrounds to a Sacramento group led by Marvin L. (Buzz) Oates for $1.25 million, it was announced today.

Lawrence R. Robinson Jr., state director of General Services, said the sale is expected to be completed May 22 with the proceeds used mainly to pay off a loan on the land by the Public Employes' Retirement System.

Oates plans to develop a residential and commercial complex on the property, which is near a planned University of California medical school at Davis.

State fairs now are held at a new complex called Cal-Expo.

SPEEDY VOTE COUNTER

Henry Foster (left), an official of the Computer Election Service Co., and Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer, watch as a table-top computer performs vote-counting chores at the Marin Civic Center. The computer, rented from Foster's firm, may be the answer to swifter vote tallying in small elections in Marin, according to Meyer. The machine and another like it were tried out last night.

Novato Trustee Posts Are Filled

James E. Casassa, Betty Machado and Dr. John D. Kassenbrock yesterday won election to Novato Unified School District trusteeships, topping a field of eight candidates.

No incumbents ran for reelection. Casassa, who was first runner-up for a board seat in 1971, was the only candidate who had previously run for the school board.

It will be July before the three take office. They expressed differing opinions last night about waiting on the sidelines while the present board wrestles with problems including the loss of students due to the ordered closing of Hamilton Air Force Base, teacher dissension over salaries and extracurricular duties, relocation of the district offices, and closing of one or more schools.

"I'd like to reverse the decision recently made to move the administration building," Mrs. Machado said.

"I'm a member-elect, not an actual trustee until July," Kassenbrock said. "Hopefully, by then, at least a direction will have been taken" toward solving the district's pressing problems.

Casassa said, "If Hamilton's really going to close, we're going to have to close some schools." He said he hoped the stress between board and teachers "can be worked out" but if the Hamilton closing cuts federal fund support to the district, "We'll have nothing to offer the teachers" unless the state helps the district.

Casassa is a school counselor In San Francisco. He apparently benefitted from prior near-success, getting the top vote cast in the relatively light turnout, 2,340. Mrs. Machado, former member of the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission, and a familiar figure in Novato civic and social circles, received 2,129 votes; Kassenbrock, a dentist and a founding member of the Novato Civic Foundation, received 2,027 votes.

BETTY MACHADO
Novato winner

Other candidates and their votes were:

Mabel Croughan, 1,918 votes; James Harrington Jr., 1,642 votes; Thomas J. Cleary, 1,455 votes; M. Morton Gaddy, 1,268, and William A. Lehigh, 1,232.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, did not have available last night the total voter turnout for the election, but it appeared to be only about one-third of the 16,773 registered voters eligible.

Dixie School Board Will Have Newcomers

Incumbent Thomas Neal McNamara and two newcomers were elected yesterday to the Dixie School District board, culminating a campaign which focused on declining enrollment and tight finances.

McNamara, an attorney, received 2,402 votes to gain his third term on the board. Dr. Donal A. McEnhill, with 1,633 votes, and Coral Kay Beckmann, 1,227, were the other winners, trailed by Wayne E. Cliff, 952; Janice Pechauer, 826; Joseph Doyle, 529; Lance P. Moran, 487, and Nancy Buckelew, 472.

Mrs. Buckelew, like her husband in the Marin Community College District board contest, had withdrawn from the race.

McNamara had said during the campaign that while taxes in the Dixie district are the highest in Marin, he felt a desire by citizens to maintain a quality program "regardless of the cost to themselves."

Mrs. Beckmann, a free-lance home economist and teacher's aide, called for more individualized instruction and greater use of parents to assist teachers. McEnhill, a dentist successful on his second try for a board seat, had cited his regular attendance at board meetings for three years.

The new board must face in the coming months staff cutbacks looming as a result of fiscal woes.

Amnesty Vote

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — With no debaze and just one dissenting vote, the Florida Senate today adopted a resolution urging Congress to deny amnesty to draft dodgers of the Vietnam War.

Mill Valley Incumbents Score Wins

Two Mill Valley School District board incumbents who favored educational innovation for the district were reelected yesterday — along with a newcomer who declared the district doesn't stress enough fundamentals.

In the six-way race for three seats open, incumbent John H. Cutler was leader with 2,919 votes; incumbent John G. Eliot received 2,805 votes to trail newcomer Dr. Thomas D. Spencer who got 2,894 votes. Eileen Bach-Y-Rita received 2,553 votes; Cate Bauer 2,544, and Harold A. Drob 1,074 votes.

Spencer, director of the Child Study Center at the California State University in San Francisco, was one of about 1,300 Mill Valley residents who signed a petition urging more attention to educational fundamentals, late in 1971.

Despite the issue of innovation versus fundamentals — and the fact that the Mill Valley board faces a crucial decision on proposed merger with Sausalito's schools, the voter turnout appeared relatively light.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, did not have figures available last night, but the turnout appeared to be an average-to-low figure of about 30 per cent of the district's 15,675 registered voters.

Reed School Incumbents Win Easily

In contrast to former years' hot contests, Reed School District incumbents easily won reelection yesterday. Dr. John J. Osborn received 1,315 votes and Charles W. Patterson 1,257. Newcomer Dr. Robert K. Ockner, a medical school teacher, won the third open seat, from which Kenneth G. Wells will retire in June.

The fourth contender in the race was Donald Furlong, who trailed with 682 votes.

Osborn, a research physician, won office in 1971 via a recall election against Gordon C. Wright. Attorney Patterson was winner in a special election last June to fill the seat vacated when James R. Richwagen moved from the districts.

Based on campaign statements and prior performance, the elected trustees were expected by followers of Reed district affairs to continue the innovative trends begun in the late 1960s. The changes were unsuccessfully opposed by Wells, Wright and Richwagen in recent years.

Smith Wins, Loses In Lagunitas Voting

Postal clerk Harry R. Smith joined three others yesterday in winning a seat on the Lagunitas School District board, but voters decided he would have to step down after serving less than two months.

Smith, vying for both the unexpired term and the full four-year stint of resigned Trustee Gary T. Giacomini, was picked to fill out the unfinished time which expires June 30, but denied a chance to continue on the board after that.

The four-year term went instead to Marilyn Marioni, who nipped the 30-year-old Smith by 52 votes. Mrs. Marioni, a classroom volunteer in district schools, got 501 votes; Smith, 449.

Smith won the special race over two other candidates with 361 votes.

Meanwhile, incumbent Richard C. Sloan was reelected to his seat, and former teacher Lee DiVincenzo also was named to a four-year term by voters.

The result in the regular race was Sloan, 576; Mrs. DiVincenzo, 541; Mrs. Marioni, 501; Patricia White, 471; Smith, 449, and Allan J. Kirchem, 392.

Mrs. DiVincenzo, Mrs. White and Kirchem also were entered in the special race to fill the unexpired term of Giacomini, since elected a county supervisor, receiving 233, 197 and 140 votes, respectively.

HARRY R. SMITH
Tough luck

The primary issue in the campaign was the future course of open classroom and other alternative educational programs recently implemented in the district.

Sloan, Mrs. Marioni and Smith had run a joint campaign, stressing the need for schools to reach out more into the community.

Four New Members For Bolinas-Stinson Board

Bolinas-Stinson School District voters seated four new members on the five-member board of trustees yesterday, rejecting an incumbent who had supported a tax rate also rejected by voters.

The measure, to boost the district rate by 50 cents, lost resoundingly, 364-133.

Winners in the 10-candidate board race were Carolyn Brown, 300 votes; Michael D. Sanford, 292; Carol A. Flynn, 276, and Susan Washington, 193. Incumbent Michael E. Aitken, a deputy sheriff seeking his first full term on the board, became the only one of 21 Marin school board incumbents to be turned out of office.

Aitken ran fourth in a seven-way race for three seats in the regulary scheduled election. He got 256 votes, trailed by Diana L. Farnsworth, 203; Paul D. Mann, 183, and O'Brien Young, 62.

Mrs. Washington won a three-way contest for the unexpired term of incumbent John G. Barrow, who had resigned, She was trailed in the balloting by Peter B. Weston, 173 votes, and Russ Riviere, 117.

The tax vote was the campaign's overriding issue. If approved, the hike would have brought the district's total levy to $2.70 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Mrs. Brown, director of a Berkeley school for educationally handicapped children, and Sanford, an attorney, opposed the increase, while Mrs. Flynn, a pediatrician, and Mrs. Washington, a former teacher, endorsed it, along with Aitken.

While district officials said the school would be short up to $25,000 in revenue next fiscal year because of new state school finance provisions and the loss of revenue to national recreation areas, opponents said it was too early to assess such an impact and also believed other sources of funding could be sought.

Besides Aitken's, the seats of Jessie Reasoner and John W. Harris were up for grabs in yesterday's regular election. Reasoner and Harris had decided against seeking new terms.

Board Presideft Charles E. Hancock is the lone trustee holdover.

Jewels, Cash Stolen

LONDON (UPI) — Persian-born financier Sirdar Aly Aziz, 37, told police today thieves stole $225,000 worth of jewelry and cash from his hotel room. Aziz said he discovered the theft late Tuesday night when he returned to his room. Detectives said there was no sign of forced entry.

McMullen, Mrs. Beittel Win School Board Jobs

San Rafael voters yesterday reelected incumbent Paul K. McMullen to the San Rafael Board of Education by a runaway margin and embraced newcomer Suzanne L. Beittel in a close race for a second board seat.

McMullen polled 5,554 votes and was followed in the balloting by Mrs. Beittel, who tallied 3,381 votes. Marie J. Sessi was a close runnerup in the race for two seats with 3,091 votes.

Other unsuccessful candidates were Gale B. Fisher, 2,261 votes; Lewis S. Pollock, 2,198 votes; and Jeff D. Yarbrough, 731 votes. Clarence W. Koop and Joan H. Lisetor, both of whom had withdrawn from the race but did not drop out early enough to eliminate their names from the ballot, tallied 1,233 and 495 votes respectively.

Both McMullen and Mrs. Beittel appeared shocked by the margin of their victories.

"I didn't think my margin of victory would be that great because there was a number of good candidates in the race," McMullen said, adding he had expected Pollock to make a stronger showing.

SUZANNE L. BEITTEL
Board newcomer

Mrs. Beittel said she didn't think she would win the race at all, citing a $320 advertising budget. "Running for the board has been a real learning experience for me. . . I want to translate the good dialogues I've had with the people into action," said the 45-year-old Mrs. Beittel, copresident of the Terra Linda Parent-Teacher Association and long active in Dixie School District affairs.

McMullen and Mrs. Beittel agreed that the major task facing the board is the selection of a new superintendent, since Supt. John F. Plank will resign this June to accept a similar position overseas.

Mrs. Sessi said that she had thought she would do better in the race but pledged to "stay in there fighting" for matters of concern at school board meetings. "How fickle it is for the public to vote for two candidates that dropped out of the race," she added.

Yarbrough, 18, a student at San Rafael High School, said he too expected to do better in the contest, but cited his age and lack of experience as factors leading to his defeat. He pledged to run again for elective office in San Rafael "but I don't know what yet."

McMullen was appointed to the board last April to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Paul L. Jones. Board president Lawrence I. Kramer did not run for reelection.

Incumbent Returned To Hub Board

San Anselmo School District Board incumbent Millard R. Morgen was handily returned to office in yesterday's election. Newcomers Judith L. Vallas and Oliver L. Harle also won seats on the board.

In the six-way race for three open seats, the results were:

Morgen, 1,740 votes; Mrs. Vallas, 1,578; Harle, 1,443; Roberta S. Michels, 1,242; Garth M. Stanton, 1,102, and Charles A. Daiber, 463.

Front-runner Morgen, a history professor, was appointed to fill a vacancy on the board only last fall, and this was his first campaign. He and research chemist Harle had agreed on one of the few issues of the election — that Red Hill and Hidden Valley junior high schools should remain separate. Mrs. Vallas, a housewife, had argued for a single junior high school.

Incumbents Victorious In Fairfax

Incumbents Jane S. Durr, George C. Stone and Laurence G. Hermann were returned easily to office yesterday in a five-way Fairfax School District board race.

Mrs. Durr, a trustee since 1967, led the ticket with 1,006 votes, followed by Stone, 954, and Hermann, 950.

Richard Chinlund, with 512 votes, and Joann R. Walla, 772, were unsuccessful challengers.

Against criticism over the direction of education in the district and over spending practices, the incumbents endorsed efforts to maintain a balanced curriculum but said schools always are open to improvement.

Turfing of a playground at Deer Park School was a campaign issue, with some Porteous Avenue residents opposing the $42,000 project as creating too much traffic at the school. The incumbents defended the move, saying the community needed the facility.

Closing of Central School also was supported by the incumbents in the face of scattered criticism.

Mrs. Rakow Tops Ross School Vote

Ross School District voters yesterday returned incumbent trustees Sally Ann Rakow and Elizabeth F. Way to office, and picked newcomer Thomas A. Guerin for the third seat open, in a four-way race.

Mrs. Rakow received 538 votes; Mrs. Way, 465; Guerin 444, and unsuccessful candidate David A. Dixon, 378.

During the campaign, Guerin opposed the idea of open classrooms and shifting students from room to room to study different subjects under different teachers. He also wanted family life education restricted to seventh and eighth grades. The women incumbents supported moving students among classrooms and favored expansion of family life education.

Guerin, a partner in a San Francisco accounting firm, has coached sports teams at Ross School and St. Anselm's School.

Tam School Voters Return Incumbents

Incumbents Jerrold M. Ladar and Robert W. Corlett were given strong reelection votes in the Tamalpais High School District yesterday. Winner of the third seat open was Lotte Schiller, but a recount may be requested by the unofficial fourth-place finisher, Maurine Ballard.

Corlett received 8,798 votes; Ladar, 7,487 votes; Mrs. Schiller 5,959 votes, and Miss Ballard, 5,852.

Other candidates and their votes in the nine-way race for the three seats were:

Elaine S. Brockbank, 5,677; Fred C. Hannahs, 4,067; Brice Pace, 3,005; Robert A. Karlsrud, 2,499, and David A. Brickhaus, 2,285.

Miss Ballard, a retired school teacher, said last night she and her campaign managers would check into recount rules, deadlines and expenses today with Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer. Meyer said last night that any recount request must be made by the time of the official canvass, which will be tomorrow.

Either Mrs. Schiller or the winner of a recount will inherit the seat of trustee David D. Ring, who announced his retirement from the board in a letter Feb. 13 excoriating the school board's split-vote ouster of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins.

Corlett, Ladar and trustee Bette Wallace, who was not up for reelection, voted Jan. 24, to demand Hawkins's resignation, as the culmination of disputes over district spending and expense accounts, criticisms from teachers unions, and other factors.

LOTTE SCHILLER
Wins in Tam

Despite the fact that yesterday's election doesn't seemed to have changed the balance of power on the board, Mrs. Schiller said last night that "I hope to see a lot accomplished in the next four years."

Mrs. Schiller has been active in the new voter education program and other civic affairs. She taught school overseas before coming to the United States.

A Newcomer Leads Kentfield Outcome

In a contest that centered on the issue of money, Winifred Setrakian of Kent Woodlands led an incumbent and a bank official into seats on the Kentfield School District board yesterday.

Mrs. Setrakian, active in school affairs, got 1,562 votes in the five-way race, with incumbent Gloria Riccardi, 1,542, and Bruce A. Koppe, 1,110, as runners-up.

Koppe narrowly edged Joan Brownstein, who finished fourth with 1,051 votes. Neil M. Park received 814 votes.

The campaign dealt largely with ways in which the district will cope next fiscal year with the impact of SB 90, the state's new tax shift-school finance law.

Mrs. Setrakian had believed staff reductions unavoidable, with Mrs. Riccardi and Koppe hoping such a step could be avoided.

The new board, in addition to grappling with money problems, also will be working with a new superintendent — Eugene C. Peters, replacement for the late Anthony G. Bacich.

Larkspur Voters Return School Board Incumbents

Voters in the Larkspur School District elected a 20-year board veteran, two other incumbents and a policeman as trustees yesterday.

The three incumbents — John W. Boyd, with two decades of board service; Howard C. Harvey, on the board since 1965, and Leon Persson, a trustee for three years, easily won reelection.

In a special election to fill the unexpired term of Curtis P. Kamai, Charles E. Newman, juvenile officer in the Corte Madera Police Department, defeated contractor Anthony J. Moreno.

Boyd polled 1,347 votes; Harvey, 1,314, and Persson, 1,183, defeating W. Don Pack, 769; James McDonough, 721, and James Laviletta, 632.

Newman got 1,019 votes to 720 for Moreno and 265 for Oliver B. Larson Jr., who earlier had quit the race.

Campaign issues were difficulties presented the district by the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation and teacher tenure laws.

Dock Fire Pollution Charges Eyed

Officials of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District today were trying to decide whether to bring charges against the owner of the huge drydocks in Richardson Bay which were heavily damaged by fire yesterday.

A spokesman for the district said J. Christopher Roberts, who bought the massive structures in 1969, could conceivably be charged with responsibility for an illegal fire resulting in air pollution.

Roberts said yesterday the blaze had been deliberately set by an unknown person or persons, but district officials and Marin County fire officials are apparently not convinced this is the case.

"We haven't yet determined that it was arson," said Asst. County Fire Chief H. Stan Rowan.

The district spokesman, who reported the district is investigating the fire's origin on its own, said "If they find an arsonist, we may bring our own charges — of creating air pollution — against him. But if the fire was caused by simple negligence, we may go after the owner."

The flames which destroyed the midsection of the four drydocks also put a damper on the county's plans for removing the docks, considered an eyesore by nearby residents since their arrival in Richardson Bay in 1965.

County officials — who have been working for a long time to find a way to get rid of the docks — had hoped to persuade a salvage firm to dismantle them in exchange for the lumber they contain. But that plan may be up in smoke now since much of the timber was destroyed.

Yesterday County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney told the Marin County Board of Supervisors it might be possible to encourage the Coast Guard to declare the remains a "hazard to navigation." If this were done, it would be up to the federal government to remove them. But Maloney admitted he was "not too optimistic" that idea would work.

Roberts has said he plans to continue to dismantle the docks and "remove them entirely" from the bay mud.

"I'm not too optimistic about that, either," Maloney said with a laugh. "But it will be great if he really does do it."

In light of the long battle by county and Sausalito officials to get rid of the offending structures, many persons were wondering today why the Coast Guard fought so hard to extinguish the blaze.

"The Coast Guard has the responsibility for saving lives and property at sea or in navigable waters like the bay," a spokesman for the service explained today. "When we were notified of the fire by the Sausalito police, we went in and did what we could."

He said "If the authorities had passed the word they did not want the things saved, we might have been able to simply do nothing, so long as the fire did not jeopardize nearby property. But we received no such word from the authorities."

To Face Charges

NICOSIA (UPI) — Public prosecutors today filed charges of murder, intended murder and possession of explosives against seven of the nine Arabs who attacked the Israeli ambassador's residence and an El Al airliner here April 9.

GETTING COMPUTERIZED

Three Philippine Air Force noncommissioned officers master a computer at Hamilton Air Force Base, a machine they hope their Air Force will have in a few years. Going through their paces are S/Sgt. Rafael M. Pancito Jr. (left), preparing data computation sheets while Sgt. Nasaldoman J. Agdon (center) and Sgt. Angel R. Castillo, counter check records books. They will complete eight weeks of on-the-job training at the base April 27 and return to their home bases after a 15-day leave in the United States.

Dixie Trustee Gains Seat On Marin County Education Board

Dixie School District Trustee Dorothy C. Brown climbed a rung up the ladder yesterday, winning election to a seat on the Marin County Board of Education.

She received 2,855 votes in the three-way race for a newly created trustee area. Edward A. Tibbetts received 1,317 votes and Priscilla E. Phillips, 679.

Mrs. Brown will represent Trustee Area 3, the Dixie School District, Santa Venetia, Las Gallinas and the northerly portion of the San Rafael Elementary District.

Two other trustee areas had only one candidate each, who were automatically declared elected and thus didn't campaign. Incumbent board member Glen B. Robinson filed unopposed for Trustee Area 6, the Mill Valley and Sausalito school districts. Marilyn C. Steinau filed unopposed for Trustee Area 5, comprising Larkspur and Reed districts plus the Strawberry area.

Mrs. Brown has served on the Dixie board since 1957 and her present term will expire in June. Her election to the county board apparently was a result of her previous experience. She and the other two candidates expressed few differences of opinion about the county board's role, and Tibbetts confessed last month that he ran for the post principally because it appeared no other candidate would file.

Deadly Highway To Be Replaced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Highway Commission approved $5.2 million Tuesday to begin freeway construction along a two-lane stretch of California 4 near Concord.

The accident riddled thoroughfare has earned the nickname "blood alley."

Under the project, two miles of the road between California 242 in Concord and Willow Pass Road will be replaced with a six-lane freeway. Two more miles of the road in an easterly direction will be converted from a four-lane expressway to a freeway.

Total cost for the project was put at $18 million, with the balance to be funded from the 1974-75 fiscal budget. Bids were expected to be called early next year.

Special Session

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission will hold a special meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the San Rafael City Hall to further discuss the proposed renovation and relocation of the Boyd House located in Boyd Park at Mission Avenue and B Street in San Rafael

ELIZABETH M. DEEDY
Returns to seat

Mrs. Deedy A Victor In College Race

The lone incumbent, a former board member and a county probation officer were the choices of voters yesterday in an eight-way race for the Marin Community College District board.

In a contest which centered on the vagaries of school finance and development of Indian Valley Colleges in Novato, winners were incumbent Donald K. Felt, 17,687 votes; former trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy, 15,865, and Joseph E. Doherty of Novato, 10,477.

Others getting votes were James Kimo Campbell, 9,559; Joseph A. Gereghty Jr., 8,000; Anne B. Saltonstall, 7,175; George A. Magid, 6,426, and Alvin H. Buckelew, 5,526. Mrs. Saltonstall and Buckelew earlier had dropped out of the contest.

Each of the winners despite some opposing sentiment, endorsed pushing ahead with plans for Indian Valley, the new north campus of the College of Marin in Kentfield. A group of teachers has petitioned college officials for reexamination of the school's need.

Felt, who joined the board in 1968, is an attorney. Mrs. Deedy previously served 13 years as a college trustee, while Doherty is a 32-year-old probation officer and director of the Greater Novato Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Deedy and Doherty will replace trustees Theodore C. Wellman and Robert E. Oliver.

School Bond Is Approved In Cotati

Voters in the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District yesterday approved a $1.5-million school construction bond issue.

Unofficial but complete returns showed 1,204 yes votes as opposed to 425 no votes.

School district officials will use $400,000 of the funds to build a new school in the Holiday Park area and will keep the remaining $1.1 million in reserve for future projects. Approval of the bonds also makes the district eligible for state assistance for the project.

The measure required a two-thirds vote margin and received a strong 75 per cent voter approval.

Autos Stolen In San Rafael

Two cars were stolen sometime Monday night or yesterday morning from San Rafael streets, police reported.

His 1962 blue Chevrolet, license BHD-802, was taken from in front of his home at 550 Canal Street, James D. Dixon reported to police.

A 1967 black Citroen, license UAV-648, was taken from the 700 block of Lincoln Avenue, owner Lanny G. Berry of 685 Blackberry Lane, reported to police.

SPEEDY VOTE COUNTER

Henry Foster (left), an official of the Computer Election Service Co., and Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer, watch as a table-top computer performs vote-counting chores at the Marin Civic Center. The computer, rented from Foster's firm, may be the answer to swifter vote tallying in small elections in Marin, according to Meyer. The machine and another like it were tried out last night.

McMullen, Mrs. Beittel Win School Board Jobs

San Rafael voters yesterday reelected incumbent Paul K. McMullen to the San Rafael Board of Education by a runaway margin and embraced newcomer Suzanne L. Beittel in a close race for a second board seat.

McMullen polled 5,554 votes and was followed in the balloting by Mrs. Beittel, who tallied 3,381 votes. Marie J. Sessi was a close runnerup in the race for two seats with 3,091 votes.

Other unsuccessful candidates were Gale B. Fisher, 2,261 votes; Lewis S. Pollock, 2,198 votes; and Jeff D. Yarbrough, 731 votes. Clarence W. Koop and Joan H. Lisetor, both of whom had withdrawn from the race but did not drop out early enough to eliminate their names from the ballot, tallied 1,233 and 495 votes respectively.

Both McMullen and Mrs. Beittel appeared shocked by the margin of their victories.

"I didn't think my margin of victory would be that great because there was a number of good candidates in the race," McMullen said, adding he had expected Pollock to make a stronger showing.

SUZANNE L. BEITTEL
Board newcomer

Mrs. Beittel said she didn't think she would win the race at all, citing a $320 advertising budget. "Running for the board has been a real learning experience for me. . . I want to translate the good dialogues I've had with the people into action," said the 45-year-old Mrs. Beittel, copresident of the Terra Linda Parent-Teacher Association and long active in Dixie School District affairs.

McMullen and Mrs. Beittel agreed that the major task facing the board is the selection of a new superintendent, since Supt. John F. Plank will resign this June to accept a similar position overseas.

Mrs. Sessi said that she had thought she would do better in the race but pledged to "stay in there fighting" for matters of concern at school board meetings. "How fickle it is for the public to vote for two candidates that dropped out of the race," she added.

Yarbrough, 18, a student at San Rafael High School, said he too expected to do better in the contest, but cited his age and lack of experience as factors leading to his defeat. He pledged to run again for elective office in San Rafael "but I don't know what yet."

McMullen was appointed to the board last April to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Paul L. Jones. Board president Lawrence I. Kramer did not run for reelection.

Incumbent Returned To Hub Board

San Anselmo School District Board incumbent Millard R. Morgen was handily returned to office in yesterday's election. Newcomers Judith L. Vallas and Oliver L. Harle also won seats on the board.

In the six-way race for three open seats, the results were:

Morgen, 1,740 votes; Mrs. Vallas, 1,578; Harle, 1,443; Roberta S. Michels, 1,242; Garth M. Stanton, 1,102, and Charles A. Daiber, 463.

Front-runner Morgen, a history professor, was appointed to fill a vacancy on the board only last fall, and this was his first campaign. He and research chemist Harle had agreed on one of the few issues of the election — that Red Hill and Hidden Valley junior high schools should remain separate. Mrs. Vallas, a housewife, had argued for a single junior high school.

Incumbents Victorious In Fairfax

Incumbents Jane S. Durr, George C. Stone and Laurence G. Hermann were returned easily to office yesterday in a five-way Fairfax School District board race.

Mrs. Durr, a trustee since 1967, led the ticket with 1,006 votes, followed by Stone, 954, and Hermann, 950.

Richard Chinlund, with 512 votes, and Joann R. Walla, 772, were unsuccessful challengers.

Against criticism over the direction of education in the district and over spending practices, the incumbents endorsed efforts to maintain a balanced curriculum but said schools always are open to improvement.

Turfing of a playground at Deer Park School was a campaign issue, with some Porteous Avenue residents opposing the $42,000 project as creating too much traffic at the school. The incumbents defended the move, saying the community needed the facility.

Closing of Central School also was supported by the incumbents in the face of scattered criticism.

Mrs. Rakow Tops Ross School Vote

Ross School District voters yesterday returned incumbent trustees Sally Ann Rakow and Elizabeth F. Way to office, and picked newcomer Thomas A. Guerin for the third seat open, in a four-way race.

Mrs. Rakow received 538 votes; Mrs. Way, 465; Guerin 444, and unsuccessful candidate David A. Dixon, 378.

During the campaign, Guerin opposed the idea of open classrooms and shifting students from room to room to study different subjects under different teachers. He also wanted family life education restricted to seventh and eighth grades. The women incumbents supported moving students among classrooms and favored expansion of family life education.

Guerin, a partner in a San Francisco accounting firm, has coached sports teams at Ross School and St. Anselm's School.

Tam School Voters Return Incumbents

Incumbents Jerrold M. Ladar and Robert W. Corlett were given strong reelection votes in the Tamalpais High School District yesterday. Winner of the third seat open was Lotte Schiller, but a recount may be requested by the unofficial fourth-place finisher, Maurine Ballard.

Corlett received 8,798 votes; Ladar, 7,487 votes; Mrs. Schiller 5,959 votes, and Miss Ballard, 5,852.

Other candidates and their votes in the nine-way race for the three seats were:

Elaine S. Brockbank, 5,677; Fred C. Hannahs, 4,067; Brice Pace, 3,005; Robert A. Karlsrud, 2,499, and David A. Brickhaus, 2,285.

Miss Ballard, a retired school teacher, said last night she and her campaign managers would check into recount rules, deadlines and expenses today with Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer. Meyer said last night that any recount request must be made by the time of the official canvass, which will be tomorrow.

Either Mrs. Schiller or the winner of a recount will inherit the seat of trustee David D. Ring, who announced his retirement from the board in a letter Feb. 13 excoriating the school board's split-vote ouster of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins.

Corlett, Ladar and trustee Bette Wallace, who was not up for reelection, voted Jan. 24, to demand Hawkins's resignation, as the culmination of disputes over district spending and expense accounts, criticisms from teachers unions, and other factors.

LOTTE SCHILLER
Wins in Tam

Despite the fact that yesterday's election doesn't seemed to have changed the balance of power on the board, Mrs. Schiller said last night that "I hope to see a lot accomplished in the next four years."

Mrs. Schiller has been active in the new voter education program and other civic affairs. She taught school overseas before coming to the United States.

A Newcomer Leads Kentfield Outcome

In a contest that centered on the issue of money, Winifred Setrakian of Kent Woodlands led an incumbent and a bank official into seats on the Kentfield School District board yesterday.

Mrs. Setrakian, active in school affairs, got 1,562 votes in the five-way race, with incumbent Gloria Riccardi, 1,542, and Bruce A. Koppe, 1,110, as runners-up.

Koppe narrowly edged Joan Brownstein, who finished fourth with 1,051 votes. Neil M. Park received 814 votes.

The campaign dealt largely with ways in which the district will cope next fiscal year with the impact of SB 90, the state's new tax shift-school finance law.

Mrs. Setrakian had believed staff reductions unavoidable, with Mrs. Riccardi and Koppe hoping such a step could be avoided.

The new board, in addition to grappling with money problems, also will be working with a new superintendent — Eugene C. Peters, replacement for the late Anthony G. Bacich.

Larkspur Voters Return School Board Incumbents

Voters in the Larkspur School District elected a 20-year board veteran, two other incumbents and a policeman as trustees yesterday.

The three incumbents — John W. Boyd, with two decades of board service; Howard C. Harvey, on the board since 1965, and Leon Persson, a trustee for three years, easily won reelection.

In a special election to fill the unexpired term of Curtis P. Kamai, Charles E. Newman, juvenile officer in the Corte Madera Police Department, defeated contractor Anthony J. Moreno.

Boyd polled 1,347 votes; Harvey, 1,314, and Persson, 1,183, defeating W. Don Pack, 769; James McDonough, 721, and James Laviletta, 632.

Newman got 1,019 votes to 720 for Moreno and 265 for Oliver B. Larson Jr., who earlier had quit the race.

Campaign issues were difficulties presented the district by the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation and teacher tenure laws.

Novato Trustee Posts Are Filled

James E. Casassa, Betty Machado and Dr. John D. Kassenbrock yesterday won election to Novato Unified School District trusteeships, topping a field of eight candidates.

No incumbents ran for reelection. Casassa, who was first runner-up for a board seat in 1971, was the only candidate who had previously run for the school board.

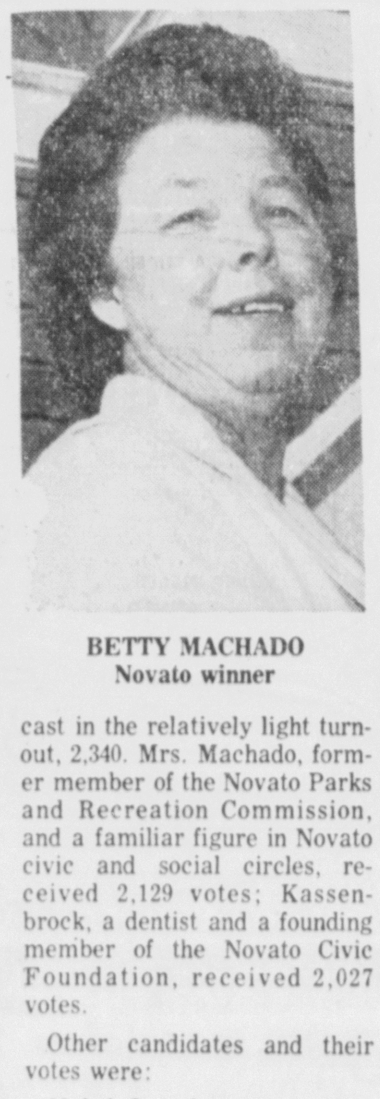
It will be July before the three take office. They expressed differing opinions last night about waiting on the sidelines while the present board wrestles with problems including the loss of students due to the ordered closing of Hamilton Air Force Base, teacher dissension over salaries and extracurricular duties, relocation of the district offices, and closing of one or more schools.

"I'd like to reverse the decision recently made to move the administration building," Mrs. Machado said.

"I'm a member-elect, not an actual trustee until July," Kassenbrock said. "Hopefully, by then, at least a direction will have been taken" toward solving the district's pressing problems.

Casassa said, "If Hamilton's really going to close, we're going to have to close some schools." He said he hoped the stress between board and teachers "can be worked out" but if the Hamilton closing cuts federal fund support to the district, "We'll have nothing to offer the teachers" unless the state helps the district.

Casassa is a school counselor in San Francisco. He apparently benefitted from prior near-success, getting the top vote cast in the relatively light turnout, 2,340. Mrs. Machado, former member of the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission, and a familiar figure in Novato civic and social circles, received 2,129 votes; Kassenbrock, a dentist and a founding member of the Novato Civic Foundation, received 2,027 votes.



BETTY MACHADO
Novato winner

Other candidates and their votes were:

Mabel Croughan, 1,918 votes; James Harrington Jr., 1,642 votes; Thomas J. Cleary, 1,455 votes; M. Morton Gaddy, 1,268, and William A. Lehigh, 1,232.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, did not have available last night the total voter turnout for the election, but it appeared to be only about one-third of the 16,773 registered voters eligible.

Mill Valley Incumbents Score Wins

Two Mill Valley School District board incumbents who favored educational innovation for the district were reelected yesterday — along with a newcomer who declared the district doesn't stress enough fundamentals.

In the six-way race for three seats open, incumbent John H. Cutler was leader with 2,919 votes; incumbent John G. Eliot received 2,805 votes to trail newcomer Dr. Thomas D. Spencer who got 2,894 votes. Eileen Bach-Y-Rita received 2,553 votes; Cate Bauer 2,544, and Harold A. Drob 1,074 votes.

Spencer, director of the Child Study Center at the California State University in San Francisco, was one of about 1,300 Mill Valley residents who signed a petition urging more attention to educational fundamentals, late in 1971.

Despite the issue of innovation versus fundamentals — and the fact that the Mill Valley board faces a crucial decision on proposed merger with Sausalito's schools, the voter turnout appeared relatively light.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, did not have figures available last night, but the turnout appeared to be an average-to-low figure of about 30 per cent of the district's 15,675 registered voters.

Smith Wins, Loses In Lagunitas Voting

Postal clerk Harry R. Smith joined three others yesterday in winning a seat on the Lagunitas School District board, but voters decided he would have to step down after serving less than two months.

Smith, vying for both the unexpired term and the full four-year stint of resigned Trustee Gary T. Giacomini, was picked to fill out the unfinished time which expires June 30, but denied a chance to continue on the board after that.

The four-year term went instead to Marilyn Marioni, who nipped the 30-year-old Smith by 52 votes. Mrs. Marioni, a classroom volunteer in district schools, got 501 votes; Smith, 449.

Smith won the special race over two other candidates with 361 votes.

Meanwhile, incumbent Richard C. Sloan was reelected to his seat, and former teacher Lee DiVincenzo also was named to a four-year term by voters.

The result in the regular race was Sloan, 576; Mrs. DiVincenzo, 541; Mrs. Marioni, 501; Patricia White, 471; Smith, 449, and Allan J. Kirchem, 392.

Mrs. DiVincenzo, Mrs. White and Kirchem also were entered in the special race to fill the unexpired term of Giacomini, since elected a county supervisor, receiving 233, 197 and 140 votes, respectively.

The primary issue in the campaign was the future course of open classroom and other alternative educational programs recently implemented in the district.

Sloan, Mrs. Marioni and Smith had run a joint campaign, stressing the need for schools to reach out more into the community.

Dixie School Board Will Have Newcomers

Incumbent Thomas Neal McNamara and two newcomers were elected yesterday to the Dixie School District board, culminating a campaign which focused on declining enrollment and tight finances.

McNamara, an attorney, received 2,402 votes to gain his third term on the board. Dr. Donal A. McEnhill, with 1,633 votes, and Coral Kay Beckmann, 1,227, were the other winners, trailed by Wayne E. Cliff, 952; Janice Pechauer, 826; Joseph Doyle, 529; Lance P. Moran, 487, and Nancy Buckelew, 472.

Mrs. Buckelew, like her husband in the Marin Community College District board contest, had withdrawn from the race.

McNamara had said during the campaign that while taxes in the Dixie district are the highest in Marin, he felt a desire by citizens to maintain a quality program "regardless of the cost to themselves."

Mrs. Beckmann, a free-lance home economist and teacher's aide, called for more individualized instruction and greater use of parents to assist teachers. McEnhill, a dentist successful on his second try for a board seat, had cited his regular attendance at board meetings for three years.

The new board must face in the coming months staff cutbacks looming as a result of fiscal woes.

Amnesty Vote

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — With no debaze and just one dissenting vote, the Florida Senate today adopted a resolution urging Congress to deny amnesty to draft dodgers of the Vietnam War.

Reed School Incumbents Win Easily

In contrast to former years' hot contests, Reed School District incumbents easily won reelection yesterday. Dr. John J. Osborn received 1,315 votes and Charles W. Patterson 1,257. Newcomer Dr. Robert K. Ockner, a medical school teacher, won the third open seat, from which Kenneth G. Wells will retire in June.

The fourth contender in the race was Donald Furlong, who trailed with 682 votes.

Osborn, a research physician, won office in 1971 via a recall election against Gordon C. Wright. Attorney Patterson was winner in a special election last June to fill the seat vacated when James R. Richwagen moved from the districts.

Based on campaign statements and prior performance, the elected trustees were expected by followers of Reed district affairs to continue the innovative trends begun in the late 1960s. The changes were unsuccessfully opposed by Wells, Wright and Richwagen in recent years.

Four New Members For Bolinas-Stinson Board

Bolinas-Stinson School District voters seated four new members on the five-member board of trustees yesterday, rejecting an incumbent who had supported a tax rate also rejected by voters.

The measure, to boost the district rate by 50 cents, lost resoundingly, 364-133.

Winners in the 10-candidate board race were Carolyn Brown, 300 votes; Michael D. Sanford, 292; Carol A. Flynn, 276, and Susan Washington, 193. Incumbent Michael E. Aitken, a deputy sheriff seeking his first full term on the board, became the only one of 21 Marin school board incumbents to be turned out of office.

Aitken ran fourth in a seven-way race for three seats in the regulary scheduled election. He got 256 votes, trailed by Diana L. Farnsworth, 203; Paul D. Mann, 183, and O'Brien Young, 62.

Mrs. Washington won a three-way contest for the unexpired term of incumbent John G. Barrow, who had resigned, She was trailed in the balloting by Peter B. Weston, 173 votes, and Russ Riviere, 117.

The tax vote was the campaign's overriding issue. If approved, the hike would have brought the district's total levy to $2.70 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Mrs. Brown, director of a Berkeley school for educationally handicapped children, and Sanford, an attorney, opposed the increase, while Mrs. Flynn, a pediatrician, and Mrs. Washington, a former teacher, endorsed it, along with Aitken.

While district officials said the school would be short up to $25,000 in revenue next fiscal year because of new state school finance provisions and the loss of revenue to national recreation areas, opponents said it was too early to assess such an impact and also believed other sources of funding could be sought.

Besides Aitken's, the seats of Jessie Reasoner and John W. Harris were up for grabs in yesterday's regular election. Reasoner and Harris had decided against seeking new terms.

Board Presideft Charles E. Hancock is the lone trustee holdover.

Jewels, Cash Stolen

LONDON (UPI) — Persian-born financier Sirdar Aly Aziz, 37, told police today thieves stole $225,000 worth of jewelry and cash from his hotel room. Aziz said he discovered the theft late Tuesday night when he returned to his room. Detectives said there was no sign of forced entry.

Singer Gets Jail Time Plus Fine

A 29-year-old singer and songwriter has been ordered to serve four months in jail and pay a $500 fine for possessing cocaine.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Robert Trotter on probation for one year for his first felony offense.

The disposition had been promised Trotter when he pleaded guilty March 6, but the district attorney's office sought nine months jail.

A charge of offering to sell cocaine was dismissed when Trotter pleaded guilty.

The musician, who recently recorded his first album, was arrested last July 14 at his home in Mill Valley when an informant told undercover agents he might be able to sell them cocaine.

A search of his house produced less than one gram of cocaine and 161 grams of marijuana, agents said.

Deputy Probation Officer Sarah Deming said Trotter drifted into drug usage as part of his musical career, but she concluded, "Mr. Trotter was raised with respect for the law and it is my opinion that he has retained much of this respect."

New Police Retirement Plan Eyed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, yesterday proposed legislation for a uniform retirement plan for all peace officers in California's 429 police and sheriff's departments.

In the second of three statewide news conferences, Karabian said, "I think if you ask a man for 20 years, his best 20 years, in a high risk occupation, you ought to give him an adequate retirement."

Under the plan the state would finance one-half of the program with the local agency and the individual picking up the rest. Karabian said there would be "a substantial cost factor" for the state but said he could not make an immediate monetary estimate.

"Lateral transfers will be greatly facilitated," Karabian said. "This is a desirable feature of the legislation, since it will result in the interchange of highly skilled and trained peace officers throughout the state."

Under the measure, which Karabian said he would introduce after the Easter recess, peace officers would be able to retire at half salary after 20 years, or at full salary after 30 years. He said present systems require officers to work to the age of 55, 62, or 65 at much lower benefits.

Karabian said that all citizens want better law enforcement but that all the legislature has done to improve it is to pass stiffer sentences for crimes.

"That doesn't help the policeman on the beat," he added.

Some 25,000 peace officers across the state would be eligible under the program.

Hayakawa Says Educational Wave Of Future In Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — S. I. Hayakawa, outgoing president at San Francisco State, said yesterday American education is too preoccupied with European universities for inspiration and that the educational wave of the future is in the Pacific.

At a luncheon billed as a "celebration of the new university status" of San Francisco State, and as a "farewell report" from Hayakawa, he said the school was developing programs centered on relations with Pacific nations.

"It has long been my conviction that American education is too preoccupied with looking eastward —toward Harvard, Columbia, Yale —which institutions in turn look towards Europe, towards Oxford and Heidelberg and the Sorbonne— for subject matter and inspiration," Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, said.

San Francisco is the "principal gateway to the nations in the Pacific Basin," Hayakawa said. "Tokyo and Manila, Peking and Melbourne are our next door neighbors." "Should we not develop great programs centered on our relations with Pacific nations?"

DR. S. I. HAYAKAWA
Outgoing president

"I am proud to say we have made a start towards this goal," he said.

San Francisco State has booked conference speakers from Japan, Taiwan, Korea, Philippines, Australia, Micronesia and other countries. The school has also established a chair of U.S.-Japan Relations, he said.

Protesting students struck the San Francisco campus in the late 1960s, rioting and challenging administrative authority represented by Hayawaka.

"In retrospect, it seems that it was the intention of radical students to make the paralysis and destruction at SFS a model to be followed by activists at other institutions," Hayakawa said. "SFS looked like a push-over."

Militants transferred and enrolled part-time to devote themselves to revolutionary activity at school. But "despite the seriousness of the pressures, SFS was the first major institution in which disruption and violence were brought to an end," he said.

"It is all too easy to exaggerate the importance of the events of 1968-69. They are but a brief episode in the long and honorable history of our institution."

There is little if any campus unrest now and Hayakawa said he has turned to broader concerns.

"...a matter which continues to trouble me is intellectual freedom in the university. We have all seen the enormous erosion of academic freedom since the 'triumph' of the so-called Free Speech Movement in Berkeley," he said. "For the better part of a decade, views dissenting from those of the liberal-radical left coalition have not been permitted to be heard on campus."

"We were faced with many such attempts to destroy the academic environment at SFS. Today, however, in classrooms and public lectures, rational and many-sided discussions have replaced the chanting of slogans and the screaming oratory of only a few years ago," he said.

Hayakawa said he will remain with SFS after stepping down as president. "I intend to stay at the university as President Emeritus in order to help complete some of the projecfs with which I have been associated," he said.

Riles Seeks To Clear Up 'Career Education'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Career education" in public schools is misunderstood, but it can open a door to a better life for women and racial minorities, state schools chief Wilson Riles said yesterday.

Riles said critics of career education complain that it deters academic training, shunts students into "teacher-chosen" careers, or prepares students for jobs that will be obsolete.

"Career education is none of these. It is rather a comprehensive, phase by phase exposure of students from pre-school through adult education to the full spectrum of career choices," Riles said.

It also includes training students in a marketable skill by the time they finish high school, either for a job or to help finance a college education, he said.

His remarks were prepared for a meeting of the Association of California School Administrators.

Riles said a teacher recently wrote to him to complain about the first grade reader she was forced to use. He said the teacher told him the mother depicted in the book was shown 33 times — 18 times wearing an apron and 15 times shopping. The father was shown only in a business suit at his office coming home from work. "It is little wonder that we find so few women in professional fields when we start them off in this manner," Riles said.

Dixie Trustee Gains Seat On Marin County Education Board

Dixie School District Trustee Dorothy C. Brown climbed a rung up the ladder yesterday, winning election to a seat on the Marin County Board of Education.

She received 2,855 votes in the three-way race for a newly created trustee area. Edward A. Tibbetts received 1,317 votes and Priscilla E. Phillips, 679.

Mrs. Brown will represent Trustee Area 3, the Dixie School District, Santa Venetia, Las Gallinas and the northerly portion of the San Rafael Elementary District.

Two other trustee areas had only one candidate each, who were automatically declared elected and thus didn't campaign. Incumbent board member Glen B. Robinson filed unopposed for Trustee Area 6, the Mill Valley and Sausalito school districts. Marilyn C. Steinau filed unopposed for Trustee Area 5, comprising Larkspur and Reed districts plus the Strawberry area.

Mrs. Brown has served on the Dixie board since 1957 and her present term will expire in June. Her election to the county board apparently was a result of her previous experience. She and the other two candidates expressed few differences of opinion about the county board's role, and Tibbetts confessed last month that he ran for the post principally because it appeared no other candidate would file.

Deadly Highway To Be Replaced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Highway Commission approved $5.2 million Tuesday to begin freeway construction along a two-lane stretch of California 4 near Concord.

The accident riddled thoroughfare has earned the nickname "blood alley."

Under the project, two miles of the road between California 242 in Concord and Willow Pass Road will be replaced with a six-lane freeway. Two more miles of the road in an easterly direction will be converted from a four-lane expressway to a freeway.

Total cost for the project was put at $18 million, with the balance to be funded from the 1974-75 fiscal budget. Bids were expected to be called early next year.

Special Session

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission will hold a special meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the San Rafael City Hall to further discuss the proposed renovation and relocation of the Boyd House located in Boyd Park at Mission Avenue and B Street in San Rafael

ELIZABETH M. DEEDY
Returns to seat

Mrs. Deedy A Victor In College Race

The lone incumbent, a former board member and a county probation officer were the choices of voters yesterday in an eight-way race for the Marin Community College District board.

In a contest which centered on the vagaries of school finance and development of Indian Valley Colleges in Novato, winners were incumbent Donald K. Felt, 17,687 votes; former trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy, 15,865, and Joseph E. Doherty of Novato, 10,477.

Others getting votes were James Kimo Campbell, 9,559; Joseph A. Gereghty Jr., 8,000; Anne B. Saltonstall, 7,175; George A. Magid, 6,426, and Alvin H. Buckelew, 5,526. Mrs. Saltonstall and Buckelew earlier had dropped out of the contest.

Each of the winners despite some opposing sentiment, endorsed pushing ahead with plans for Indian Valley, the new north campus of the College of Marin in Kentfield. A group of teachers has petitioned college officials for reexamination of the school's need.

Felt, who joined the board in 1968, is an attorney. Mrs. Deedy previously served 13 years as a college trustee, while Doherty is a 32-year-old probation officer and director of the Greater Novato Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Deedy and Doherty will replace trustees Theodore C. Wellman and Robert E. Oliver.

School Bond Is Approved In Cotati

Voters in the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District yesterday approved a $1.5-million school construction bond issue.

Unofficial but complete returns showed 1,204 yes votes as opposed to 425 no votes.

School district officials will use $400,000 of the funds to build a new school in the Holiday Park area and will keep the remaining $1.1 million in reserve for future projects. Approval of the bonds also makes the district eligible for state assistance for the project.

The measure required a two-thirds vote margin and received a strong 75 per cent voter approval.

Autos Stolen In San Rafael

Two cars were stolen sometime Monday night or yesterday morning from San Rafael streets, police reported.

His 1962 blue Chevrolet, license BHD-802, was taken from in front of his home at 550 Canal Street, James D. Dixon reported to police.

A 1967 black Citroen, license UAV-648, was taken from the 700 block of Lincoln Avenue, owner Lanny G. Berry of 685 Blackberry Lane, reported to police.

LOW IN calories and tasty, this eggplant casserole combines eggs and cheese with the eggplant for a low-cost meatless main dish.

Eggplant Casserole Is One Idea For Cutting Budget

With the current rise in interest in meatless and budget recipes, Peggy Hopkins, home economist for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael, suggests an eggplant casserole with eggs and cheese, spaghetti with clam sauce and some fish and egg ideas.

Any of the recipes can be added to the weekly repertory of dinner or lunch menus for variety, lower cost and good nutrition, as well as good taste.

The dishes are easy to make. The eggplant dish is about 163 calories per serving and the spaghetti about 285 per sering, for the calorie conscious.

One pound of eggplant has only 92 calories and, when combined with eggs and a small amount of cheese, makes a tasty casserole.

EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

1 pound eggplant
½ cup water
1 teaspoon seasoned salt, divided
½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
2 eggs, beaten
Dash tabasco
Fresh ground pepper
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
Paprika

Slice eggplant into half-inch thick slices; peel. Cut into half-inch cubes. Place in saucepan; add water and half teaspoon seasoned salt. Bring to boil, then simmer just until tender. Drain. Meanwhile, saute onion in margarine until limp. Combine eggplant, remaining salt, onion, cheddar cheese, eggs, tabasco and pepper. Toss to mix. Turn into buttered one-quart casserole. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese and paprika over top. Bake in 350-degree preheated oven for about 30 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes four servings, approximately 163 calories per serving and nine grams protein per serving.

Spaghetti with clam sauce is a tasty, inexpensive entree. It doesn't furnish one-third of the day's recommended allowance for protein; therefore, include either a green salad garnished with egg or a cottage cheese-and-fruit salad with it and perhaps pudding, custard or ice cream for dessert.

To make the clam sauce, cook the mixture thoroughly before adding the clams. Don't boil the sauce after clams are added because this causes them to be tough and rubbery. Add a teaspoon of butter, margarine or shortening to the cooking water for the spaghetti — this keeps it from sticking together.

SPAGHETTI WITH CLAM SAUCE

1 8-ounce can minced clams
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 small clove garlic, pressed
¼ cup minced onion
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
8 ounces spaghetti
¼ cup Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley, optional

Drain clams; reserve liquid; set aside. Melt margarine in saucepan; add onion and saute until limp. Add garlic and flour, mixing well. Cook, stirring, for one minute. Blend in milk and clam liquid. Cook, stirring, until mixture comes to a boil; boil one minute. Remove from heat and stir in seasonings, lemon juice and clams. Keep hot. Meanwhile, cook spaghetti according to directions on package. Drain and place on heating serving platter. Spoon clam sauce over spaghetti; sprinkle on Parmesan cheese and parsley. Makes four servings, approximately 20 cents per serving. Calories: 285 per serving; protein: 15 grams per serving.

POACHED FISH WITH EGG SAUCE

2 pounds fish fillets or steaks, fresh or frozen
2 cups boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon salt
3 peppercorns
2 sprigs parsley
1 bay leaf
Egg sauce
Paprika

Thaw frozen fish. Remove skin and bones from fish. Cut fish into six portions. Place fish in a well-greased 10-inch fry pan. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer for 5 to 10 minutes or *until fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Carefully remove fish to a hot platter. Pour egg sauce over the fish. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes six servings.

*The fish is done when the water turns milky in appearance

EGG SAUCE

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon powdered mustard
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1¼ cups milk
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Melt butter. Stir in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add eggs and parsley. Heat. Makes 1½ cups sauce.

This recipe is a delicious way to use up any leftover cooked fish, says Mrs. Hopkins.

This Tuna Special Offers High Protein

Hearty entrees with a good offering of protein can be had with foods other than costly red meats. This casserole recipe has that virtue along with others.

A top virtue of this casserole is that it freezes well. Put together enough for two meals. Bake in foil-lined casseroles using household weight foil. Freeze part to reheat later, still in the foil. Or, freeze all for another day.

An overwrap of heavy duty wrap holds the mixture safely frozen with no loss of flavor or food value.

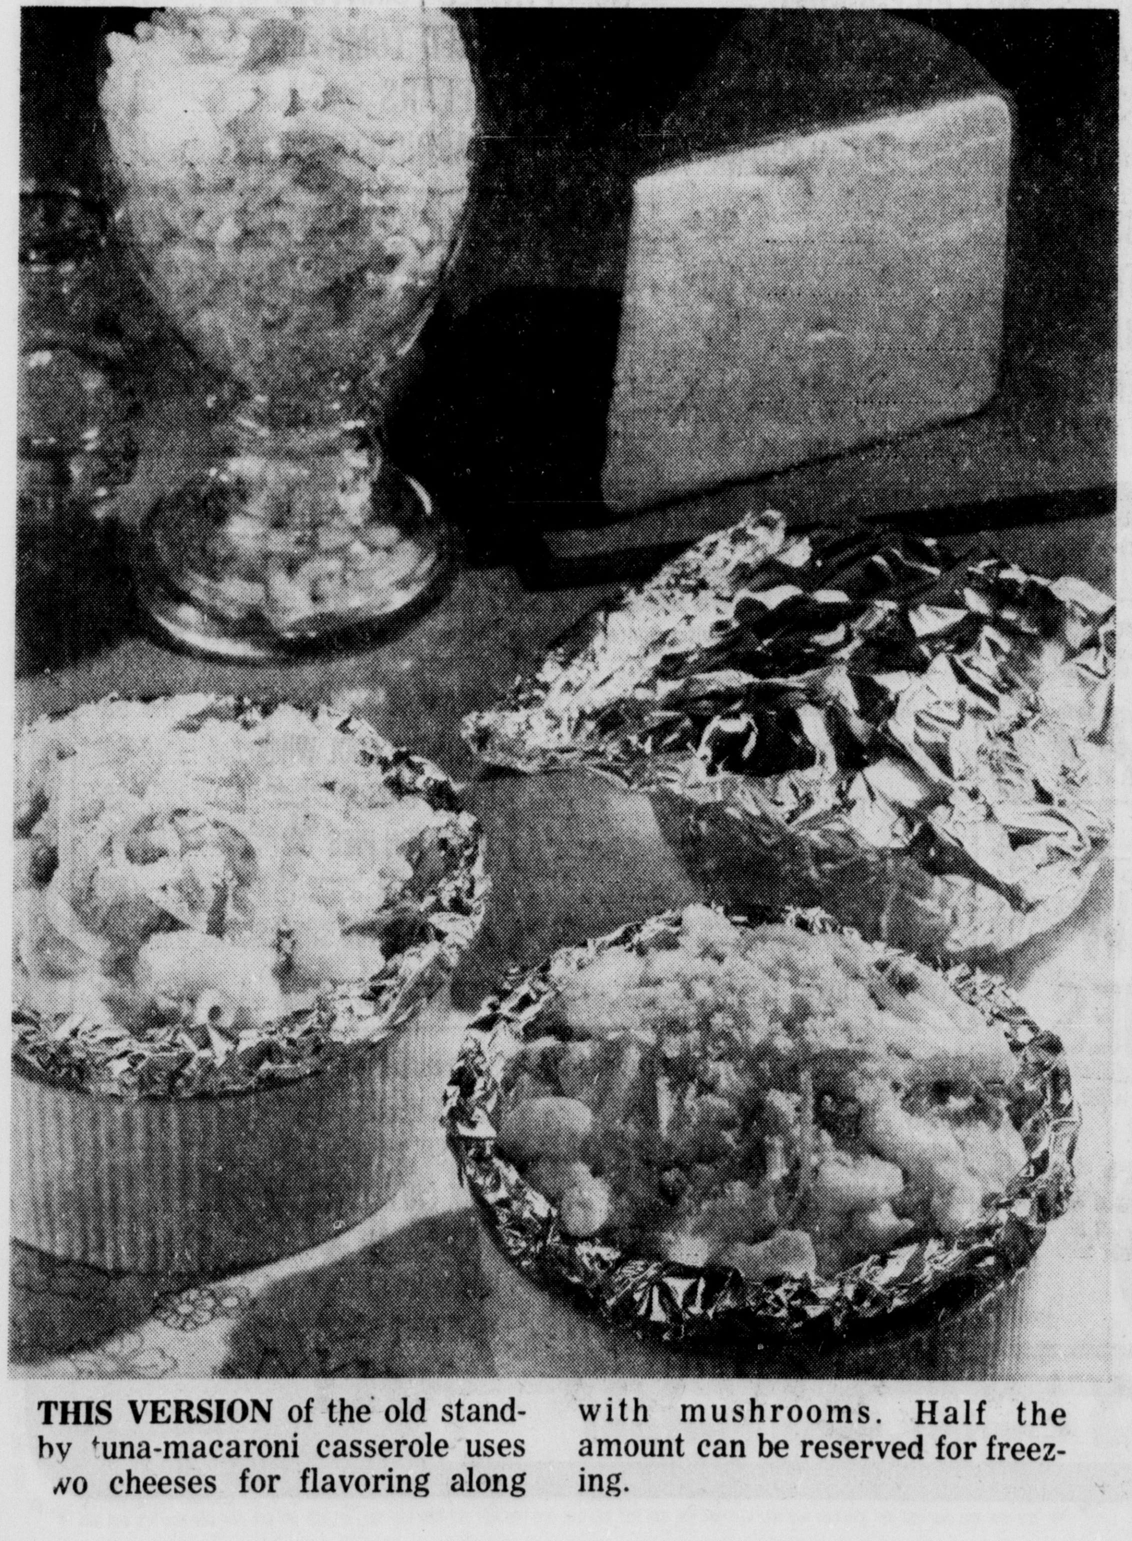
TUNA SPECIAL

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom pieces
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
¼ cup flour
1½ cups liquid (see below)
1⅔ cups (1 tall can) evaporated milk
1 can (7 oz.) tuna, drained
3 tablespoons chopped pimento
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
dash pepper
1 pkg. (7 or 8 oz.) elbow macaroni, cooked
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
⅓ cup grated parmesan cheese

Melt butter in two-quart saucepan. Drain mushrooms, reserving liquid. Saute mushrooms and onion in butter. Remove from heat; blend in flour. Add water to mushroom liquid to measure one and one-half cups; gradually stir into mushroom mixture. Stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in tuna, pimento, mustard, salt and pepper. Stir in cooked macaroni. Spoon into six foil-lined individual casseroles.

Top with cheeses. Freeze. When frozen solid, lift from casserole. Overwrap tightly with heavy duty Reynolds Wrap and return to freezer. When ready to bake, replace frozen block in original pan. Bake, covered, in preheated 400 degree oven for one hour.

Makes six servings.



THIS VERSION of the old standby tuna-macaroni casserole uses two cheeses for flavoring along with mushrooms. Half the amount can be reserved for freezing.

FROM OLD RUSSIA

A Traditional Easter Dessert

In old Russia, Easter was the most exuberantly joyful holiday of all. Beginning with Palm Sunday parades of the Czar and cross-carrying priests, Easter was celebrated for a full week, ending with traditionally rich Pashka dessert to complete Easter Sunday banqueting.

Pashka, a Russian version of the elegant French "coeur de creme", is a rich cheesecake creation: a blending of cream cheese, egg yolks, butter, ricotta cheese and sugar.

Pashka looks like Italian tortoni laced throughout with golden raisins and candied fruit peels. But, it becomes deliciously light and frothy when beaten egg whites are gently folded into the rich cheese mixture.

Instead of baking, Pashka mixture is poured into a special cylindrical mold and left to stand for 24 hours to permit excess moisture to drain off. These traditional molds had a special hole to permit this drainage. A modern-day substitute is a flower pot. Cleaned and lined with cheesecloth, it duplicates the authentic Pashka mold perfectly. At serving time, the Pashka is then unmolded onto a serving plate and decorated with flowers and traditional red Easter eggs.

PASHKA

5 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
½ pound butter, softened
1½ pounds Ricotta (or dry cottage cheese, sieved)
½ cup raisins
½ cup golden raisins
½ cup mixed candied fruit peels
1 cup blanched almonds (whole)
Flower pot, large enough to hold 2 quarts
Cheesecloth
6 hard cooked eggs, dyed red

Beat together egg yolks, sugar, vanilla and cream cheese. Blend in butter and Ricotta. Add raisins, fruit peels and almonds. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Line flower pot with several layers of cheesecloth. Spoon mixture into flower pot. Fold ends of cheesecloth over top surface. Weight mixture down with a heavy plate. Set pot in a bowl. Refrigerate at least 24 hours. Discard liquid that has drained into bowl.

To serve: Invert pot onto serving platter. Lift off. Peel off cheesecloth. Arrange red eggs around it and decorate with a candle and flower, if desired. Spoon onto individual plates. Keeps well, refrigerated, for two or three days.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

PASHKA, a confection from old Russia, is traditional as the Easter dessert, and is perfect as well for modern Easter dinners in America. It is served traditionally with red Easter eggs.

Singer Gets Jail Time Plus Fine

A 29-year-old singer and songwriter has been ordered to serve four months in jail and pay a $500 fine for possessing cocaine.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Robert Trotter on probation for one year for his first felony offense.

The disposition had been promised Trotter when he pleaded guilty March 6, but the district attorney's office sought nine months jail.

A charge of offering to sell cocaine was dismissed when Trotter pleaded guilty.

The musician, who recently recorded his first album, was arrested last July 14 at his home in Mill Valley when an informant told undercover agents he might be able to sell them cocaine.

A search of his house produced less than one gram of cocaine and 161 grams of marijuana, agents said.

Deputy Probation Officer Sarah Deming said Trotter drifted into drug usage as part of his musical career, but she concluded, "Mr. Trotter was raised with respect for the law and it is my opinion that he has retained much of this respect."

New Police Retirement Plan Eyed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, yesterday proposed legislation for a uniform retirement plan for all peace officers in California's 429 police and sheriff's departments.

In the second of three statewide news conferences, Karabian said, "I think if you ask a man for 20 years, his best 20 years, in a high risk occupation, you ought to give him an adequate retirement."

Under the plan the state would finance one-half of the program with the local agency and the individual picking up the rest. Karabian said there would be "a substantial cost factor" for the state but said he could not make an immediate monetary estimate.

"Lateral transfers will be greatly facilitated," Karabian said. "This is a desirable feature of the legislation, since it will result in the interchange of highly skilled and trained peace officers throughout the state."

Under the measure, which Karabian said he would introduce after the Easter recess, peace officers would be able to retire at half salary after 20 years, or at full salary after 30 years. He said present systems require officers to work to the age of 55, 62, or 65 at much lower benefits.

Karabian said that all citizens want better law enforcement but that all the legislature has done to improve it is to pass stiffer sentences for crimes.

"That doesn't help the policeman on the beat," he added.

Some 25,000 peace officers across the state would be eligible under the program.

Red Cross Course Set In Petaluma

A Red Cross standard first aid course will begin April 23 at Petaluma High School.

The free course will be given on Mondays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. through May 21. Basic principles of first aid will be taught by Patricia Tower of Santa Rosa.

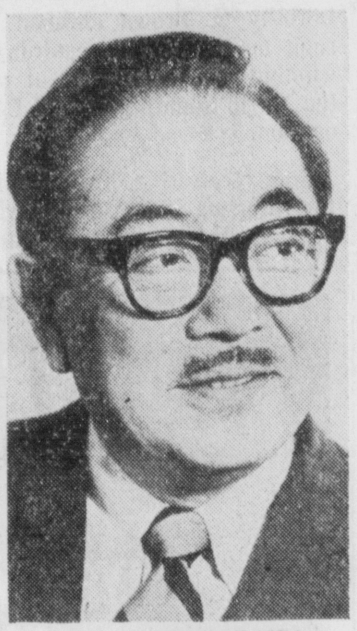
Hayakawa Says Educational Wave Of Future In Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — S. I. Hayakawa, outgoing president at San Francisco State, said yesterday American education is too preoccupied with European universities for inspiration and that the educational wave of the future is in the Pacific.

At a luncheon billed as a "celebration of the new university status" of San Francisco State, and as a "farewell report" from Hayakawa, he said the school was developing programs centered on relations with Pacific nations.

"It has long been my conviction that American education is too preoccupied with looking eastward —toward Harvard, Columbia, Yale —which institutions in turn look towards Europe, towards Oxford and Heidelberg and the Sorbonne— for subject matter and inspiration," Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, said.

San Francisco is the "principal gateway to the nations in the Pacific Basin," Hayakawa said. "Tokyo and Manila, Peking and Melbourne are our next door neighbors." "Should we not develop great programs centered on our relations with Pacific nations?"



DR. S. I. HAYAKAWA
Outgoing president

"I am proud to say we have made a start towards this goal," he said.

San Francisco State has booked conference speakers from Japan, Taiwan, Korea, Philippines, Australia, Micronesia and other countries. The school has also established a chair of U.S.-Japan Relations, he said.

Protesting students struck the San Francisco campus in the late 1960s, rioting and challenging administrative authority represented by Hayawaka.

"In retrospect, it seems that it was the intention of radical students to make the paralysis and destruction at SFS a model to be followed by activists at other institutions," Hayakawa said. "SFS looked like a push-over."

Militants transferred and enrolled part-time to devote themselves to revolutionary activity at school. But "despite the seriousness of the pressures, SFS was the first major institution in which disruption and violence were brought to an end," he said.

"It is all too easy to exaggerate the importance of the events of 1968-69. They are but a brief episode in the long and honorable history of our institution."

There is little if any campus unrest now and Hayakawa said he has turned to broader concerns.

"...a matter which continues to trouble me is intellectual freedom in the university. We have all seen the enormous erosion of academic freedom since the 'triumph' of the so-called Free Speech Movement in Berkeley," he said. "For the better part of a decade, views dissenting from those of the liberal-radical left coalition have not been permitted to be heard on campus."

"We were faced with many such attempts to destroy the academic environment at SFS. Today, however, in classrooms and public lectures, rational and many-sided discussions have replaced the chanting of slogans and the screaming oratory of only a few years ago," he said.

Hayakawa said he will remain with SFS after stepping down as president. "I intend to stay at the university as President Emeritus in order to help complete some of the projecfs with which I have been associated," he said.

Riles Seeks To Clear Up 'Career Education'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Career education" in public schools is misunderstood, but it can open a door to a better life for women and racial minorities, state schools chief Wilson Riles said yesterday.

Riles said critics of career education complain that it deters academic training, shunts students into "teacher-chosen" careers, or prepares students for jobs that will be obsolete.

"Career education is none of these. It is rather a comprehensive, phase by phase exposure of students from pre-school through adult education to the full spectrum of career choices," Riles said.

It also includes training students in a marketable skill by the time they finish high school, either for a job or to help finance a college education, he said.

His remarks were prepared for a meeting of the Association of California School Administrators.

Riles said a teacher recently wrote to him to complain about the first grade reader she was forced to use. He said the teacher told him the mother depicted in the book was shown 33 times — 18 times wearing an apron and 15 times shopping. The father was shown only in a business suit at his office coming home from work. "It is little wonder that we find so few women in professional fields when we start them off in this manner," Riles said.

Menus Stress Versatility Of Chicken

The versatility of chicken was stressed in the menus planned by the hostesses of Social Service Auxiliary of Marin for its spring luncheon and games day held last week. Most hostesses featured a cold chicken salad recipe, donated by Mrs. William Haley of Novato, while Mrs. Arthur Larkins of Larkspur served a hot chicken salad. Mocha and chocolate deserts were favorites among the party-givers. A mocha-brownie torte highlighted Mrs. Robert Celli's luncheon, while Mrs. Thomas Sinna served jamoca-fudge cream puffs as a co-hostess at the home of Mrs. James DuBois of San Rafael.

CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups diced chicken (2 full breasts)
2 can pineapple tidbits (drain for 24 hours)
½ cup pine nuts
½ cup sliced water chestnuts
¼ cup diced onions
1 cup celery (diced thin)
2 tbsp. light bleached seedless raisins
3 tbsp. chutney
Juice of one lemon

DRESSING

1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup sour cream
½ tsp. curry powder

Mix all ingredients, except the celery, and chill for 24 hours. Add celery at the last minute before serving. Makes four generous servings.

HOT CHICKEN LITTLE SALAD

2 cups cut-up cooked chicken or turkey
2 cups chopped celery
½ cup chopped toasted almonds
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. beau monde seasoning
1 tbsp. minced onion
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1⅔ cup of plain or seasoned croutons
½ cup grated American cheese

Combine chicken, celery, almonds, seasonings and mayonnaise. Place in shallow baking pan or individual casseroles. Top with croutons and grated cheese. Bake in 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Serves four.

JAMOCA-FUDGE CREAMPUFFS

¼ lb. cube of butter
1 cup water
1 cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
4 eggs

Add butter to boiling water, stir to melt. Add flour and salt together. Cook, stirring vigorously, until mixture is smooth and forms a soft ball that does not separate. Cool mixture slightly, add eggs, one at a time. Beat vigorously, after each egg is added. Beat until mixture is smooth. Drop batter onto greased cookie sheet and bake in a 450 degree oven for 15 minutes, then in a 325 degree oven for an additional 25 minutes. Makes 12 puffs.

Make cream puffs from pastry recipe and allow to cool completely. Slice puffs and fill with jamoca-almond fudge ice cream. Drizzle fudge topping over top of filled puff.

MOCHA BROWNIE TORTE

1 package (15.5 ounces) of fudge brownie mix
¼ cup water
2 eggs
½ cup finely chopped nuts
1½ cups chilled whipping cream*
⅓ cup brown sugar (packed)
1 tablespoon powdered instant coffee
Shaved chocolate

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 2 layer pans, 9x1½ inches. Blend brownie mix (dry), water and eggs. Stir in nuts. Spread in pans.

Bake 20 minutes. Cool five minutes in pans; remove from pans and place on wire racks to cool completely.

In chilled bowl, beat cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually add sugar and instant coffee; continue beating until stiff. Fill layers with 1 cup of the cream mixture. Frost with remaining cream mixture; sprinkle with chocolate. Chill at least one hour.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

*Three cups frozen whipped topping (thawed) can be substituted for the whipping cream and sugar.

New Metric System Tips

Within 10 years it is expected that the United States will be converted to the International Metric System. Authorities agree that the first step toward switching to metric is to start thinking metric.

One way for the homemaker is with a new liquid measuring cup. It includes the customary cup and ounce measurements up to 2 cups (16 liquid ounces) plus metric measurements to 500 milliliters —a cook's introduction to the metric system.

There are six basic units in the International Metric System. The unit of length is meter, mass is gram, volume is liter, time is second, electric current is ampere, and temperature is celsius (formerly called centigrade). All other units of measurements are expansions of these six base units. The entire system is based on ten and multiples or submultiples of ten.

A milliliter, the measurement used for the new measuring cup, for example, is one thousandths of a liter. A liter is a unit slightly larger than a quart. Five hundred milliliters measure a little more than 2 cups, or a little more than a pint.

When you want to remove the core from grapefruit halves, a kitchen scissors will do a neat job.

2 small green onions, chopped
¼ cup (2 ounces) finely chopped prosciutto
1 medium tomato sliced thin
Additional shredded cheese
Olive slices for garnish
Chopped parsley

Trim crust from bread and save for other use (i.e. bread crumbs). Spread each slice with softened butter on each side and arrange over the bottom of a shallow one and a half quart square casserole. Sprinkle and distribute the cheese, olive slices, onions and prosciutto over the bread. Beat eggs until light and blend in the milk and wine. Carefully pour over the bread slices and other ingredients.

At this point, after adding the egg mixture, you can cover with plastic wrap and set aside for 30 to 45 minutes before baking. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20-30 minutes or until custard is set and puffs up slightly. Top with thin slices of tomato and additional cheese; bake five to eight minutes longer.

Allow to set for a few minutes before serving. Garnish with additional olive slices and chopped parsley.

Serves four.

FROM OLD RUSSIA

A Traditional Easter Dessert

In old Russia, Easter was the most exuberantly joyful holiday of all. Beginning with Palm Sunday parades of the Czar and cross-carrying priests, Easter was celebrated for a full week, ending with traditionally rich Pashka dessert to complete Easter Sunday banqueting.

Pashka, a Russian version of the elegant French "coeur de creme", is a rich cheesecake creation: a blending of cream cheese, egg yolks, butter, ricotta cheese and sugar.

Pashka looks like Italian tortoni laced throughout with golden raisins and candied fruit peels. But, it becomes deliciously light and frothy when beaten egg whites are gently folded into the rich cheese mixture.

Instead of baking, Pashka mixture is poured into a special cylindrical mold and left to stand for 24 hours to permit excess moisture to drain off. These traditional molds had a special hole to permit this drainage. A modern-day substitute is a flower pot. Cleaned and lined with cheesecloth, it duplicates the authentic Pashka mold perfectly. At serving time, the Pashka is then unmolded onto a serving plate and decorated with flowers and traditional red Easter eggs.

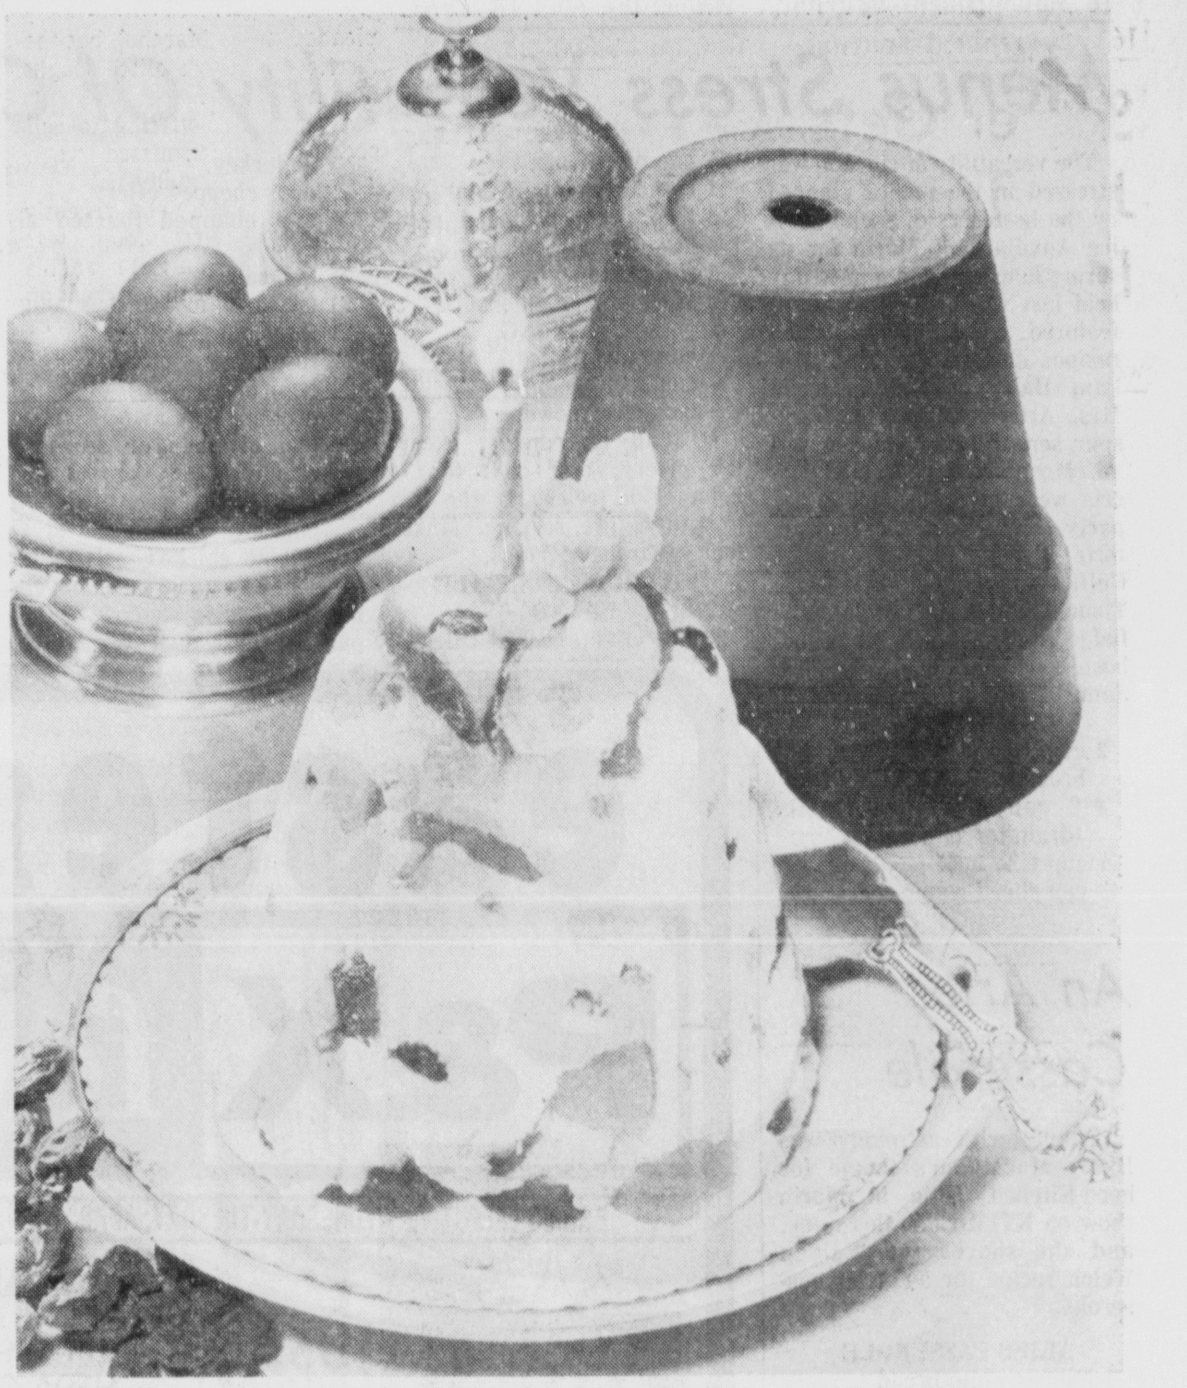
PASHKA

5 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
½ pound butter, softened
1½ pounds Ricotta (or dry cottage cheese, sieved)
½ cup raisins
½ cup golden raisins
½ cup mixed candied fruit peels
1 cup blanched almonds (whole)
Flower pot, large enough to hold 2 quarts
Cheesecloth
6 hard cooked eggs, dyed red

Beat together egg yolks, sugar, vanilla and cream cheese. Blend in butter and Ricotta. Add raisins, fruit peels and almonds. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Line flower pot with several layers of cheesecloth. Spoon mixture into flower pot. Fold ends of cheesecloth over top surface. Weight mixture down with a heavy plate. Set pot in a bowl. Refrigerate at least 24 hours. Discard liquid that has drained into bowl.

To serve: Invert pot onto serving platter. Lift off. Peel off cheesecloth. Arrange red eggs around it and decorate with a candle and flower, if desired. Spoon onto individual plates. Keeps well, refrigerated, for two or three days.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.



PASHKA, a confection from old Russia, is traditional as the Easter dessert, and is perfect as well for modern Easter dinners in America. It is served traditionally with red Easter eggs.

LOW IN calories and tasty, this eggplant casserole combines eggs and cheese with the eggplant for a low-cost meatless main dish.

Eggplant Casserole Is One Idea For Cutting Budget

With the current rise in interest in meatless and budget recipes, Peggy Hopkins, home economist for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael, suggests an eggplant casserole with eggs and cheese, spaghetti with clam sauce and some fish and egg ideas.

Any of the recipes can be added to the weekly repertory of dinner or lunch menus for variety, lower cost and good nutrition, as well as good taste.

The dishes are easy to make. The eggplant dish is about 163 calories per serving and the spaghetti about 285 per sering, for the calorie conscious.

One pound of eggplant has only 92 calories and, when combined with eggs and a small amount of cheese, makes a tasty casserole.

EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

1 pound eggplant
½ cup water
1 teaspoon seasoned salt, divided
½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
2 eggs, beaten
Dash tabasco
Fresh ground pepper
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
Paprika

Slice eggplant into half-inch thick slices; peel. Cut into half-inch cubes. Place in saucepan; add water and half teaspoon seasoned salt. Bring to boil, then simmer just until tender. Drain. Meanwhile, saute onion in margarine until limp. Combine eggplant, remaining salt, onion, cheddar cheese, eggs, tabasco and pepper. Toss to mix. Turn into buttered one-quart casserole. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese and paprika over top. Bake in 350-degree preheated oven for about 30 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes four servings, approximately 163 calories per serving and nine grams protein per serving.

Spaghetti with clam sauce is a tasty, inexpensive entree. It doesn't furnish one-third of the day's recommended allowance for protein; therefore, include either a green salad garnished with egg or a cottage cheese-and-fruit salad with it and perhaps pudding, custard or ice cream for dessert.

To make the clam sauce, cook the mixture thoroughly before adding the clams. Don't boil the sauce after clams are added because this causes them to be tough and rubbery. Add a teaspoon of butter, margarine or shortening to the cooking water for the spaghetti — this keeps it from sticking together.

SPAGHETTI WITH CLAM SAUCE

1 8-ounce can minced clams
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 small clove garlic, pressed
¼ cup minced onion
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
8 ounces spaghetti
¼ cup Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley, optional

Drain clams; reserve liquid; set aside. Melt margarine in saucepan; add onion and saute until limp. Add garlic and flour, mixing well. Cook, stirring, for one minute. Blend in milk and clam liquid. Cook, stirring, until mixture comes to a boil; boil one minute. Remove from heat and stir in seasonings, lemon juice and clams. Keep hot. Meanwhile, cook spaghetti according to directions on package. Drain and place on heating serving platter. Spoon clam sauce over spaghetti; sprinkle on Parmesan cheese and parsley. Makes four servings, approximately 20 cents per serving. Calories: 285 per serving; protein: 15 grams per serving.

POACHED FISH WITH EGG SAUCE

2 pounds fish fillets or steaks, fresh or frozen
2 cups boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon salt
3 peppercorns
2 sprigs parsley
1 bay leaf
Egg sauce
Paprika

Thaw frozen fish. Remove skin and bones from fish. Cut fish into six portions. Place fish in a well-greased 10-inch fry pan. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer for 5 to 10 minutes or *until fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Carefully remove fish to a hot platter. Pour egg sauce over the fish. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes six servings.

*The fish is done when the water turns milky in appearance

EGG SAUCE

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon powdered mustard
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1¼ cups milk
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Melt butter. Stir in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add eggs and parsley. Heat. Makes 1½ cups sauce.

This recipe is a delicious way to use up any leftover cooked fish, says Mrs. Hopkins.

This Tuna Special Offers High Protein

Hearty entrees with a good offering of protein can be had with foods other than costly red meats. This casserole recipe has that virtue along with others.

A top virtue of this casserole is that it freezes well. Put together enough for two meals. Bake in foil-lined casseroles using household weight foil. Freeze part to reheat later, still in the foil. Or, freeze all for another day.

An overwrap of heavy duty wrap holds the mixture safely frozen with no loss of flavor or food value.

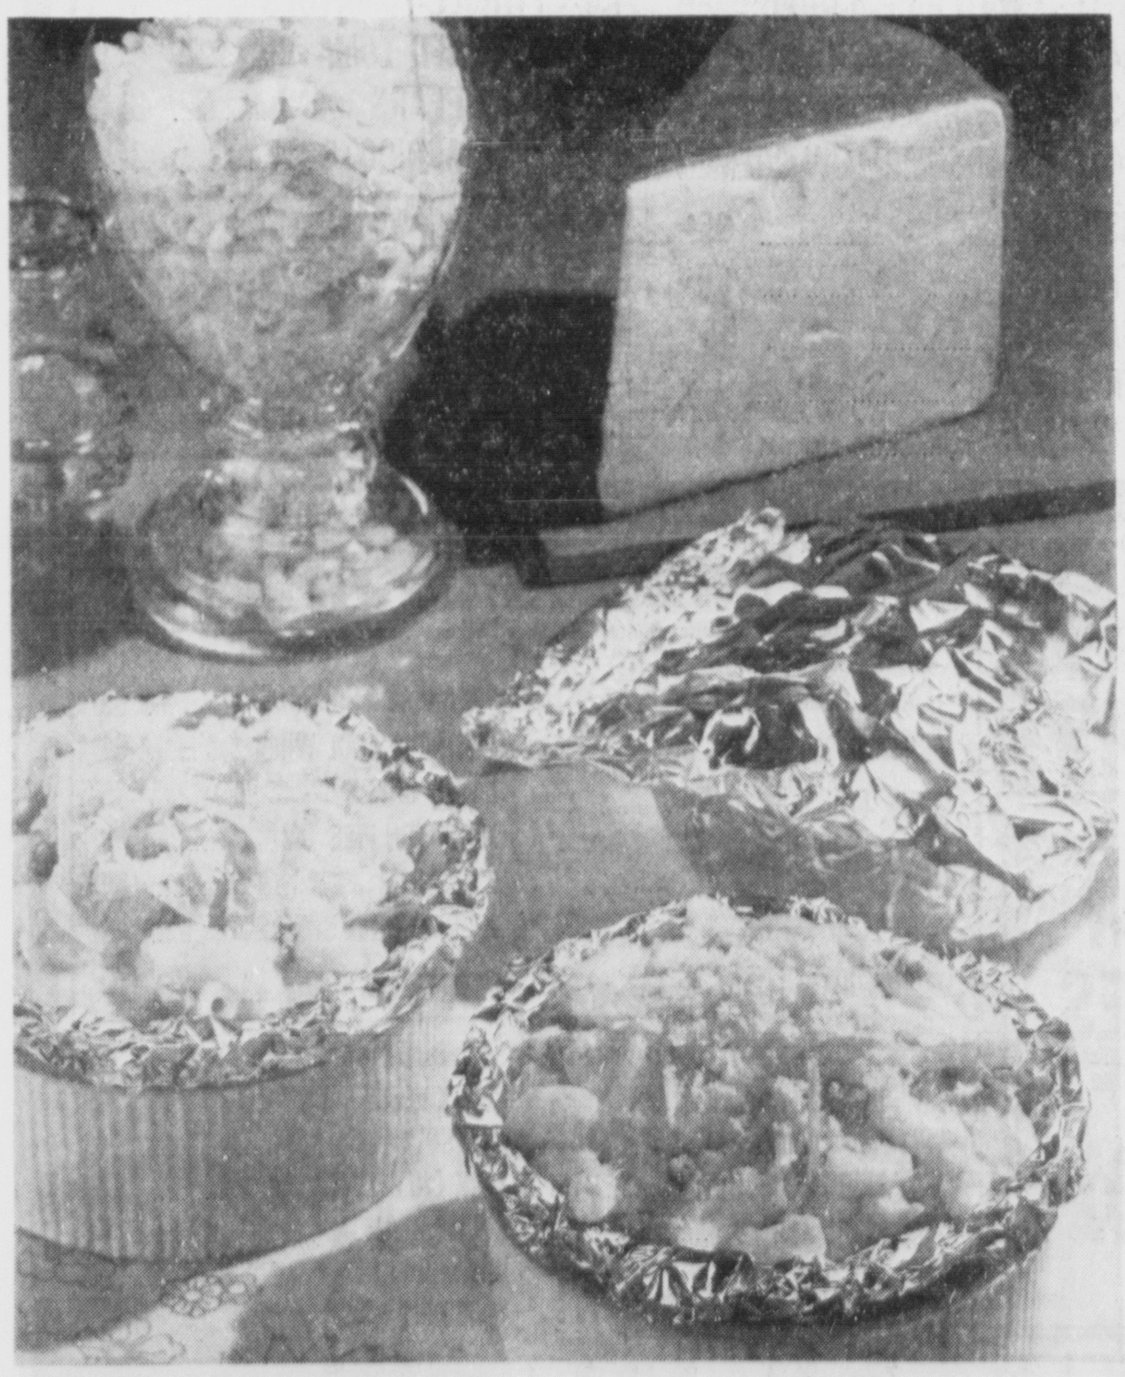
TUNA SPECIAL

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom pieces
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
¼ cup flour
1½ cups liquid (see below)
1⅔ cups (1 tall can) evaporated milk
1 can (7 oz.) tuna, drained
3 tablespoons chopped pimento
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
dash pepper
1 pkg. (7 or 8 oz.) elbow macaroni, cooked
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
⅓ cup grated parmesan cheese

Melt butter in two-quart saucepan. Drain mushrooms, reserving liquid. Saute mushrooms and onion in butter. Remove from heat; blend in flour. Add water to mushroom liquid to measure one and one-half cups; gradually stir into mushroom mixture. Stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in tuna, pimento, mustard, salt and pepper. Stir in cooked macaroni. Spoon into six foil-lined individual casseroles.

Top with cheeses. Freeze. When frozen solid, lift from casserole. Overwrap tightly with heavy duty Reynolds Wrap and return to freezer. When ready to bake, replace frozen block in original pan. Bake, covered, in preheated 400 degree oven for one hour.

Makes six servings.



THIS VERSION of the old standby tuna-macaroni casserole uses two cheeses for flavoring along with mushrooms. Half the amount can be reserved for freezing.

Men Cut The Meat, But Women Wrap It

By BETTY FROST

MEAT WRAPPER Elizabeth Jackson puts lamb shoulder chops on a conveyor belt. The chops have been cut and placed on cartons by a meat cutter at the Cooperative Food Store in Corte Madera.

Marin County has no women meat cutters, but there are 40 women meat wrappers here. Last week 17 meat wrappers were working, according to Ernest Couly, business representative of Butcher Union Local 115.

"The meat boycott was responsible for the unemployment of four," Couly said. "Some also took vacations, and those who were on vacations were not replaced."

The ratio of men meat cutters to women meat wrappers is five to one. Women were first employed as meat wrappers during World War II when the self-service wrap was introduced to meat markets. Now apprentice meat cutters in the large markets also learn to wrap and can assist the wrappers at peak periods.

By tradition, the work of cutting meat has been a job for men because the quarters, weighing from 120 to 165 pounds, were believed to be too heavy for the women to handle. The women wrappers are only permitted to carry loads of 25 pounds or less, according to the union spokesman.

TWO MARIN women employed as meat wrappers were interviewed at their work last week.

Behind the well-stocked meat counter at the Cooperative Food Store in Corte Madera, Elizabeth Jackson, meat wrapper, talked about her job, never slowing her pace.

She operates an automatic scale and wrapping machine, feeding into it meat cut and placed on a paper carton by the butcher. The scale makes an adjustment for the weight of the carton as it sends the meat along a conveyor belt. The meat is automatically wrapped in lightweight plastic, the wrapping is heat sealed, the price is attached and the finished package returned to Mrs. Jackson. The meat wrapper has three dials to adjust on the machine — for weighing, wrapping and labeling. The machine also has a safety device, so that Mrs. Jackson can stop it instantly in case of any difficulty.

THE WORKER transfers the wrapped meats to trays and carries them to the display case.

For lighter items, such as cheese, sausage and delicatessen meats, there is a hand scale. The only items the wrapper cuts are cheese and such meat products as salami and bologna. These she also hand wraps in an area behind the window where the butchers work. She seals the plastic wrap with a special hot iron, prices the packages, and carries them to the display case.

"All the scales are adjusted so that the customer does not pay for the box," Mrs. Jackson explained.

Customers stopped the woman a number of times to ask questions or place special orders. Mrs. Jackson is the only meat wrapper in the Coop meat market.

She works fast. Monday is a particularly busy day, because prices are changed.

MRS. JACKSON has been a meat wrapper for seven years. She enjoys her job and said, "I like to work fast, and I like a challenging job."

She works five days a week, working from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays. In the summer, during vacation schedules, she is sometimes assigned to other markets in Marin.

She found out about an opening through a friend in the East Bay, who was employed as a meat wrapper. Mrs. Jackson received her training at the Cooperative Store on Shattuck Avenue in Berkeley. Mrs. Jackson, a divorcee, is the mother of five children. She lives in Corte Madera.

Despite the 15 per cent rollback in beef prices at the Marin Coop, Mrs. Jackson said, "We have not been as busy as usual. Many of our customers have told me that they wished to express themselves on this issue by observing the boycott."

AT THE Safeway Store in Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center, Virginia Langhoff is the meat wrapper.

Mrs. Langhoff started wrapping 17 years ago and took on the job training at the old Purity Store in Mill Valley. Her husband had retired from the Army, and Mrs. Langhoff wanted to help him finance a college education. She liked the work so well she never left the job.

"I like it," she said, "I like to be around people, and I like an active job."

The customers ask her questions about meat and poultry on display. "They want to know how to cook it, and how long to cook it." she said. Mrs. Langhoff often buys things that are being introduced. She tries the product out herself so she will be able to give the shoppers the benefit of her first hand experience.

Her only complaint about the job is, "It gets cold. The cold air comes off the refrigeration system." She also finds sturdy comfortable shoes a help, since she is on her feet all day.

The day of the interview was an unusual one for Mrs. Langhoff, because the weighing, wrapping machine was not working, so she was using the hand scale for weighing and hand wrapping the food.

THE PRICE sticker also indicates the day the meat was wrapped, she pointed out. The packages are kept on the counter for three days, then pulled. Sometimes these items are marked down and put back in the case, depending upon the perishability of the product.

There was an easy exchange of banter between the wrapper and the cutters. She indicated that one of the apprentices would help with the wrapping while the machine was being repaired.

Born Virginia Witsch, the woman is a native of Mill Valley and a graduate of Tamalpais High School. Her husband, Arthur, grew up in Sausalito. Langhoff is employed at the Earthquake Mechanism Laboratory, an agency of the Department of Commerce, in San Francisco. They live in Mill Valley.

On nice days, Mrs. Langhoff rides her bicycle to work.

"Lots of women ask me about wrapping as a career," she said. Evidently she holds a high opinion of her work, because one of her six children, Donna, worked as a meat wrapper before her marriage. Now Donna Turner, the daughter is living in Japan.

VIRGINIA LANGHOFF, meat wrapper at the Safeway Market in Strawberry places lightweight plastic sheet around a carton containing Alaskan King Crab. She seals the package on a heated panel.

English Pushing Tweeds, Corduroy

Country clothes of tweeds and corduroy is the message from London designers, reports Women's Wear Daily. The mood is a return to the kind of suit looks worn by aristocratic ladies in English literature.

The suit is being revived in herringbone as well as the ribbed, shawl-collared cardigan. The emphasis is on rich fabrics but the cut is becoming more Western.

Boiling a cut up lemon and water together in glass cookware will remove the crusted lime deposit.

Mrs. Ward H. Austin will speak about "The History of Marin" after the luncheon. Mrs. Austin has been a resident of Marin County since 1927, and is a former Tamalpais High School teacher. The program will follow the luncheon.

The New Members Group is in charge of the program; Mrs. N. S. Zand of Sausalito is reservations chairman, and Mrs. Ralph Sabin of Mill Valley is in charge of child care arrangements.

MRS. WILLIAM S. Gavin, the founding president of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women, presented $2,500 to the branch at a tea Sunday at the home of Mrs. Michael Praszker in Mill Valley.

The gift, designated as the Janet Breed Gavin Mill Valley Endowment, will be used to aid the branch's college fellowship program. Mr. and Mrs. Gavin, Mill Valley residents, are publishers of the Radio Program Conference, a music newsletter, which annually makes a donation for a worthwhile purpose. Mrs. Gavin was president of the Mill Valley Branch of the AAUW from 1949 to 1951.

The tea honored all past presidents and officers. Mrs. Praszker is completing her two year term as president of the branch.

A WOMEN'S luncheon will be held Tuesday at noon sponsored by the Marin County Lay Institute for Evangelism for Marin Women. The luncheon will be held at the NCO Club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Speaker will be Connie Van Maanen, institute co-director from Palo Alto.

There Is Good News For Women

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — College women entering the employment market this year have a better chance of landing a job than women graduates in previous years.

That's the forecast of the 27th annual Endicott Report, a copyrighted study of trends in employment of college and university graduates in business and industry. Endicott reported 35 per cent more women will be hired in 1973 than in 1972, surveyed companies indicated.

Menus Stress Versatility Of Chicken

The versatility of chicken was stressed in the menus planned by the hostesses of Social Service Auxiliary of Marin for its spring luncheon and games day held last week. Most hostesses featured a cold chicken salad recipe, donated by Mrs. William Haley of Novato, while Mrs. Arthur Larkins of Larkspur served a hot chicken salad. Mocha and chocolate deserts were favorites among the party-givers. A mocha-brownie torte highlighted Mrs. Robert Celli's luncheon, while Mrs. Thomas Sinna served jamoca-fudge cream puffs as a co-hostess at the home of Mrs. James DuBois of San Rafael.

CHICKEN SALAD

- 2 cups diced chicken (2 full breasts)
- # 2 can pineapple tidbits (drain for 24 hours)
- ½ cup pine nuts
- ½ cup sliced water chestnuts
- ¼ cup diced onions
- 1 cup celery (diced thin)
- 2 tbsp. light bleached seedless raisins
- 3 tbsp. chutney
- Juice of one lemon

DRESSING

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ½ cup sour cream
- ½ tsp. curry powder

Mix all ingredients, except the celery, and chill for 24 hours. Add celery at the last minute before serving. Makes four generous servings.

HOT CHICKEN LITTLE SALAD

- 2 cups cut-up cooked chicken or turkey
- 2 cups chopped celery
- ½ cup chopped toasted almonds
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. beau monde seasoning
- 1 tbsp. minced onion
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 1⅔ cup of plain or seasoned croutons
- ½ cup grated American cheese

Combine chicken, celery, almonds, seasonings and mayonnaise. Place in shallow baking pan or individual casseroles. Top with croutons and grated cheese. Bake in 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Serves four.

JAMOCA-FUDGE CREAMPUFFS

- ¼ lb. cube of butter
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup flour
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 4 eggs

Add butter to boiling water, stir to melt. Add flour and salt together. Cook, stirring vigorously, until mixture is smooth and forms a soft ball that does not separate. Cool mixture slightly, add eggs, one at a time. Beat vigorously, after each egg is added. Beat until mixture is smooth. Drop batter onto greased cookie sheet and bake in a 450 degree oven for 15 minutes, then in a 325 degree oven for an additional 25 minutes. Makes 12 puffs.

Make cream puffs from pastry recipe and allow to cool completely. Slice puffs and fill with jamoca-almond fudge ice cream. Drizzle fudge topping over top of filled puff.

MOCHA BROWNIE TORTE

- 1 package (15.5 ounces) of fudge brownie mix
- ¼ cup water
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup finely chopped nuts
- 1½ cups chilled whipping cream*
- ⅓ cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 tablespoon powdered instant coffee
- Shaved chocolate

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 2 layer pans, 9x1½ inches. Blend brownie mix (dry), water and eggs. Stir in nuts. Spread in pans.

Bake 20 minutes. Cool five minutes in pans; remove from pans and place on wire racks to cool completely.

In chilled bowl, beat cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually add sugar and instant coffee; continue beating until stiff. Fill layers with 1 cup of the cream mixture. Frost with remaining cream mixture; sprinkle with chocolate. Chill at least one hour.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

*Three cups frozen whipped topping (thawed) can be substituted for the whipping cream and sugar.

New Metric System Tips

Within 10 years it is expected that the United States will be converted to the International Metric System. Authorities agree that the first step toward switching to metric is to start thinking metric.

One way for the homemaker is with a new liquid measuring cup. It includes the customary cup and ounce measurements up to 2 cups (16 liquid ounces) plus metric measurements to 500 milliliters —a cook's introduction to the metric system.

There are six basic units in the International Metric System. The unit of length is meter, mass is gram, volume is liter, time is second, electric current is ampere, and temperature is celsius (formerly called centigrade). All other units of measurements are expansions of these six base units. The entire system is based on ten and multiples or submultiples of ten.

A milliliter, the measurement used for the new measuring cup, for example, is one thousandths of a liter. A liter is a unit slightly larger than a quart. Five hundred milliliters measure a little more than 2 cups, or a little more than a pint.

When you want to remove the core from grapefruit halves, a kitchen scissors will do a neat job.

An Aries Casserole

Cooking with astrology was Diane MacMillan's theme for her Kitchen Time in Marin show on KTIM radio this week, and she shares the Walden Welch recipe for an Aries casserole.

ARIES CASSEROLE

- 4-5 slices white bread soft butter
- 4 eggs
- 1½ cups light cream or milk
- ½ cup dry white wine
- 2 cups shredded cheddar or Swiss cheese
- ¼ cup sliced olives
- 2 small green onions, chopped
- ¼ cup (2 ounces) finely chopped prosciutto
- 1 medium tomato sliced thin
- Additional shredded cheese
- Olive slices for garnish
- Chopped parsley

Trim crust from bread and save for other use (i.e. bread crumbs). Spread each slice with softened butter on each side and arrange over the bottom of a shallow one and a half quart square casserole. Sprinkle and distribute the cheese, olive slices, onions and prosciutto over the bread. Beat eggs until light and blend in the milk and wine. Carefully pour over the bread slices and other ingredients.

At this point, after adding the egg mixture, you can cover with plastic wrap and set aside for 30 to 45 minutes before baking. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20-30 minutes or until custard is set and puffs up slightly. Top with thin slices of tomato and additional cheese; bake five to eight minutes longer.

Allow to set for a few minutes before serving. Garnish with additional olive slices and chopped parsley.

Serves four.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Wants To Put The Squeeze On Escalating Price Of Meat

DEAR HELEN:

When plain old almost meatless beef neck bones cost nearly 50 cents a pound, it's time to strike!

We hear of college people eating dog food to protest the high cost of living, and some "meatless days" talk, but why doesn't everyone make it plain we won't take these high prices?

I'm weary of sob stories about farmers and ranchers. I know a few meat growers, and they're shopping for Cadillacs. You can't tell me that meat prices had to jump over 50 cents per pound in a month because cattle feed and marketing costs increased a corresponding amount! It just isn't possible.

So long as sellers think they have a captive market, they'll gouge the buyers. Our only recourse is to concentrate on meat substitutes and the cheaper produce (or grow our own gardens and a flock of chickens) until our lack of demand brings prices down. Even a "freeze" at present prices would be disastrous.

How about it, housewives and husbands? We can stop inflation all the way along the line if we practice selective buying. I'm tired of everybody blaming the "middleman" and passing the buck. — OUT OF BUCKS

DEAR OOB:

Housewives, arise!

Here's one who has already arisen; and so have many of my friends who are rediscovering Spanish omelets, cheese souffles, hamburger casseroles and good old Pinto beans. Ingredients in such high-protein foods aren't cheap (what is, these days?) but they beat straight meat at $2 plus per pound.

Moreover, they're more fun to cook. It takes real ingenuity, turning beans into a gourmet dish, right? — H.

P.S. Just thought of a great cartoon caption for our campaign: "The Bucks Stop Here!" — with an arrow pointing to a homemaker's flat purse. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We told our college son to call home collect, as hearing from him regularly is important.

But since he doesn't have to pay the toll, he calls from 2,000 miles away about three times a week and talks for an hour or more.

We're thrilled to hear from him, but our phone bill looks like the national debt. If I complain, he may stop calling altogether. We've never wanted to look cheap in his eyes. What would you suggest? — CALLED BROKE IN CALIF.

DEAR C.B.:

Welcome to the "For Whom Ma Bell Tolls" club. (She tolls mainly for parents of college students.)

"Rules" will make you an ex-member. Tell your son a direct-dial, after 9 p.m. call is great, but the U.S. mail is for lengthier conversations.

It's time he learned the difference between "cheap" and "not extravagant," from a parent who should have leveled with him long ago. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

Would you please point out for everyone, mainly my wife, that it's damn rude and deflating to correct grammar or pronunciation when someone is trying to tell a funny story? I think of only one thing worse along this line, and that's returning a love letter with the spelling corrected. — FLATTENED MALE

DEAR MALE:

Be glad to, because it happens often — and not only deflates the story teller, but embarrasses the listeners.

Wives, husbands, relatives, friends: Listen, appreciate, laugh — and forget "superior intelligence." No one is interested in your ego trip. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the IndependentJournal.

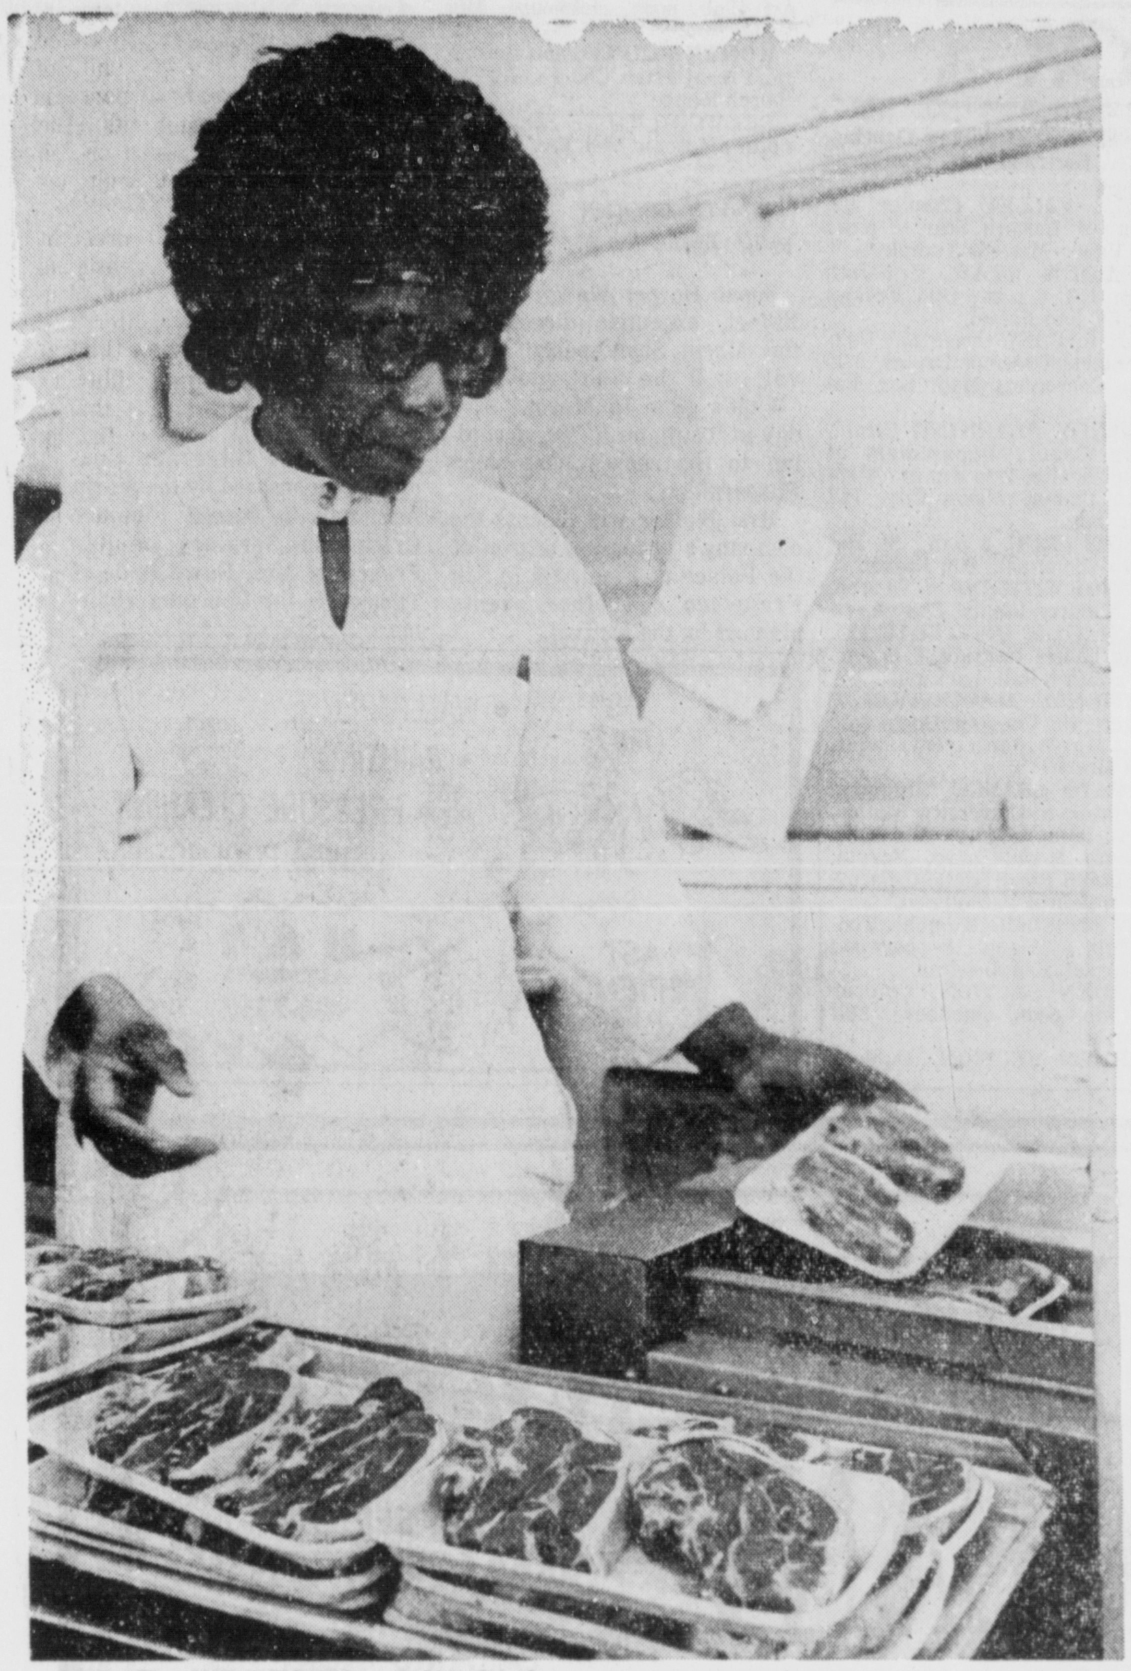
Marin Women

Men Cut The Meat, But Women Wrap It



MEAT WRAPPER Elizabeth Jackson puts lamb shoulder chops on a conveyor belt. The chops have been cut and placed on cartons by a meat cutter at the Cooperative Food Store in Corte Madera.

By BETTY FROST

Marin County has no women meat cutters, but there are 40 women meat wrappers here. Last week 17 meat wrappers were working, according to Ernest Couly, business representative of Butcher Union Local 115.

"The meat boycott was responsible for the unemployment of four," Couly said. "Some also took vacations, and those who were on vacations were not replaced."

The ratio of men meat cutters to women meat wrappers is five to one. Women were first employed as meat wrappers during World War II when the self-service wrap was introduced to meat markets. Now apprentice meat cutters in the large markets also learn to wrap and can assist the wrappers at peak periods.

By tradition, the work of cutting meat has been a job for men because the quarters, weighing from 120 to 165 pounds, were believed to be too heavy for the women to handle. The women wrappers are only permitted to carry loads of 25 pounds or less, according to the union spokesman.

TWO MARIN women employed as meat wrappers were interviewed at their work last week.

Behind the well-stocked meat counter at the Cooperative Food Store in Corte Madera, Elizabeth Jackson, meat wrapper, talked about her job, never slowing her pace.

She operates an automatic scale and wrapping machine, feeding into it meat cut and placed on a paper carton by the butcher. The scale makes an adjustment for the weight of the carton as it sends the meat along a conveyor belt. The meat is automatically wrapped in lightweight plastic, the wrapping is heat sealed, the price is attached and the finished package returned to Mrs. Jackson. The meat wrapper has three dials to adjust on the machine — for weighing, wrapping and labeling. The machine also has a safety device, so that Mrs. Jackson can stop it instantly in case of any difficulty.

THE WORKER transfers the wrapped meats to trays and carries them to the display case.

For lighter items, such as cheese, sausage and delicatessen meats, there is a hand scale. The only items the wrapper cuts are cheese and such meat products as salami and bologna. These she also hand wraps in an area behind the window where the butchers work. She seals the plastic wrap with a special hot iron, prices the packages, and carries them to the display case.

"All the scales are adjusted so that the customer does not pay for the box," Mrs. Jackson explained.

Customers stopped the woman a number of times to ask questions or place special orders. Mrs. Jackson is the only meat wrapper in the Coop meat market.

She works fast. Monday is a particularly busy day, because prices are changed.

MRS. JACKSON has been a meat wrapper for seven years. She enjoys her job and said, "I like to work fast, and I like a challenging job."

She works five days a week, working from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays. In the summer, during vacation schedules, she is sometimes assigned to other markets in Marin.

She found out about an opening through a friend in the East Bay, who was employed as a meat wrapper. Mrs. Jackson received her training at the Cooperative Store on Shattuck Avenue in Berkeley. Mrs. Jackson, a divorcee, is the mother of five children. She lives in Corte Madera.

Despite the 15 per cent rollback in beef prices at the Marin Coop, Mrs. Jackson said, "We have not been as busy as usual. Many of our customers have told me that they wished to express themselves on this issue by observing the boycott."

AT THE Safeway Store in Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center, Virginia Langhoff is the meat wrapper.

Mrs. Langhoff started wrapping 17 years ago and took on the job training at the old Purity Store in Mill Valley. Her husband had retired from the Army, and Mrs. Langhoff wanted to help him finance a college education. She liked the work so well she never left the job.

"I like it," she said, "I like to be around people, and I like an active job."

The customers ask her questions about meat and poultry on display. "They want to know how to cook it, and how long to cook it." she said. Mrs. Langhoff often buys things that are being introduced. She tries the product out herself so she will be able to give the shoppers the benefit of her first hand experience.

Her only complaint about the job is, "It gets cold. The cold air comes off the refrigeration system." She also finds sturdy comfortable shoes a help, since she is on her feet all day.

The day of the interview was an unusual one for Mrs. Langhoff, because the weighing, wrapping machine was not working, so she was using the hand scale for weighing and hand wrapping the food.

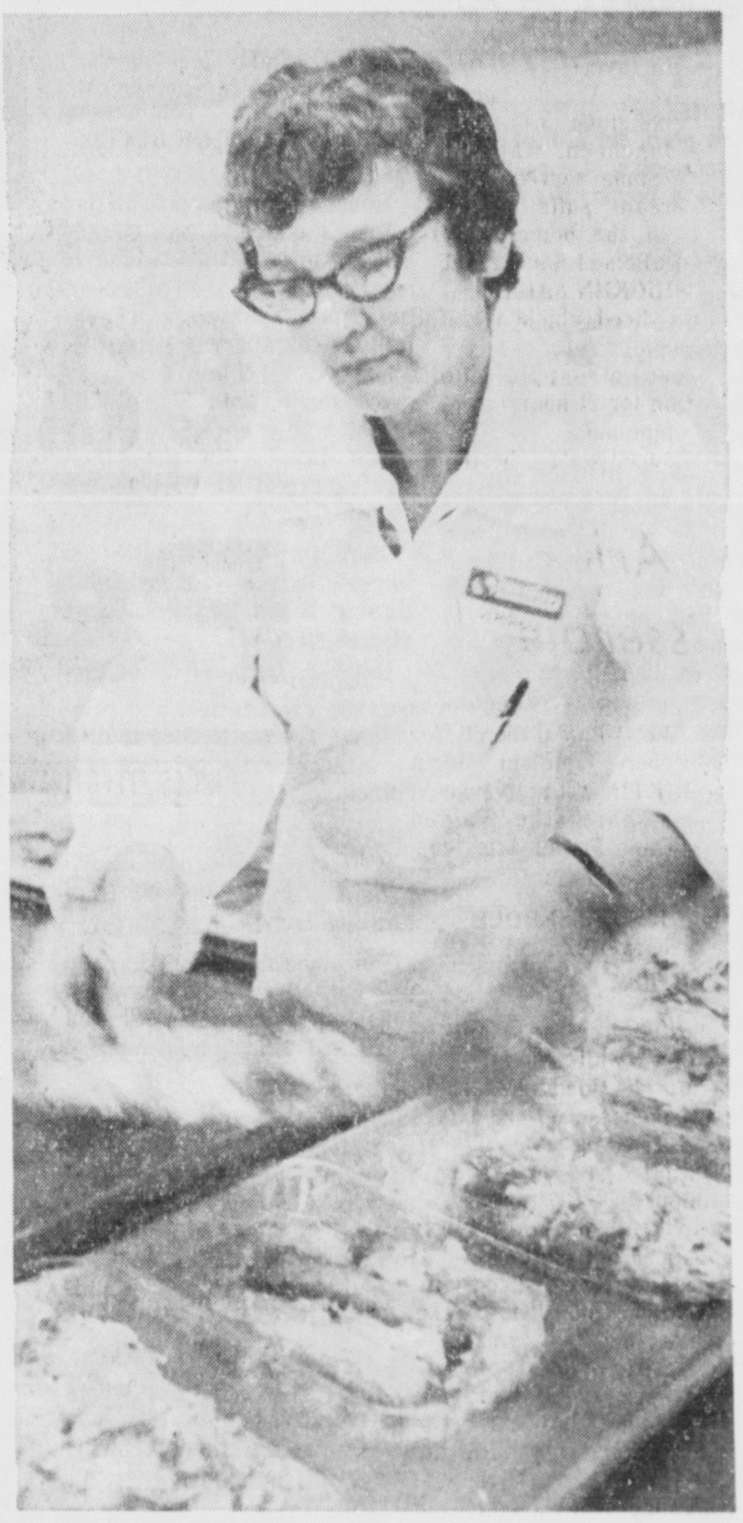
THE PRICE sticker also indicates the day the meat was wrapped, she pointed out. The packages are kept on the counter for three days, then pulled. Sometimes these items are marked down and put back in the case, depending upon the perishability of the product.

There was an easy exchange of banter between the wrapper and the cutters. She indicated that one of the apprentices would help with the wrapping while the machine was being repaired.

Born Virginia Witsch, the woman is a native of Mill Valley and a graduate of Tamalpais High School. Her husband, Arthur, grew up in Sausalito. Langhoff is employed at the Earthquake Mechanism Laboratory, an agency of the Department of Commerce, in San Francisco. They live in Mill Valley.

On nice days, Mrs. Langhoff rides her bicycle to work.

"Lots of women ask me about wrapping as a career," she said. Evidently she holds a high opinion of her work, because one of her six children, Donna, worked as a meat wrapper before her marriage. Now Donna Turner, the daughter is living in Japan.



VIRGINIA LANGHOFF, meat wrapper at the Safeway Market in Strawberry places lightweight plastic sheet around a carton containing Alaskan King Crab. She seals the package on a heated panel.

English Pushing Tweeds, Corduroy

Country clothes of tweeds and corduroy is the message from London designers, reports Women's Wear Daily. The mood is a return to the kind of suit looks worn by aristocratic ladies in English literature.

The suit is being revived in herringbone as well as the ribbed, shawl-collared cardigan. The emphasis is on rich fabrics but the cut is becoming more Western.

Women Seek To Remove Blindfold From Figure Of Justice

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of four articles on the feminist movement and deals specifically with some of its legal aspects, gains and goals.)

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

There is a certain irony in the fact that the figure of justice is a blindfolded woman, left holding the scales while the men are off making the laws. Legislative history pertaining to women is one long and seldom interrupted dirge of discrimination. But the major breakthroughs that have taken place during the past 10 years indicate that law is becoming the primary weapon of feminist reform.

The legal status of women always has been that of an inferior in Western culture. In Roman times the tradition known as the "perpetual tutelage of women" considered her a perpetual child subject to the paternalistic authority of the male. English common law offered few improvements, variously comparing women to domesticated animals, chattels and servants. These attitudes were predicated on the durable assumption that a wife is essentially the property of her husband.

Jo Freeman writes in her essay "The Building of the Gilded Cage" included in the collection, "Radical Feminism": ". . .the core idea of the common law that husbands and wives have reciprocal — not equal — rights and duties remains. The husband must support the wife and children, and she in return must render services to the husband. Thus the woman is legally required to do the domestic chores, to provide marital companionship and sexual consortium.

Her first obligation is to him. If he moves out of town, she cannot get unemployment compensation if she quits her job to follow him, but he can divorce her on grounds of desertion if she doesn't. . .He must maintain her, but the amount of support beyond subsistence is at his discretion. She has no claim for direct compensation for any of the services rendered."

IN SOME RESPECTS the legal status of women has actually declined over the centuries. In the 19th Century, for example, new abortion legislation transformed a "church offense" into a crime. Even the much applauded protective labor laws enacted at the turn of the century to protect both men and women from sweatshop conditions in factories ultimately proved detrimental to women. As these laws came to be applied more and more to women exclusively, they had the effect of making women less desirable employees and hence "protected" men from competition for jobs and promotions.

Until the last decade, significant legislative victories in the area of women's rights have remained elusive with the exception of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote in 1920. An index of the resistance to reform is the fact that the current Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) first was proposed to Congress in virtually identical form in 1923.

The passage of the ERA by Congress last year represents one of two legislative landmarks that have buoyed the hopes of feminists, even though ratification by the necessary number of states is less than a certainty.

The other great coup to which women's-rights groups can point is the Supreme Court's legalization of abortion. Yet these victories would hardly have been possible had not the employment legislation in the turbulent '60's paved the way for reform.

In 1963 the Equal Pay Act became the first federal legislation specifically to prohibit pecuniary discrimination on the basis of sex. More comprehensive was Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. This banned discriminatory hiring practices on the basis of sex, as well as race, color, religion and national origin. Subsequent rules and legislation, most notably the Department of Labor's Revised Order 4, extended the application of these rulings to federal government contractors and subcontractors with more than 50 employees.

In 1969 the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) further interpreted Title VII to mean that protective laws no longer could be used to discriminate against women. This employment ruling prohibits weight-lifting, overtime and nightwork restrictions on women. It places a burden of proof on the employer to establish that sex is a "bona fide occupational qualification" for a given position.

THE PROBLEM is the application of these new regulations because revision of existing and varying state laws takes place on a painfully slow, case-by-case basis. In one encouraging move, President Nixon signed a bill last year that increased EEOC's enforcement power through the courts. Also, federal agencies such as the Citizens' Advisory Council for Women, the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor and the President's Advisory Committee on the Economic Status of Women are exerting pressure.

EEOC's most stunning success so far was its disciplinary action against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the nation's largest private employer. Excoriating AT&T as "without doubt the largest oppressor of women workers in the United States," the commission filed charges of discrimination with the Federal Communications Commission, which AT&T had applied to for a rate increase.

AT&T denied the charges. Nonetheless, in January it promised to recompense 15,000 of its employees, mostly women, with $15 million in "back pay." The company allegedly has an obligation because of discrimination, to raise the salaries of approximately 36,000 female and minority workers by a total of $23 million and to implement affirmative action programs. The National Organization for Women (NOW) disdainfully labeled the financial settlement "chicken feed" compared with the $4 billion "debt" the EEOC originally had calculated.

Despite all this progressive employment legislation and court action, some statistics indicate the condition of women has failed to improve. In some respects it has even worsened. Although recent studies by the Census Bureau, the Council of Economic Advisers (CEA), the Bureau of Labor and the Chase Manhattan Bank show an increase of women in the work force, earnings and unemployment gaps between men and women have widened during the past 10 to 15 years. Women have made strides in male-dominated occupations, especially blue-collar work. But they "are still clustered in relatively low-pay, low-status jobs," according to a CEA report.

Prevailing explanations for the lack of concrete progress are the 1969-1970 recession and inadequate enforcement of the new legislation by federal agencies. Also, employers argue there are not enough qualified women to fill the new positions. Probably the most realistic explanation is the most platitudinous, big changes take time. Still, there are many women in this country for whom the need for change is urgent.

OF THE 52 MILLION families in the United States, more than 6 million are headed by women, and 2.5 million husband-wife families depend on the wife's earnings for more than half the family income. These women work because they must. Feminists use these

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Wants To Put The Squeeze On Escalating Price Of Meat

DEAR HELEN:

When plain old almost meatless beef neck bones cost nearly 50 cents a pound, it's time to strike!

We hear of college people eating dog food to protest the high cost of living, and some "meatless days" talk, but why doesn't everyone make it plain we won't take these high prices?

I'm weary of sob stories about farmers and ranchers. I know a few meat growers, and they're shopping for Cadillacs. You can't tell me that meat prices had to jump over 50 cents per pound in a month because cattle feed and marketing costs increased a corresponding amount! It just isn't possible.

So long as sellers think they have a captive market, they'll gouge the buyers. Our only recourse is to concentrate on meat substitutes and the cheaper produce (or grow our own gardens and a flock of chickens) until our lack of demand brings prices down. Even a "freeze" at present prices would be disastrous.

How about it, housewives and husbands? We can stop inflation all the way along the line if we practice selective buying. I'm tired of everybody blaming the "middleman" and passing the buck. — OUT OF BUCKS

DEAR OOB:

Housewives, arise!

Here's one who has already arisen; and so have many of my friends who are rediscovering Spanish omelets, cheese souffles, hamburger casseroles and good old Pinto beans. Ingredients in such high-protein foods aren't cheap (what is, these days?) but they beat straight meat at $2 plus per pound.

Moreover, they're more fun to cook. It takes real ingenuity, turning beans into a gourmet dish, right? — H.

P.S. Just thought of a great cartoon caption for our campaign: "The Bucks Stop Here!" — with an arrow pointing to a homemaker's flat purse. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We told our college son to call home collect, as hearing from him regularly is important.

But since he doesn't have to pay the toll, he calls from 2,000 miles away about three times a week and talks for an hour or more.

We're thrilled to hear from him, but our phone bill looks like the national debt. If I complain, he may stop calling altogether. We've never wanted to look cheap in his eyes. What would you suggest? — CALLED BROKE IN CALIF.

DEAR C.B.:

Welcome to the "For Whom Ma Bell Tolls" club. (She tolls mainly for parents of college students.)

"Rules" will make you an ex-member. Tell your son a direct-dial, after 9 p.m. call is great, but the U.S. mail is for lengthier conversations.

It's time he learned the difference between "cheap" and "not extravagant," from a parent who should have leveled with him long ago. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

Would you please point out for everyone, mainly my wife, that it's damn rude and deflating to correct grammar or pronunciation when someone is trying to tell a funny story? I think of only one thing worse along this line, and that's returning a love letter with the spelling corrected. — FLATTENED MALE

DEAR MALE:

Be glad to, because it happens often — and not only deflates the story teller, but embarrasses the listeners.

Wives, husbands, relatives, friends: Listen, appreciate, laugh — and forget "superior intelligence." No one is interested in your ego trip. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the IndependentJournal.

Justice Is Real Goal Of Women

statistics to argue not only for stronger employment legislation but for federal support of day-care centers and enforcement of the EEOC's new rules concerning maternity leave.

That employment discrimination is not the only major cause of economic distress among women is evidenced by a long hard look at family law. While no major reforms have been instituted yet, proposals abound and the atmosphere is portentous. Certainly if the ERA is ratified, it will have a profound and incalculable effect on marriage and divorce laws. One likely consequence is that a married woman will be allowed to retain her own name.

The feminist position on marriage is best articulated in NOW's task force paper on marriage, divorce and family relations: "...marriage should be an equal partnership with shared economic and household responsibility and shared care of the children. . .The economic responsibility for the family should be shared proportionately according to income, if both partners work outside the home. . .If only one partner works outside the home, half the income should by law belong to the other partner."

These careful economic provisos point to the real feminist focus in the area of family law—divorce. Divorce strikes at the heart of the economic inequities suffered by both husbands and wives—the man who has to pay too much alimony and child support and the woman who doesn't get enough. One study that illustrates the latter problem is called "Nonsupport of Legitimate Children by Affluent Fathers as a Cause of Welfare Dependence." Published by the Rand Corporation in 1971, it established a high positive correlation between divorced mothers with dependent children and women on welfare.

In other words, women who function as heads of households often cannot adequately support themselves and their children and do not receive the alimony and child support from their husbands to which they are legally entitled. They and their children become burdens of the state.

THE FLAW here, as in the case of employment legislation, again is enforcement. A woman barely able to support herself and her children is hardly in a position to bring suit against her ex-husband. And no government agency is equipped to handle the multitude of violations.

Other laws pertaining to marriage and divorce hark back to the Middle Ages. They further undermine the economic status of the woman. For example, there are two kinds of property law systems in the United States. Community property exists in only nine states. It provides that all property and income acquired by either spouse after marriage, belongs to both and is equally divided upon divorce. However, the husband, designated the "head and master of the community" in the Louisiana Civil Code, generally retains control over all of it.

The remaining states adhere to the common-law system whereby each spouse has the right to both own and manage his or her income and property. The feminist objection to this system is that it fails to recognize the contribution of the "housewife" who works in the home without financial remuneration. Upon divorce, she is dependent on the disposition of the court and the reliability of her husband to save her from destitution. This is one reason some radical feminists feel a wife should receive a salary for her domestic services.

Ideas on reform seem as prevalent as theories of abuse. The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL) consists of 250 judges, law professors and practicing lawyers trying to bring some order to the chaotic divergence among the different states. In February the NCCUSL presented to the family-law section of the American Bar Association its proposed uniform marriage and divorce act. The essence of this act is that it abolishes "fault" as an ingredient in divorce proceedings. It decrees "irretrievable breakdown of the marriage relationship" as the only legal grounds for divorce.

Alimony also would be abolished along with "fault." Marital and property payments would be decided without regard to "marital misconduct" but on the basis of need. For example, the husband could be the beneficiary if his wife were earning more money. "The best interests of the child" would be the sole determinant of custody. In most states preference is now given to the mother. The point is to eliminate, insofar as possible, those elements of blame and recrimination present in divorce.

THE ABA's family-law section withheld approval of the act and submitted revisions. Council member Henry Foster, professor of law at New York University, equated the act with "rubber stamp divorce, instant divorce on demand." He objected that the lack of specific guidelines could jeopardize the interests of both partners and the children.

The feminist position on divorce varies. At its April convention this year, NOW endorsed no-fault divorce in theory but noted that "it carries wtih it no idea of responsibility. NOW refused to take a final stand until it is satisfied that economic safeguards for the dependent spouse are ensured. It promoted, instead, a concept of "responsible divorce."

Another idea being considered by Foster, NOW and its vocal proponent, New York lawyer Diana DuBroff, is divorce insurance. A couple upon marriage could purchase this privately or through the government to cover potential alimony and child-support costs. Should divorce not occur, the insurance could be converted to other uses, such as a child's education.

Perhaps one of the best ways to change the law is to change the lawmakers. The first step is to introduce more committed women into the legal profession, where in 1971 only 2.8 per cent were women, according to a report by the American Bar Association. The ABA's section of individual rights and responsibilities acknowledged last August the need to encourage more women to enter and "realize their full potential within the legal profession." It passed resolutions urging law schools to recruit women and law firms to refrain from discriminating against them. ABA statistics for the fall term of 1972 recorded a 35.9 per cent jump in enrollment by women law students over that of the preceding year. Columbia University Law School reported last spring increased hiring of women by law firms.

Two feminist law firms, composed entirely of women, recently have opened in New York. Organizations such as the Women's Rights Project of the American Civil Liberties Union and NOW's Legal Defense and Education Fund offer their own special assistance. There is even some talk that when the next vacancy occurs, President Nixon might nominate a woman to the Supreme Court. Meantime, the most powerful catalyst of change is women themselves, learning about injustice and lobbying for reform.

NEXT: An analysis of contemporary feminism.

Survey Supports Graded Teachers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Should teachers be graded? Yes, according to a survey of 400 instructors and their classes at five colleges.

Students participating in the survey conducted by Educational Testing Service complained that some teachers weren't concerned enough with student learning. Other gripes: some teachers aren't open enough to other viewpoints; some aren't clear enough in telling how students will be evaluated.

Many California Workers Women

Women accounted for 38 per cent of all California workers in 1970 according to statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

About 42 per cent of all women were workers but more than 212,000 women were unemployed in 1970, creating a 7 per cent unemployment rate compared to 6 per cent for men.

Women Seek To Remove Blindfold From Figure Of Justice

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of four articles on the feminist movement and deals specifically with some of its legal aspects, gains and goals.)

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

There is a certain irony in the fact that the figure of justice is a blindfolded woman, left holding the scales while the men are off making the laws. Legislative history pertaining to women is one long and seldom interrupted dirge of discrimination. But the major breakthroughs that have taken place during the past 10 years indicate that law is becoming the primary weapon of feminist reform.

The legal status of women always has been that of an inferior in Western culture. In Roman times the tradition known as the "perpetual tutelage of women" considered her a perpetual child subject to the paternalistic authority of the male. English common law offered few improvements, variously comparing women to domesticated animals, chattels and servants. These attitudes were predicated on the durable assumption that a wife is essentially the property of her husband.

Jo Freeman writes in her essay "The Building of the Gilded Cage" included in the collection, "Radical Feminism": ". . .the core idea of the common law that husbands and wives have reciprocal — not equal — rights and duties remains. The husband must support the wife and children, and she in return must render services to the husband. Thus the woman is legally required to do the domestic chores, to provide marital companionship and sexual consortium.

Her first obligation is to him. If he moves out of town, she cannot get unemployment compensation if she quits her job to follow him, but he can divorce her on grounds of desertion if she doesn't. . .He must maintain her, but the amount of support beyond subsistence is at his discretion. She has no claim for direct compensation for any of the services rendered."

IN SOME RESPECTS the legal status of women has actually declined over the centuries. In the 19th Century, for example, new abortion legislation transformed a "church offense" into a crime. Even the much applauded protective labor laws enacted at the turn of the century to protect both men and women from sweatshop conditions in factories ultimately proved detrimental to women. As these laws came to be applied more and more to women exclusively, they had the effect of making women less desirable employees and hence "protected" men from competition for jobs and promotions.

Until the last decade, significant legislative victories in the area of women's rights have remained elusive with the exception of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote in 1920. An index of the resistance to reform is the fact that the current Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) first was proposed to Congress in virtually identical form in 1923.

The passage of the ERA by Congress last year represents one of two legislative landmarks that have buoyed the hopes of feminists, even though ratification by the necessary number of states is less than a certainty.

The other great coup to which women's-rights groups can point is the Supreme Court's legalization of abortion. Yet these victories would hardly have been possible had not the employment legislation in the turbulent '60's paved the way for reform.

In 1963 the Equal Pay Act became the first federal legislation specifically to prohibit pecuniary discrimination on the basis of sex. More comprehensive was Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. This banned discriminatory hiring practices on the basis of sex, as well as race, color, religion and national origin. Subsequent rules and legislation, most notably the Department of Labor's Revised Order 4, extended the application of these rulings to federal government contractors and subcontractors with more than 50 employees.

In 1969 the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) further interpreted Title VII to mean that protective laws no longer could be used to discriminate against women. This employment ruling prohibits weight-lifting, overtime and nightwork restrictions on women. It places a burden of proof on the employer to establish that sex is a "bona fide occupational qualification" for a given position.

THE PROBLEM is the application of these new regulations because revision of existing and varying state laws takes place on a painfully slow, case-by-case basis. In one encouraging move, President Nixon signed a bill last year that increased EEOC's enforcement power through the courts. Also, federal agencies such as the Citizens' Advisory Council for Women, the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor and the President's Advisory Committee on the Economic Status of Women are exerting pressure.

EEOC's most stunning success so far was its disciplinary action against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the nation's largest private employer. Excoriating AT&T as "without doubt the largest oppressor of women workers in the United States," the commission filed charges of discrimination with the Federal Communications Commission, which AT&T had applied to for a rate increase.

AT&T denied the charges. Nonetheless, in January it promised to recompense 15,000 of its employees, mostly women, with $15 million in "back pay." The company allegedly has an obligation because of discrimination, to raise the salaries of approximately 36,000 female and minority workers by a total of $23 million and to implement affirmative action programs. The National Organization for Women (NOW) disdainfully labeled the financial settlement "chicken feed" compared with the $4 billion "debt" the EEOC originally had calculated.

Despite all this progressive employment legislation and court action, some statistics indicate the condition of women has failed to improve. In some respects it has even worsened. Although recent studies by the Census Bureau, the Council of Economic Advisers (CEA), the Bureau of Labor and the Chase Manhattan Bank show an increase of women in the work force, earnings and unemployment gaps between men and women have widened during the past 10 to 15 years. Women have made strides in male-dominated occupations, especially blue-collar work. But they "are still clustered in relatively low-pay, low-status jobs," according to a CEA report.

Prevailing explanations for the lack of concrete progress are the 1969-1970 recession and inadequate enforcement of the new legislation by federal agencies. Also, employers argue there are not enough qualified women to fill the new positions. Probably the most realistic explanation is the most platitudinous, big changes take time. Still, there are many women in this country for whom the need for change is urgent.

OF THE 52 MILLION families in the United States, more than 6 million are headed by women, and 2.5 million husband-wife families depend on the wife's earnings for more than half the family income. These women work because they must. Feminists use these

ONLY ONE SURVIVED

A 26-year-old Fresno woman and one of her two sons were killed yesterday when their car struck a steel divider on Interstate 5 about 19 miles north of Redding. Dead were Mrs. Gail Stewart and her 2-year-old son, John. Another son, Joseph, 7 months, was rescued from the mangled car by unidentified motorists who heard him crying after the crash. Officers were unable to determine the cause of the accident.

Nixon Proposes An Energy Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon proposed today a far-reaching new national energy program aimed at averting drastic future shortages, but said that even at best American consumers face fuel price increases and possibly some short supplies.

In a message to Congress, Nixon ruled out gas rationing but declared major conservation steps are essential to prevent what he described as a "vitally important energy challenge" from degenerating into "a genuine energy crisis."

He urged every individual to help by such steps as turning off lights and reducing consumption of energy for air conditioning and heating.

Acting under his presidential powers, Nixon suspended all oil import quotas immediately and lifted tariffs on oil to encourage greater supplies from abroad.

He asked the Democratic Congress to permit the relaxation of secondary standards of the Clean Air Act of 1970, to encourage use of coal, the nation's cheapest and most abundant fuel, in place of low-sulphur oil and natural gas as now required by the act.

He also proposed that government price regulations for newly discovered natural gas be discarded to spur exploration and development of new fields. Nixon recommended that the present tax depletion allowance for oil firms be continued.

The President rejected suggestions that a form of fuel rationing be set up, advocating instead allowing higher prices for producers as the way to increase supplies.

"The single most effective means of encouraging energy conservation is to ensure that energy prices reflect their true costs," he told Congress.

Nixon summarized the situation in these words: "In the years immediately ahead, we must face up to the possibility of occasional energy shortages and some increases in energy prices.

"Clearly we are facing a vitally important energy challenge. If present trends continue unchecked, we could face a genuine energy crisis."

To the consumers, he asked them to develop "a national conservation ethic...by turning out lights, tuning up automobiles, reducing the use of air conditioning and heating and purchasing products which use energy efficiently."

In urging the practice of voluntary conservation, he commented: "If the challenge is ignored, the result will be a danger of increased prices, damage to the environment and the increased possibility that conservation will have to be undertaken by compulsory means in the future.

"There should be no need for a nation which has always been rich in energy to have to turn to energy rationing. This is a part of the energy challenge which every American can help to meet, and I call upon every American to do his or her part."

In lifting the oil import quotas, the President suggested that in the future a fee of a half a cent per gallon be imposed on crude oil and a 1-½ cents a gallon on gasoline and refined oil.

But he said holders of existing quota licenses would be permitted to ship in their oil up to the quota limit this year without paying the fees.

In his long-awaited message outlining ways for coping with the nation's energy needs, Nixon said some compromises on environmental standards were needed to keep the costs of energy at reasonable levels.

To stimulate domestic production, Nixon proposed extension of the investment tax credit to exploratory oil drilling. He said the credit would be more generous for successful wells than for dry wells "in order to put an additional premium on results."

Nixon directed the Interior Department to triple acreage available for oil leases offshore on the outer continental shelf. He continued suspension of drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel off the California coast, site of a 1969 well blowout, but said drilling would be permitted outside the channel islands.

The President called for increased research and development to produce new sources of energy such as more efficient atomic plants, and he proposed efforts to conserve present fuel supplies, in part by increasing their costs.

Nixon termed as "ill-conceived" current Federal Power Commission regulation of prices on natural gas in interstate commerce.

Ex-Convict To Prison Again

A 29-year-old ex-convict has been sentenced to prison again for possessing a gun.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court gave the sentence to LeRoy Raymond Quintana of Novato to complete a plea bargain. The judge had dismissed an armed robbery charge in return for the plea to the less serious charge last month.

Quintana was arrested last Oct. 3 by San Rafael police after three men with whom he had been drinking told officers he pointed a gun at them and demanded their wallets.

He was formerly imprisoned for kidnap, robbery and auto theft in 1961.

Justice Is Real Goal Of Women

statistics to argue not only for stronger employment legislation but for federal support of day-care centers and enforcement of the EEOC's new rules concerning maternity leave.

That employment discrimination is not the only major cause of economic distress among women is evidenced by a long hard look at family law. While no major reforms have been instituted yet, proposals abound and the atmosphere is portentous. Certainly if the ERA is ratified, it will have a profound and incalculable effect on marriage and divorce laws. One likely consequence is that a married woman will be allowed to retain her own name.

The feminist position on marriage is best articulated in NOW's task force paper on marriage, divorce and family relations: ". . .marriage should be an equal partnership with shared economic and household responsibility and shared care of the children. . .The economic responsibility for the family should be shared proportionately according to income, if both partners work outside the home. . .If only one partner works outside the home, half the income should by law belong to the other partner."

These careful economic provisos point to the real feminist focus in the area of family law —divorce. Divorce strikes at the heart of the economic inequities suffered by both husbands and wives —the man who has to pay too much alimony and child support and the woman who doesn't get enough. One study that illustrates the latter problem is called "Nonsupport of Legitimate Children by Affluent Fathers as a Cause of Welfare Dependence." Published by the Rand Corporation in 1971, it established a high positive correlation between divorced mothers with dependent children and women on welfare.

In other words, women who function as heads of households often cannot adequately support themselves and their children and do not receive the alimony and child support from their husbands to which they are legally entitled. They and their children become burdens of the state.

THE FLAW here, as in the case of employment legislation, again is enforcement. A woman barely able to support herself and her children is hardly in a position to bring suit against her ex-husband. And no government agency is equipped to handle the multitude of violations.

Other laws pertaining to marriage and divorce hark back to the Middle Ages. They further undermine the economic status of the woman. For example, there are two kinds of property law systems in the United States. Community property exists in only nine states. It provides that all property and income acquired by either spouse after marriage, belongs to both and is equally divided upon divorce. However, the husband, designated the "head and master of the community" in the Louisiana Civil Code, generally retains control over all of it.

The remaining states adhere to the common-law system whereby each spouse has the right to both own and manage his or her income and property. The feminist objection to this system is that it fails to recognize the contribution of the "housewife" who works in the home without financial remuneration. Upon divorce, she is dependent on the disposition of the court and the reliability of her husband to save her from destitution. This is one reason some radical feminists feel a wife should receive a salary for her domestic services.

Ideas on reform seem as prevalent as theories of abuse. The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL) consists of 250 judges, law professors and practicing lawyers trying to bring some order to the chaotic divergence among the different states. In February the NCCUSL presented to the family-law section of the American Bar Association its proposed uniform marriage and divorce act. The essence of this act is that it abolishes "fault" as an ingredient in divorce proceedings. It decrees "irretrievable breakdown of the marriage relationship" as the only legal grounds for divorce.

Alimony also would be abolished along with "fault." Marital and property payments would be decided without regard to "marital misconduct" but on the basis of need. For example, the husband could be the beneficiary if his wife were earning more money. "The best interests of the child" would be the sole determinant of custody. In most states preference is now given to the mother. The point is to eliminate, insofar as possible, those elements of blame and recrimination present in divorce.

THE ABA's family-law section withheld approval of the act and submitted revisions. Council member Henry Foster, professor of law at New York University, equated the act with "rubber stamp divorce, instant divorce on demand." He objected that the lack of specific guidelines could jeopardize the interests of both partners and the children.

The feminist position on divorce varies. At its April convention this year, NOW endorsed no-fault divorce in theory but noted that "it carries wtih it no idea of responsibility. NOW refused to take a final stand until it is satisfied that economic safeguards for the dependent spouse are ensured. It promoted, instead, a concept of "responsible divorce."

Another idea being considered by Foster, NOW and its vocal proponent, New York lawyer Diana DuBroff, is divorce insurance. A couple upon marriage could purchase this privately or through the government to cover potential alimony and child-support costs. Should divorce not occur, the insurance could be converted to other uses, such as a child's education.

Perhaps one of the best ways to change the law is to change the lawmakers. The first step is to introduce more committed women into the legal profession, where in 1971 only 2.8 per cent were women, according to a report by the American Bar Association. The ABA's section of individual rights and responsibilities acknowledged last August the need to encourage more women to enter and "realize their full potential within the legal profession." It passed resolutions urging law schools to recruit women and law firms to refrain from discriminating against them. ABA statistics for the fall term of 1972 recorded a 35.9 per cent jump in enrollment by women law students over that of the preceding year. Columbia University Law School reported last spring increased hiring of women by law firms.

Two feminist law firms, composed entirely of women, recently have opened in New York. Organizations such as the Women's Rights Project of the American Civil Liberties Union and NOW's Legal Defense and Education Fund offer their own special assistance. There is even some talk that when the next vacancy occurs, President Nixon might nominate a woman to the Supreme Court. Meantime, the most powerful catalyst of change is women themselves, learning about injustice and lobbying for reform.

NEXT: An analysis of contemporary feminism.

Survey Supports Graded Teachers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Should teachers be graded? Yes, according to a survey of 400 instructors and their classes at five colleges.

Students participating in the survey conducted by Educational Testing Service complained that some teachers weren't concerned enough with student learning. Other gripes: some teachers aren't open enough to other viewpoints; some aren't clear enough in telling how students will be evaluated.

Many California Workers Women

Women accounted for 38 per cent of all California workers in 1970 according to statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

About 42 per cent of all women were workers but more than 212,000 women were unemployed in 1970, creating a 7 per cent unemployment rate compared to 6 per cent for men.

HOUSE TO BE SCOUT MONEY MAKER

Carpenters put the finishing touches on the frame of this house at 28 Castlewood Drive in the Glenwood section of San Rafael. After the skeletal walls of the five bedroom dwelling are fleshed out, expected in June, profits from its sale will be donated by Kaehler-Timmer Construction Co. to the Marin Council of the Boy Scouts of America, according to William H. Sherwood, scout executive director. The lot was obtained by Bernard Kern of Timmer Realty and profits will go for camp maintenance and operations. Last year, the construction company built a house in Marinwood that netted about $10,000 for the scout program, Sherwood said.

Sausalito Council Goes Ahead With Plans For Bond Election

Despite strenuous objections from a representative of the Sausalito Citizens Council, the Sausalito City Council last night went ahead with plans for two bond issues to finance purchase of Central School and land for a library site.

John Hinman of the citizens group — which claims from 250 to 300 members — asked for the reversal, because he said the organization does not believe the city needs the Northwestern Pacific Railroad land it proposes to buy for a library site.

"There is already enough land on the Central School property for a freestanding library," he said, and urged the council to seek a professional study to determine if the library can be accommodated in the school building itself.

The city council will place two bond issues before voters in a special election June 12, 1 $306,000 measure to buy the school for a new city hall and a second, for $260,000, to purchase the adjacent railroad land for a new library.

Hinman told the council city mgr. Albert St. Cyr had promised the council would hold "a study session" on the "whole civic center question" before the matter was decided and also promised to invite Hinman to that meeting.

"I'm still waiting," Hinman said.

Council members replied that the city manager could not be blamed for that mixup because "he's been very busy."

"The citizens council really wants a study of the Central School building as a possible library site and we're not going to do that," Mrs. Sweeny said. "We'll present the matter to the community and if they don't go for it, then we'll have to try something else."

As a compromise, though, the mayor promised to invite the city's bond counsel to next Tuesday's meeting to answer any questions the citizens council wants to pose.

"I really feel the city council has been unduly arbitrary in this entire matter," Hinman replied.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

LEGISLATION — Declined to act on a suggestion by Councilman Stephen A. Fraser that the city seek special state legislation to lessen the impact of the auto in Sausalito. Fraser wanted state permission to divert autos headed into town to parking or holding areas when the city is overcrowded with cars. He also sought permission to establish a "resident-only" parking zone on public streets in residential areas.

RATES — Approved rate increases for the city's franchised television cable company, Tele-Vue Systems, calling for a hike in the monthly cable charge from $5 to $8.

RAILROAD — Postponed a hearing on the Sausalito Richardson Bay Railroad Company's plans to establish a stream railroad through town until May 8 because an environmental impact report on the project has not been completed.

PARKING — Passed an ordinance converting municipal parking lot No. 3 from a metered lot to one regulated by parking attendants with an hourly parking fee of 75 cents.

GUIDELINES — Adopted a set of guidelines for requiring environmental impact reports on projects in Sausalito.

PARADE — Gave permission for the Sausalito Little League to hold its opening day parade at 11 a.m. April 29. The event will also honor the city's only POW, Cmdr. Charles E. Southwick.

COMMITTEE — On the suggestion of Councilman Fraser, agreed to form a three-person pathways committee, to be appointed by the mayor, to chart public paths in the city and perhaps make recommendations as to where improvements in the walkways are needed.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to instruct its negotiator in salary negotiations with city employees.

CONDOMINIUMS — Heard first reading of an ordinance providing procedures by which rental apartments in the city can be changed into condominiums for sale.

Fonda Film Booted

DALLAS (UPI) — A television station received so many complaints about the showing of a scheduled Jane Fonda movie Tuesday that it canceled the film and ran another one instead, WFAA-TV officials said.

New Courses Are Added For Summer

An expanded summer program of occupational courses was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

In addition to last summer's office and automotive repair courses, this year the county schools office also will offer courses in motorcycle maintenance and repair, boat maintenance and repair, and cosmetology. Each is designed to train high school students and adults for jobs.

The cost of the program has not yet been computed, reported Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain. He said the entire cost is paid by state funds.

The courses are free to eligible students 16 years of age and older. Students may apply through their high school counselors or to the county schools office in Corte Madera.

The motorcycle and boat courses will be taught at the Regional Occupational Center, 456 Irwin Street, San Rafael. The motorcycle course, from July 30 to Aug. 31, will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The boat course will meet the same hours, but from July 2 to Aug. 31.

The office occupations course also will meet from July 2 to Aug. 31, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., in the Manzanita Center, Marin City.

The cosmetology course meets all year from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Marinello's School of Beauty, San Rafael.

The auto technology course will meet July 2 to Aug. 31 from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

Club Owner Slaps Fairfax With Suit

The owner of Marin Town and Country Club, frustrated in his efforts to sell his land for apartments, filed a $2.17 million law suit yesterday against the Town of Fairfax, saying the zoning has robbed his land of its value.

The suit filed by San Rafael attorney Bryan R. McCarthy for Max Friedman claims, "Fairfax, by maintaining and enforcing the provisions of the 1973 zoning, has taken, damaged, confiscated and inversely condemned plaintiff's property without compensation."

The town council Feb. 13 adopted a zoning ordinance, which gave the 26.8-acre resort area a private recreational designation.

That action came two months after Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court ruled that a similar rezoning by popular vote last April was illegal. The town has appealed to the state Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

Friedman's land had commercial zoning, but his plan to sell to Kaiser Aetna of Oakland, which envisioned 400 apartments, stirred up the townspeople. They voted 2-1 to change the zoning to allow only recreational use.

Following the vote, Friedman, who had announced he would close the swimming pools, picnic areas and playing fields at his club, reopened to the public again last summer.

The suit claims Friedman's property, which had a market value of $2.17 million under commercial zoning, has "become valueless for any purpose authorized under the 1973 zoning."

Friedman has contended his club is no longer profitable.

In addition to stripping the property of value, the rezoning is inconsistent with the town's general plan and open space element and "singles out plaintiff's property for different treatment without any reasonable cause or basis," according to the suit.

Furthermore, the town has moved against Friedman because it wants to buy his land "at little or no cost" for open space, according to the suit.

Prior to filing the suit, McCarthy presented a claim to the town, but the council turned down what then Mayor Albert E. Gately called an attempt to "bluff the city" into approving future commercial development.

Bay Bridge Fire Protection To Be Improved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Highway Commission Tuesday approved $99,000 worth of fire protection improvements to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

Of the sum, $80,000 was for renovation of an early warning and sprinkler system in case of fire on the piers below the bridge. Commissioner Vernon J. Cristina of San Jose said tests showed many of the devices were defective.

The remainder of the funds were for installation of a fire detection and extinguishing system at three bridge stations housing air compressors.

Party Scheduled For Anniversary Of Earthquake

The Sausalito Youth Center will observe the 67th anniversary of the famed San Francisco quake and fire with an "earthquake party" at 8 p.m. Friday in the basement of Central School.

Special attraction will be the classic film, "San Francisco," with Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Jeanette MacDonald, which focuses on life on the Barbary Coast and concludes with the havoc caused by the quake.

The party will also include live piano highlights of the film's musical score and "some surprises," according to Paul Kozak, center director.

School Expansion Plan Review Set

The Shoreline Unifed School District board will review plans for expansion of Tomales Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

The district plans to build eight classrooms adjacent to the existing school and close the portable classrooms at the old Tomales High School site.

ONLY ONE SURVIVED

A 26-year-old Fresno woman and one of her two sons were killed yesterday when their car struck a steel divider on Interstate 5 about 19 miles north of Redding. Dead were Mrs. Gail Stewart and her 2-year-old son, John. Another son, Joseph, 7 months, was rescued from the mangled car by unidentified motorists who heard him crying after the crash. Officers were unable to determine the cause of the accident. (UPI Telephoto)

Nixon Proposes An Energy Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon proposed today a far-reaching new national energy program aimed at averting drastic future shortages, but said that even at best American consumers face fuel price increases and possibly some short supplies.

In a message to Congress, Nixon ruled out gas rationing but declared major conservation steps are essential to prevent what he described as a "vitally important energy challenge" from degenerating into "a genuine energy crisis."

He urged every individual to help by such steps as turning off lights and reducing consumption of energy for air conditioning and heating.

Acting under his presidential powers, Nixon suspended all oil import quotas immediately and lifted tariffs on oil to encourage greater supplies from abroad.

He asked the Democratic Congress to permit the relaxation of secondary standards of the Clean Air Act of 1970, to encourage use of coal, the nation's cheapest and most abundant fuel, in place of low-sulphur oil and natural gas as now required by the act.

He also proposed that government price regulations for newly discovered natural gas be discarded to spur exploration and development of new fields. Nixon recommended that the present tax depletion allowance for oil firms be continued.

The President rejected suggestions that a form of fuel rationing be set up, advocating instead allowing higher prices for producers as the way to increase supplies.

"The single most effective means of encouraging energy conservation is to ensure that energy prices reflect their true costs," he told Congress.

Nixon summarized the situation in these words: "In the years immediately ahead, we must face up to the possibility of occasional energy shortages and some increases in energy prices.

"Clearly we are facing a vitally important energy challenge. If present trends continue unchecked, we could face a genuine energy crisis."

To the consumers, he asked them to develop "a national conservation ethic...by turning out lights, tuning up automobiles, reducing the use of air conditioning and heating and purchasing products which use energy efficiently."

In urging the practice of voluntary conservation, he commented: "If the challenge is ignored, the result will be a danger of increased prices, damage to the environment and the increased possibility that conservation will have to be undertaken by compulsory means in the future.

"There should be no need for a nation which has always been rich in energy to have to turn to energy rationing. This is a part of the energy challenge which every American can help to meet, and I call upon every American to do his or her part."

In lifting the oil import quotas, the President suggested that in the future a fee of a half a cent per gallon be imposed on crude oil and a 1-½ cents a gallon on gasoline and refined oil.

But he said holders of existing quota licenses would be permitted to ship in their oil up to the quota limit this year without paying the fees.

In his long-awaited message outlining ways for coping with the nation's energy needs, Nixon said some compromises on environmental standards were needed to keep the costs of energy at reasonable levels.

To stimulate domestic production, Nixon proposed extension of the investment tax credit to exploratory oil drilling. He said the credit would be more generous for successful wells than for dry wells "in order to put an additional premium on results."

Nixon directed the Interior Department to triple acreage available for oil leases offshore on the outer continental shelf. He continued suspension of drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel off the California coast, site of a 1969 well blowout, but said drilling would be permitted outside the channel islands.

The President called for increased research and development to produce new sources of energy such as more efficient atomic plants, and he proposed efforts to conserve present fuel supplies, in part by increasing their costs.

Nixon termed as "ill-conceived" current Federal Power Commission regulation of prices on natural gas in interstate commerce.

Ex-Convict To Prison Again

A 29-year-old ex-convict has been sentenced to prison again for possessing a gun.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court gave the sentence to LeRoy Raymond Quintana of Novato to complete a plea bargain. The judge had dismissed an armed robbery charge in return for the plea to the less serious charge last month.

Quintana was arrested last Oct. 3 by San Rafael police after three men with whom he had been drinking told officers he pointed a gun at them and demanded their wallets.

He was formerly imprisoned for kidnap, robbery and auto theft in 1961.

$4,000 Award For 'Throwing' Skater

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A woman roller derby skater, who said other skaters were ordered to throw her into the stands to provide a thrill for the audience, was awarded $4,000 in damages Tuesday.

Ginger Barbarino had sued for $50,000 for her injuries, received in a match between the Red Devils and the Miami Jets at West Palm Beach, Fla. She maintained she was hurt because the National Skating Derby, owner of both teams, ordered other players to heave her into the stands "as part of the performance."

Trustees In Fairfax Eye Budget

Fairfax School District trustees held their first session last night on the 1973-74 budget and were told by Supt. H. Reginald Hammond that income may fall below this year's level of $1.2 million.

Hammond said he presented three budget variations for board consideration based on projected income of between $1,150,000 and $1,225,000.

The three fiscal plans are for $1,210,000, $1,193,000 and $1,120,000.

Hammond said trustees discarded the highest proposal and concentrated on the other two. The final budget, he said, probably will fall somewhere in between.

The lower figure assumes 970 pupils next year and the higher, 990 pupils. The two proposed budgets are "less than bare bones," he said, and trustees will have the opportunity to add programs to the lower budget if they wish.

Several residents of the Deer Park area were present, Hammond said, and some protested a budget item appropriating $20,000 for turfing the playfield at Deer Park School, a proposal that has neighbors up in arms.

"I think they'll (the neighbors) feel a lot better when we move that money to some other category," Hammond said.

Further budget discussions will take place at the next board meeting at 7:45 p.m. May 1 at White Hill School, Hammond said.

Trustees also heard that the district can expect only about half the $18,000 which had been anticipated from the State of California for an early childhood education program.

Almost every elementary district in the state has applied for a piece of the $25 million to be passed out for upgrading programs in grades kindergarten through third, Hammond said, adding that the state hadn't expected such a response.

As a result, Fairfax can expect only about $9,000 for the program. Hammond said trustees must decide whether to limit the program to fewer grades, to all grades but fewer children, or whether to spend less on each child.

The Fairfax School District board also:

LAND — Agreed in principle to sell a 20-by-100-foot strip of the White Hill School playground to Dennis D. Millerick, of 21 Shemran Court. Millerick's house was built to the property line, Hammond said, and the district doesn't need the land, which is used as a right-of-way by the Marin Municipal Water District anyway.

CALENDAR — Adopted a 1973-74 school calendar recommended by the Tamalpais High School District which includes 176 teaching days and a holiday for Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday Jan. 14.

GUIDELINES — Adopted guidelines on evaluating the environmental impact of school projects. The guidelines were suggested by the Marin County Counsel's office.

ENROLLMENT — Heard that enrollment has slipped by five since the last board meeting and now stands at 955.

Auto Death Charges Are Denied

An 18-year-old Novato youth, whose driving allegedly caused the death of two persons, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two counts of manslaughter and one of reckless driving.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for May 8 for Gregory T. Giuliano on the amended charges, which were changed because Helen Mae Doggett, 75, of Vandalia, Ohio, died April 8 while hospitalized for injuries suffered in an auto accident March 18.

Giuliano had been charged with manslaughter in the death of William Edward Porter, 61, of Novato, who died when Giuliano's car hit his, and two counts of causing injuries to Mrs. Doggett and Mrs. Porter through reckless driving.

Source of the charges was a two-car collision which occurred when Giuliano's car missed a turn and crashed into the front of the Porter auto at Virginia and Grant avenues.

The impact shoved the Porter car 185 feet into a utility pole, Novato police said. Witnesses told police Giuliano's car was speeding on Grant Avenue and failed to make the turn onto Virginia.

Delinquency Commission Will Aid In Group Therapy Proposal

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission yesterday formed a committee to help a clinical psychologist establish a group therapy program for delinquent children and their parents.

Anne Robertson, a clinical psychologist for the Marin County Department of Mental Health, told commissioners about such a program that she coordinated in Virginia.

Under the plan, delinquent youngsters and their parents meet in separate group sessions followed up by individual sessions with each child and his parents.

In the Virginia program, none of the youngsters involved were repeat offenders, she told the commission.

"This seems to be a successful approach to delinquency prevention and may be valuable for Marin County," said Leroy J. Syrop, commission chairman.

Appointed to the committee to investigate funding — primarily private — for the proposed program were Mrs. Robertson and commissioners Victor R. Donati Jr., Kenneth S. Davis and Richard Oesterman.

The commission also discussed possible consolidation with the Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission, which has been recommended by the San Quentin task force and is included in the county administrator's plan for a new department of corrections.

John Donovan, chairman of the juvenile justice commission, told commissioners that there are several legal road blocks to consolidation and that it would take at least six months to implement.

Under state law, a combined commission must be limited to 15 members, Syrop said. There currently are 13 members on the juvenile justice commission and 10 on the juvenile delinquency prevention commission.

The commission also agreed to study costs of printing a booklet advising young people of their rights and responsibilities under the law.

Elizabeth Emerson, a member of the Marin County Bar Association, told commissioners that the association would be willing to help in the preparation of the booklet.

HOUSE TO BE SCOUT MONEY MAKER

Carpenters put the finishing touches on the frame of this house at 28 Castlewood Drive in the Glenwood section of San Rafael. After the skeletal walls of the five bedroom dwelling are fleshed out, expected in June, profits from its sale will be donated by Kaehler-Timmer Construction Co. to the Marin Council of the Boy Scouts of America, according to William H. Sherwood, scout executive director. The lot was obtained by Bernard Kern of Timmer Realty and profits will go for camp maintenance and operations. Last year, the construction company built a house in Marinwood that netted about $10,000 for the scout program, Sherwood said.

Sausalito Council Goes Ahead With Plans For Bond Election

Despite strenuous objections from a representative of the Sausalito Citizens Council, the Sausalito City Council last night went ahead with plans for two bond issues to finance purchase of Central School and land for a library site.

John Hinman of the citizens group — which claims from 250 to 300 members — asked for the reversal, because he said the organization does not believe the city needs the Northwestern Pacific Railroad land it proposes to buy for a library site.

"There is already enough land on the Central School property for a freestanding library," he said, and urged the council to seek a professional study to determine if the library can be accommodated in the school building itself.

The city council will place two bond issues before voters in a special election June 12, 1 $306,000 measure to buy the school for a new city hall and a second, for $260,000, to purchase the adjacent railroad land for a new library.

Hinman told the council city mgr. Albert St. Cyr had promised the council would hold "a study session" on the "whole civic center question" before the matter was decided and also promised to invite Hinman to that meeting.

"I'm still waiting," Hinman said.

Council members replied that the city manager could not be blamed for that mixup because "he's been very busy."

"The citizens council really wants a study of the Central School building as a possible library site and we're not going to do that," Mrs. Sweeny said. "We'll present the matter to the community and if they don't go for it, then we'll have to try something else."

As a compromise, though, the mayor promised to invite the city's bond counsel to next Tuesday's meeting to answer any questions the citizens council wants to pose.

"I really feel the city council has been unduly arbitrary in this entire matter," Hinman replied.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

LEGISLATION — Declined to act on a suggestion by Councilman Stephen A. Fraser that the city seek special state legislation to lessen the impact of the auto in Sausalito. Fraser wanted state permission to divert autos headed into town to parking or holding areas when the city is overcrowded with cars. He also sought permission to establish a "resident-only" parking zone on public streets in residential areas.

RATES — Approved rate increases for the city's franchised television cable company, Tele-Vue Systems, calling for a hike in the monthly cable charge from $5 to $8.

RAILROAD — Postponed a hearing on the Sausalito Richardson Bay Railroad Company's plans to establish a stream railroad through town until May 8 because an environmental impact report on the project has not been completed.

PARKING — Passed an ordinance converting municipal parking lot No. 3 from a metered lot to one regulated by parking attendants with an hourly parking fee of 75 cents.

GUIDELINES — Adopted a set of guidelines for requiring environmental impact reports on projects in Sausalito.

PARADE — Gave permission for the Sausalito Little League to hold its opening day parade at 11 a.m. April 29. The event will also honor the city's only POW, Cmdr. Charles E. Southwick.

COMMITTEE — On the suggestion of Councilman Fraser, agreed to form a three-person pathways committee, to be appointed by the mayor, to chart public paths in the city and perhaps make recommendations as to where improvements in the walkways are needed.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to instruct its negotiator in salary negotiations with city employees.

CONDOMINIUMS — Heard first reading of an ordinance providing procedures by which rental apartments in the city can be changed into condominiums for sale.

New Courses Are Added For Summer

An expanded summer program of occupational courses was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

In addition to last summer's office and automotive repair courses, this year the county schools office also will offer courses in motorcycle maintenance and repair, boat maintenance and repair, and cosmetology. Each is designed to train high school students and adults for jobs.

The cost of the program has not yet been computed, reported Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain. He said the entire cost is paid by state funds.

The courses are free to eligible students 16 years of age and older. Students may apply through their high school counselors or to the county schools office in Corte Madera.

The motorcycle and boat courses will be taught at the Regional Occupational Center, 456 Irwin Street, San Rafael. The motorcycle course, from July 30 to Aug. 31, will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The boat course will meet the same hours, but from July 2 to Aug. 31.

The office occupations course also will meet from July 2 to Aug. 31, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., in the Manzanita Center, Marin City.

The cosmetology course meets all year from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Marinello's School of Beauty, San Rafael.

The auto technology course will meet July 2 to Aug. 31 from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

Club Owner Slaps Fairfax With Suit

The owner of Marin Town and Country Club, frustrated in his efforts to sell his land for apartments, filed a $2.17 million law suit yesterday against the Town of Fairfax, saying the zoning has robbed his land of its value.

The suit filed by San Rafael attorney Bryan R. McCarthy for Max Friedman claims, "Fairfax, by maintaining and enforcing the provisions of the 1973 zoning, has taken, damaged, confiscated and inversely condemned plaintiff's property without compensation."

The town council Feb. 13 adopted a zoning ordinance, which gave the 26.8-acre resort area a private recreational designation.

That action came two months after Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court ruled that a similar rezoning by popular vote last April was illegal. The town has appealed to the state Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

Friedman's land had commercial zoning, but his plan to sell to Kaiser Aetna of Oakland, which envisioned 400 apartments, stirred up the townspeople. They voted 2-1 to change the zoning to allow only recreational use.

Following the vote, Friedman, who had announced he would close the swimming pools, picnic areas and playing fields at his club, reopened to the public again last summer.

The suit claims Friedman's property, which had a market value of $2.17 million under commercial zoning, has "become valueless for any purpose authorized under the 1973 zoning."

Friedman has contended his club is no longer profitable.

In addition to stripping the property of value, the rezoning is inconsistent with the town's general plan and open space element and "singles out plaintiff's property for different treatment without any reasonable cause or basis," according to the suit.

Furthermore, the town has moved against Friedman because it wants to buy his land "at little or no cost" for open space, according to the suit.

Prior to filing the suit, McCarthy presented a claim to the town, but the council turned down what then Mayor Albert E. Gately called an attempt to "bluff the city" into approving future commercial development.

Party Scheduled For Anniversary Of Earthquake

The Sausalito Youth Center will observe the 67th anniversary of the famed San Francisco quake and fire with an "earthquake party" at 8 p.m. Friday in the basement of Central School.

Special attraction will be the classic film, "San Francisco," with Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Jeanette MacDonald, which focuses on life on the Barbary Coast and concludes with the havoc caused by the quake.

The party will also include live piano highlights of the film's musical score and "some surprises," according to Paul Kozak, center director.

School Expansion Plan Review Set

The Shoreline Unifed School District board will review plans for expansion of Tomales Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

The district plans to build eight classrooms adjacent to the existing school and close the portable classrooms at the old Tomales High School site.

Bay Bridge Fire Protection To Be Improved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Highway Commission Tuesday approved $99,000 worth of fire protection improvements to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

Of the sum, $80,000 was for renovation of an early warning and sprinkler system in case of fire on the piers below the bridge. Commissioner Vernon J. Cristina of San Jose said tests showed many of the devices were defective.

The remainder of the funds were for installation of a fire detection and extinguishing system at three bridge stations housing air compressors.

Fonda Film Booted

DALLAS (UPI) — A television station received so many complaints about the showing of a scheduled Jane Fonda movie Tuesday that it canceled the film and ran another one instead, WFAA-TV officials said.

I LOST 600 POUNDS
THE SAME 10 POUNDS 60 TIMES.
DIETS? I'VE TRIED THEM ALL.
1. I lost weight so slowly, I got discouraged & quit.
2. I had weird cravings. I would have killed for a hot Fudge Sundae!
3. One slip and my will power disappeared. The result? An eating orgy until I gained back everything I lost.
4. Ten days on a diet, and I became too cranky and irritable to live with.
5. I became depressed, and after each failure, hated myself a little bit more.
6. I found I couldn't tolerate hunger, it was no fun to starve.
DOES THIS SOUND LIKE YOU?
Well I have solved all these problems. After 4 years of research, I developed a natural method of losing weight, and lost 55 lbs. in 2½ months. NO hunger! NO depression! NO cravings! ½ lb. to 1½ lbs. a day. I've shared this method with hundreds. I'll share it with you. If you're interested call us or write and we'll send you a tape cassette that tells the whole story. If you don't have a tape player or can't borrow one call for an appointment and come in and listen to it.

Trustees In Fairfax Eye Budget

Fairfax School District trustees held their first session last night on the 1973-74 budget and were told by Supt. H. Reginald Hammond that income may fall below this year's level of $1.2 million.

Hammond said he presented three budget variations for board consideration based on projected income of between $1,150,000 and $1,225,000.

The three fiscal plans are for $1,210,000, $1,193,000 and $1,120,000.

Hammond said trustees discarded the highest proposal and concentrated on the other two. The final budget, he said, probably will fall somewhere in between.

The lower figure assumes 970 pupils next year and the higher, 990 pupils. The two proposed budgets are "less than bare bones," he said, and trustees will have the opportunity to add programs to the lower budget if they wish.

Several residents of the Deer Park area were present, Hammond said, and some protested a budget item appropriating $20,000 for turfing the playfield at Deer Park School, a proposal that has neighbors up in arms.

"I think they'll (the neighbors) feel a lot better when we move that money to some other category," Hammond said.

Further budget discussions will take place at the next board meeting at 7:45 p.m. May 1 at White Hill School, Hammond said.

Trustees also heard that the district can expect only about half the $18,000 which had been anticipated from the State of California for an early childhood education program.

Almost every elementary district in the state has applied for a piece of the $25 million to be passed out for upgrading programs in grades kindergarten through third, Hammond said, adding that the state hadn't expected such a response.

As a result, Fairfax can expect only about $9,000 for the program. Hammond said trustees must decide whether to limit the program to fewer grades, to all grades but fewer children, or whether to spend less on each child.

The Fairfax School District board also:

LAND — Agreed in principle to sell a 20-by-100-foot strip of the White Hill School playground to Dennis D. Millerick, of 21 Shemran Court. Millerick's house was built to the property line, Hammond said, and the district doesn't need the land, which is used as a right-of-way by the Marin Municipal Water District anyway.

CALENDAR — Adopted a 1973-74 school calendar recommended by the Tamalpais High School District which includes 176 teaching days and a holiday for Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday Jan. 14.

GUIDELINES — Adopted guidelines on evaluating the environmental impact of school projects. The guidelines were suggested by the Marin County Counsel's office.

ENROLLMENT — Heard that enrollment has slipped by five since the last board meeting and now stands at 955.

Auto Death Charges Are Denied

An 18-year-old Novato youth, whose driving allegedly caused the death of two persons, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two counts of manslaughter and one of reckless driving.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for May 8 for Gregory T. Giuliano on the amended charges, which were changed because Helen Mae Doggett, 75, of Vandalia, Ohio, died April 8 while hospitalized for injuries suffered in an auto accident March 18.

Giuliano had been charged with manslaughter in the death of William Edward Porter, 61, of Novato, who died when Giuliano's car hit his, and two counts of causing injuries to Mrs. Doggett and Mrs. Porter through reckless driving.

Source of the charges was a two-car collision which occurred when Giuliano's car missed a turn and crashed into the front of the Porter auto at Virginia and Grant avenues.

The impact shoved the Porter car 185 feet into a utility pole, Novato police said. Witnesses told police Giuliano's car was speeding on Grant Avenue and failed to make the turn onto Virginia.

Delinquency Commission Will Aid In Group Therapy Proposal

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission yesterday formed a committee to help a clinical psychologist establish a group therapy program for delinquent children and their parents.

Anne Robertson, a clinical psychologist for the Marin County Department of Mental Health, told commissioners about such a program that she coordinated in Virginia.

Under the plan, delinquent youngsters and their parents meet in separate group sessions followed up by individual sessions with each child and his parents.

In the Virginia program, none of the youngsters involved were repeat offenders, she told the commission.

"This seems to be a successful approach to delinquency prevention and may be valuable for Marin County," said Leroy J. Syrop, commission chairman.

Appointed to the committee to investigate funding — primarily private — for the proposed program were Mrs. Robertson and commissioners Victor R. Donati Jr., Kenneth S. Davis and Richard Oesterman.

The commission also discussed possible consolidation with the Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission, which has been recommended by the San Quentin task force and is included in the county administrator's plan for a new department of corrections.

John Donovan, chairman of the juvenile justice commission, told commissioners that there are several legal road blocks to consolidation and that it would take at least six months to implement.

Under state law, a combined commission must be limited to 15 members, Syrop said. There currently are 13 members on the juvenile justice commission and 10 on the juvenile delinquency prevention commission.

The commission also agreed to study costs of printing a booklet advising young people of their rights and responsibilities under the law.

Elizabeth Emerson, a member of the Marin County Bar Association, told commissioners that the association would be willing to help in the preparation of the booklet.

AN EXPLOSIVE RELIC

Police Chief John F. Harris of Ross holds one of three World War I practice bombs found by a construction crew in a vacant lot off Fern Hill Avenue yesterday. A crew from the 87th Ordinance Detachment at the Presidio of San Francisco removed the bombs and later destroyed them after finding they contained small explosive charges. The bomb squad also was called in Monday night to defuse a 4.2 mm mortar round found by Kent Fife of Corte Madera while cleaning his mother's garage at 125 Bretano Way in Greenbrae, Corte Madera police reported today. Hicks Valley Reservoir Proposed

3,000 Acres Earmarked For Handling Wastewater

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — More than 3,000 acres in Hicks Valley have been earmarked by the Army Corps of Engineers as a sewage spray field and reservoir in a plan the corps will recommend to the state.

The reservoir would be roughly twice the size of Stafford Lake, but too polluted for recreational use.

Corps consultants warned the treated sewage could drain into the Nicasio Reservoir.

The proposal will be part of a corps plan to reclaim wastewater throughout the 12 Bay Area and Delta counties. The Hicks Valley part would handle sewage from Marin.

The system, corps engineers explained, would absorb a projected wastewater flow of 1.5 billion gallons a day by the year 2000. The treated wastewater would be filtered and cleaned through the soil to be recaptured in underground pipes for reuse.

Some 13,000 acres would be set aside in western Sonoma to handle that county's wastewater.

Corps engineers, detailing the regional project at an "environmental workshop" last night in their district offices, said further study has cut the acreage needed from 255,000 to about 200,000. Virtually all of west Marin and Sonoma had been designated for study as spray fields when the corps first reported its preliminary proposal last summer.

A corps official told the Independent-Journal the reduction in acreage reduced the project's $5.3 billion cost, but he said the amount of the cut has not yet been calculated.

The project also envisions a small reservoir on the east side of Tomales Bay to handle wastewater from the Inverness area. The sewage would be piped under the bay to the reservoir.

About two dozen persons attended last night's two-hour session, half of them corps officials. Of the remaining dozen from the public, six were Yolo County officials who came to declare they were "unalterably opposed" to using a large area of their county for spray fields for sewage from neighboring counties.

Herbert H. Angress of Marshall, apparently the only Marinite present, challenged the corps' assumption that spray fields in West Marin and Sonoma could absorb nine acre-feet of water a year. The land will take only about three acre-feet, he said.

To prevent runoff and loss of the remaining six acre-feet, Angress suggested, the corps should triple the amount of land for the spray fields. He added this would preserve more open space.

Corps officials assured several ranchers in the audience they would be able to continue agricultural and livestock uses of their land under the proposed reclamation system.

The project, the largest water reclamation system in the world if undertaken, also would prevent pollution of rivers and bays that otherwise would receive treated sewage, cut the cost of sewage treatment and bolster the agricultural economy by providing a new source of water, corps engineers said.

The Sequoia Group of Berkeley, public health consultants for the $800,000 study, cautioned "there may be some potential for drainage into the Nicasio Reservoir" from the Hicks Valley spray fields.

They also warned that "drainage into the Russian River and into Tomales and Bodega bays is quite probable," — drainage which could harm shellfish beds and the fishery in these waters. The wastewater will have to be treated and handled extremely carefully to prevent damage to such nearby bodies of water, they said.

The consultants also acknowledged the project would increase the number of mosquitoes and flies.

Philip E. Lammi, chief of the corps' environmental branch at the San Francisco district, said a draft of the final plan will be completed by next month. Copies will be available for public viewing at the corps office, county libraries and county offices, he said.

Formal hearings on it will be held in June before it is submitted to the state Water Resources Control Board. A member of the state board's staff, James G. Giannopolous, stressed that the corps' study was "only one set of alternates." Other means of managing the growing flood of wastewater are being studied by other consultants to the state board, he said.

The state has to complete its drafting of a plan for the 12 counties by the end of this year, and submit a final plan a year from July with the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Since federal funds will be needed to help finance any such project, Giannopolous said, the final decision on how to handle the wastewater probably will be up to the EPA.

Ex-Prisoner Faces Driving Charges

EL CAJON, Calif. (UPI) — Army Spec. 5 Juan Manuel Astorga, 21, a former prisoner of war in Vietnam, faces arraignment Thursday on charges of reckless and hit-run driving with the car he received as a welcome home gift, the sheriff's department said.

Sheriff's deputies said Astorga drove the car into another auto last week, then left the scene. He was on leave from Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco.

Muir Beach 'Mountie' To Discourage Nudes

Spring has sprung and one of the surest harbingers of the season — nudes at Muir Beach — are back, the Marin County Board of Supervisors was told yesterday.

The supervisors responded promptly to the request of residents of the area for protection against the sunbathers — who in turn draw numerous watchers, equipped with binoculars.

"People are unlikely to start disrobing if a horseman (a mounted sheriff's deputy) is there," Undersheriff Sidney Stinson told the supervisors.

Such a patrol worked well last year, he said, and was much more satisfactory than forays over the hill by deputies, who had to then drive their quarry to the Marin County Civic Center to jail if they caught them.

"By a narrow consensus" residents of Bolinas also want such a beach patrol, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said.

The supervisors approved a seven-day-a-week mounted patrol for Muir Beach and a weekend-only horseman for Bolinas, which is apparently less attractive to the nudes.

Muir Beach residents promised water for the horse.

In the meantime, Supervisor Michael Wornum suggested setting aside "some beach off the beaten track" for nude sunbathing.

Housing Limit In Marin City Master Plan Bothering Board

A provision in the proposed Marin City master plan which would severely limit and might even curtail housing for persons of low and moderate income was viewed yesterday with displeasure by the Marin Board of Supervisors.

The board reviewed the master plan late in the day after a long meeting and took no action on it, putting off decision to May 8. By the end of the discussion Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. had left because of evening commitments.

Nesbit Crutchfield, a member of the Marin City Council, which represents public housing tenants in the community, told the supervisors that a 25 per cent limit on housing for persons with under $12,000 annual income might even cause a loss of homes for present Marin City residents.

The plan proposes transformation of Marin City, now 92 per cent black residents with a high percentage of low income persons, into a socially, racially and economically integrated community.

More expensive housing planned for the ridgelands above the present Marin City.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere suggested that "we are kind of kidding ourselves" with the plans.

He, along with Supervisors Michael Wornum and Arnold Baptiste said they have no intention of displacing present Marin City residents and that the section of the plan pertaining to percentage of lower cost housing would have to be rewritten.

Crutchfield also told the supervisors that the Marin City Council does not want a discount department store as indicated in the plan but rather a "more respectable type of shopping center," such as the one in Strawberry.

The supervisors, at Crutchfield's suggestion, also removed a phrase from the environmental impact report on the plan that maintained that Marin City families are usually large and "often with a woman as head of household."

Crutchfield said this is not true.

Although taking no action on the master plan, the supervisors did accept a required environmental impact report which described what is in the master plan.

The plan was drafted under a federal grant by the consultant firms of Kennard and Silvers and Whisler-Patri.

Supervisors To Provide Funds For Food Program

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday granted Community Action Marin enough money to continue until the end of June the antipoverty agency's supplemental food program for expectant mothers and small children.

The agency, formerly the Economic Opportunity Council, has lost federal funding, and asked for $600 to pay a delivery fee of 50 cents a case for the food, which is supplied free through federal and state programs, according to Barbara S. Eaton, chairman.

The supervisors granted the sum to continue the program, through which 500 mothers and children under 6 years old in Marin receive food. They also agreed to pay an additional $400 if Community Action Marin is no longer able to provide a warehouse — distribution center for the food in San Rafael.

Mrs. Eaton said she hopes to find private funding for the program next year.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

DRYDOCKS — Heard that the fire this week at the drydocks in Sausalito may make it more difficult to remove them, although the owner, Chris Roberts, said he plans to go ahead with salvage.

FREEZE — Took no action on a request from the Marin County Employees Association that the county hire no regular or extra-hire employees until the 1973-74 budget is approved. The association maintains that the threat of a cutback has led to a rash of extra-hire employees.

TRANSFER — Approved transfer of $25,591 from the San Anselmo account of the road department urban thoroughfare funds to the road department contingency account because San Anselmo had not used the funds within the two-year time limit.

SLIDE — Approved a $4,000 change order to cover slide repair at two locations in the Bayside Acres area.

BIDS — Called for bids for a catwalk at the Marin Veterans Building to be opened April 30.

REPAIR — Accepted a low bid of $9,465 by Maggiora and Ghilotti for repair to the terraced parking lot at the Civic Center.

NAME — Renamed roads known as Yuba, Humboldt and Eureka to Gate 6 Road.

ROADS — Accepted a petition from property owners living in the Paradise Ranch Estates road division and agreed, as required by law, to lend the division $15,000 for engineering studies.

ECOLOGICAL — Ruled that a proposed ecological nursery business at 240 Redwood Highway would have a neglible effect on the environment, overruling the planning commission.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 1 p.m. tomorrow for the first hearing on the Marin Countywide Plan.

Expectant Dads And Pregnancy

LONDON (UPI) — Men with expectant wives sometimes find their stomachs swelling in a sympathy pregnancy, a doctor said in an article published today.

Dr. William Trethowan, writing in Mother and Baby magazine, said one explanation is that a wife's pregnancy may upset a husband's digestion.

Another explanation, he said, is that some husbands develop a particularly close relationship with their wives during pregnancy.

Trethowan said many expectant fathers complain of symptoms "remarkably similar to those which their wives normally experience."

He said these include morning sickness, backache and even labor pains.

Missile Launched

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI) — A Minuteman II missile was launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base at 8:25 p.m. Tuesday by signal from an airborne control center in an aircraft flying overhead.

State Oil Spill Laws Said Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that states may override federal maritime law and enact strict regulations to deal with offshore oil spills.

In an opinion by Justice William O. Douglas, the Court reversed a 1971 ruling by a special three-judge federal court in Jacksonville, which invalidated Florida's "Oil Spill Prevention Act."

The Florida law provides for recovery by the state of clean-up costs and imposes strict, no-fault liability on waterfront oil-handling facilities and ships using them for any oil spill damage to the state or private individuals.

A suit to bar implementation of the law was filed by merchant shippers, world shipping associations, heavy industries and others. The lower court ruled in their favor on grounds the federal maritime legislation was paramount.

Douglas ruled that the enforcement of the state jurisdiction is not prevented by either the 1970 Water Quality Improvement Act nor the Admiralty Extension Act.

In the 1970 law, Congress dealt with recovery of oil spill clean up costs incurred by the federal government. The law presupposes a coordinated federal-state effort to deal with coastal oil pollution.

Douglas also said the Admiralty Extension Act was not intended to provide an exclusive remedy to state problems.

"To rule as the district court has done is to allow federal admiralty jurisdiction to swallow most of the police power of the states over oil-spillage —an insidious form of pollution of vast concern to every coastal city or port and to all the estuaries on which the life of the ocean and the lives of the coastal people are greatly dependent," the opinion said.

$22 Million Is Cost Of Aides For Brass

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office (GAO) said today the use of enlisted men to cook, tend bar, care for pets and clean house for admirals, generals and Navy captains costs the taxpayers $22 million a year.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., released a GAO report on an investigation of the use of enlisted aides and promised an effort "to outlaw this wasteful and demeaning practice."

"At their rate of pay—the equivalent of $50,000 a year and more including benefits—generals and admirals can and should pay for their own luxuries," he said.

The GAO said it had surveyed 25 per cent of the 1,722 men now serving as personal aides to officers and found that:

—75 per cent of aides in the Army, 49 per cent in the Navy, 88 per cent in the Air Force and 16 per cent of the Marines said they regularly washed their superior's private automobiles.

—53 per cent of Army aides, 39 per cent of the Navy men, 32 per cent of the Air Force aides and 26 per cent of the Marines said they cared for officers' pets.

—Nearly all the aides said their duties included bartending, grocery shopping, cleaning quarters and gardening. Six per cent of these interviewed said they at times were babysitters, 28 per cent said they chauffeured officers' children and 22 per cent said they did laundry.

The GAO said many of the aides "felt obliged to do these tasks if requested to do them by the officer or his wife," even though they were aware that some of the duties were purely personal services.

Service regulations prohibit the use of enlisted men as servants and require an essential military purpose for all duties performed by personal aides.

"Since many of the services performed by enlisted aides benefit the officers personally and also accomplish some military purpose, the line between official and personal services cannot be finely drawn," the report said.

Raise For BART Manager Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The administration committee for Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) has voted to recommend a $7,000 a year raise for general manager B.R. Stokes.

The increase, approved by the committee Tuesday, would bring Stokes' salary to $52,000.

Wife Of Justice Fails To Qualify

SEATTLE (UPI) — Results announced by the Washington State Bar Association Tuesday of the state's February bar examination showed Cathleen Douglas, wife of U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, failed to qualify as a lawyer in the state.

She was not listed among the 94 persons who passed the examinations. Mrs. Douglas, a graduate of American University Law School, recently passed the District of Columbia bar examination and was admitted to that bar.

Douglas is a native of Washington State.

Chavez Asks For Probe Of Growers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers Union (UFWU), has called for congressional investigation of charges that California growers made illegal payments to the Teamsters in an effort to destroy his union.

The Teamsters Union is battling with the UFWU to sign up itinerant lettuce and grape harvesters in California.

Chavez and his general counsel, Jerry Cohen, told a press conference here Tuesday that "$5,000 packages" were turned over to the Teamsters by growers during the UFWU lettuce strike in 1971.

It is illegal for employers to make payments to unions.

Cohen said he did not know how much had been turned over to the Teamsters but contended the "payoffs" had been made at Salinas, Calif., over at least a four-month period in late 1971.

Chavez said evidence of the payments was in the hands of the government but he did not know why no action had been taken.

"We're calling for a congressional investigation of a conspiracy between the Teamsters and growers to destroy our union," Chavez said.

Teen-Aged Choir Will Present Singing Rallies

The Northern California "Impact Team," a teen-aged choir, will open a series of singing rallies at the Novato High School lecture hall at 7:30 p.m. today.

The performances will continue at 7:30 p.m. each evening through Sunday.

The choir, sponsored by the Nazarene Young People's Society of Northern California, will sing at the Novato Community House at 10 a.m. Easter Sunday.

Rev. Wilfred Stukas, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Novato, said performances are open to the public without admission charge.

The program will include contemporary gospel music, old-time favorites and spirituals, he said.

Inmate At Prison Stabbed

A San Mateo County man, serving a term at San Queftin for armed robbery, was stabbed today while working in the prison kitchen, according to Lee DeBord, information officer.

Lin Paul Jeffers, 24, was reported in satisfactory condition in the prison hospital with one stab wound below the left shoulder blade, DeBord said.

Jeffers was serving a six months to life sentence for armed robbery and for escape from a San Mateo County honor farm.

No motive for the 8:45 a.m. attack is known, DeBord said.

A 10.5-inch prison-made knife, with a six-and-one-half inch blade, was used in the attack and was recovered, said DeBord.

Halt To Nuclear Testing Asked

APIA, Samoa (UPI) -- Delegates to the seven-nation South Pacific Forum called today for an immediate halt to French nuclear testing in the South Pacific.

They said in a communique that by continuing the tests France was showing a "deplorable indifference" to the peoples of the South Pacific region.

AN EXPLOSIVE RELIC

Police Chief John F. Harris of Ross holds one of three World War I practice bombs found by a construction crew in a vacant lot off Fern Hill Avenue yesterday. A crew from the 87th Ordinance Detachment at the Presidio of San Francisco removed the bombs and later destroyed them after finding they contained small explosive charges. The bomb squad also was called in Monday night to defuse a 4.2 mm mortar round found by Kent Fife of Corte Madera while cleaning his mother's garage at 125 Bretano Way in Greenbrae, Corte Madera police reported today. Hicks Valley Reservoir Proposed

3,000 Acres Earmarked For Handling Wastewater

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — More than 3,000 acres in Hicks Valley have been earmarked by the Army Corps of Engineers as a sewage spray field and reservoir in a plan the corps will recommend to the state.

The reservoir would be roughly twice the size of Stafford Lake, but too polluted for recreational use.

Corps consultants warned the treated sewage could drain into the Nicasio Reservoir.

The proposal will be part of a corps plan to reclaim wastewater throughout the 12 Bay Area and Delta counties. The Hicks Valley part would handle sewage from Marin.

The system, corps engineers explained, would absorb a projected wastewater flow of 1.5 billion gallons a day by the year 2000. The treated wastewater would be filtered and cleaned through the soil to be recaptured in underground pipes for reuse.

Some 13,000 acres would be set aside in western Sonoma to handle that county's wastewater.

Corps engineers, detailing the regional project at an "environmental workshop" last night in their district offices, said further study has cut the acreage needed from 255,000 to about 200,000. Virtually all of west Marin and Sonoma had been designated for study as spray fields when the corps first reported its preliminary proposal last summer.

A corps official told the Independent-Journal the reduction in acreage reduced the project's $5.3 billion cost, but he said the amount of the cut has not yet been calculated.

The project also envisions a small reservoir on the east side of Tomales Bay to handle wastewater from the Inverness area. The sewage would be piped under the bay to the reservoir.

About two dozen persons attended last night's two-hour session, half of them corps officials. Of the remaining dozen from the public, six were Yolo County officials who came to declare they were "unalterably opposed" to using a large area of their county for spray fields for sewage from neighboring counties.

Herbert H. Angress of Marshall, apparently the only Marinite present, challenged the corps' assumption that spray fields in West Marin and Sonoma could absorb nine acre-feet of water a year. The land will take only about three acre-feet, he said.

To prevent runoff and loss of the remaining six acre-feet, Angress suggested, the corps should triple the amount of land for the spray fields. He added this would preserve more open space.

Corps officials assured several ranchers in the audience they would be able to continue agricultural and livestock uses of their land under the proposed reclamation system.

The project, the largest water reclamation system in the world if undertaken, also would prevent pollution of rivers and bays that otherwise would receive treated sewage, cut the cost of sewage treatment and bolster the agricultural economy by providing a new source of water, corps engineers said.

The Sequoia Group of Berkeley, public health consultants for the $800,000 study, cautioned "there may be some potential for drainage into the Nicasio Reservoir" from the Hicks Valley spray fields.

They also warned that "drainage into the Russian River and into Tomales and Bodega bays is quite probable," — drainage which could harm shellfish beds and the fishery in these waters. The wastewater will have to be treated and handled extremely carefully to prevent damage to such nearby bodies of water, they said.

The consultants also acknowledged the project would increase the number of mosquitoes and flies.

Philip E. Lammi, chief of the corps' environmental branch at the San Francisco district, said a draft of the final plan will be completed by next month. Copies will be available for public viewing at the corps office, county libraries and county offices, he said.

Formal hearings on it will be held in June before it is submitted to the state Water Resources Control Board. A member of the state board's staff, James G. Giannopolous, stressed that the corps' study was "only one set of alternates." Other means of managing the growing flood of wastewater are being studied by other consultants to the state board, he said.

The state has to complete its drafting of a plan for the 12 counties by the end of this year, and submit a final plan a year from July with the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Since federal funds will be needed to help finance any such project, Giannopolous said, the final decision on how to handle the wastewater probably will be up to the EPA.

Ex-Prisoner Faces Driving Charges

EL CAJON, Calif. (UPI) — Army Spec. 5 Juan Manuel Astorga, 21, a former prisoner of war in Vietnam, faces arraignment Thursday on charges of reckless and hit-run driving with the car he received as a welcome home gift, the sheriff's department said.

Sheriff's deputies said Astorga drove the car into another auto last week, then left the scene. He was on leave from Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco.

Muir Beach 'Mountie' To Discourage Nudes

Spring has sprung and one of the surest harbingers of the season — nudes at Muir Beach — are back, the Marin County Board of Supervisors was told yesterday.

The supervisors responded promptly to the request of residents of the area for protection against the sunbathers — who in turn draw numerous watchers, equipped with binoculars.

"People are unlikely to start disrobing if a horseman (a mounted sheriff's deputy) is there," Undersheriff Sidney Stinson told the supervisors.

Such a patrol worked well last year, he said, and was much more satisfactory than forays over the hill by deputies, who had to then drive their quarry to the Marin County Civic Center to jail if they caught them.

"By a narrow consensus" residents of Bolinas also want such a beach patrol, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said.

The supervisors approved a seven-day-a-week mounted patrol for Muir Beach and a weekend-only horseman for Bolinas, which is apparently less attractive to the nudes.

Muir Beach residents promised water for the horse.

In the meantime, Supervisor Michael Wornum suggested setting aside "some beach off the beaten track" for nude sunbathing.

Housing Limit In Marin City Master Plan Bothering Board

A provision in the proposed Marin City master plan which would severely limit and might even curtail housing for persons of low and moderate income was viewed yesterday with displeasure by the Marin Board of Supervisors.

The board reviewed the master plan late in the day after a long meeting and took no action on it, putting off decision to May 8. By the end of the discussion Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. had left because of evening commitments.

Nesbit Crutchfield, a member of the Marin City Council, which represents public housing tenants in the community, told the supervisors that a 25 per cent limit on housing for persons with under $12,000 annual income might even cause a loss of homes for present Marin City residents.

The plan proposes transformation of Marin City, now 92 per cent black residents with a high percentage of low income persons, into a socially, racially and economically integrated community.

More expensive housing planned for the ridgelands above the present Marin City.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere suggested that "we are kind of kidding ourselves" with the plans.

He, along with Supervisors Michael Wornum and Arnold Baptiste said they have no intention of displacing present Marin City residents and that the section of the plan pertaining to percentage of lower cost housing would have to be rewritten.

Crutchfield also told the supervisors that the Marin City Council does not want a discount department store as indicated in the plan but rather a "more respectable type of shopping center," such as the one in Strawberry.

The supervisors, at Crutchfield's suggestion, also removed a phrase from the environmental impact report on the plan that maintained that Marin City families are usually large and "often with a woman as head of household."

Crutchfield said this is not true.

Although taking no action on the master plan, the supervisors did accept a required environmental impact report which described what is in the master plan.

The plan was drafted under a federal grant by the consultant firms of Kennard and Silvers and Whisler-Patri.

Supervisors To Provide Funds For Food Program

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday granted Community Action Marin enough money to continue until the end of June the antipoverty agency's supplemental food program for expectant mothers and small children.

The agency, formerly the Economic Opportunity Council, has lost federal funding, and asked for $600 to pay a delivery fee of 50 cents a case for the food, which is supplied free through federal and state programs, according to Barbara S. Eaton, chairman.

The supervisors granted the sum to continue the program, through which 500 mothers and children under 6 years old in Marin receive food. They also agreed to pay an additional $400 if Community Action Marin is no longer able to provide a warehouse — distribution center for the food in San Rafael.

Mrs. Eaton said she hopes to find private funding for the program next year.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

DRYDOCKS — Heard that the fire this week at the drydocks in Sausalito may make it more difficult to remove them, although the owner, Chris Roberts, said he plans to go ahead with salvage.

FREEZE — Took no action on a request from the Marin County Employees Association that the county hire no regular or extra-hire employees until the 1973-74 budget is approved. The association maintains that the threat of a cutback has led to a rash of extra-hire employees.

TRANSFER — Approved transfer of $25,591 from the San Anselmo account of the road department urban thoroughfare funds to the road department contingency account because San Anselmo had not used the funds within the two-year time limit.

SLIDE — Approved a $4,000 c[illegible]e order to cover slide repair [illegible]wo locations in the Bayside [illegible]res area.

BIDS — Called for bids for a catwalk at the Marin Veterans Building to be opened April 30.

REPAIR — Accepted a low bid of $9,465 by Maggiora and Ghilotti for repair to the terraced parking lot at the Civic Center.

NAME — Renamed roads known as Yuba, Humboldt and Eureka to Gate 6 Road.

ROADS — Accepted a petition from property owners living in the Paradise Ranch Estates road division and agreed, as required by law, to lend the division $15,000 for engineering studies.

ECOLOGICAL — Ruled that a proposed ecological nursery business at 240 Redwood Highway would have a neglible effect on the environment, overruling the planning commission.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 1 p.m. tomorrow for the first hearing on the Marin Countywide Plan.

Expectant Dads And Pregnancy

LONDON (UPI) — Men with expectant wives sometimes find their stomachs swelling in a sympathy pregnancy, a doctor said in an article published today.

Dr. William Trethowan, writing in Mother and Baby magazine, said one explanation is that a wife's pregnancy may upset a husband's digestion.

Another explanation, he said, is that some husbands develop a particularly close relationship with their wives during pregnancy.

Trethowan said many expectant fathers complain of symptoms "remarkably similar to those which their wives normally experience."

He said these include morning sickness, backache and even labor pains.

Too Much Coffee Can Cause Wide Variety Of Disorders

"Coffee breaks" became popular because caffeine is a potent central nervous system stimulant that many of us apparently need. Habit also enters the picture in that some people enjoy a few minutes away from the routine of work. Sharing a freshly perked pot with friends is a form of relaxation. Housewives often gather in someone's kitchen to enjoy a klatch.

How much coffee is safe? In my opinion five cups a day is enough considering that an average serving contains up to 100 mg. of caffeine. I know people who drink more than this but some persons are highly susceptible to the stimulating effects of coffee. Each person should be his own judge. Too much leads to wakefulness, nervousness, tremor, palpitation, and digestive disorders. When these symptoms develop, cut down even though the bad effects are temporary and not too serious.

BUT THEY might be serious if they increase your chances of having a heart attack. Some heart specialists believe that the risk increases after five cups a day. I also realize that many coffeehounds also are heavy smokers; these habits go along with the striving, competitive, tense personality, which in itself is characteristic of the coronary-prone individual.

Moderate amounts of caffeine improve mental and muscular effort, diminish fatigue, and produce a quicker or clearer flow of thought. Reactions are faster, but, as might be expected, accuracy of acquired skills is impaired.

At one time, caffeine was used in the treatment of angina pectoris and as a diuretic. However, it was discontinued when better remedies were introduced. Caffeine still is used to combat fatigue and as a headache remedy, often combined with ergotamine. Many cough and cold remedies contain small amounts of caffeine to counteract the depressing effects of the other ingredients.

THE PHYSIOLOGICAL effects of coffee on the heart are variable. One cup may slightly elevate the pulse and systolic blood pressure. But, standing up and walking through the home or apartment has the same effect on the heart. Some people are extremely sensitive to caffeine and one cup is followed by a high pulse rate, dizziness, weakness, and tremors lasting an hour or more. Needless to say, coffee is not for them.

PREPERIOD TENSION

R. R. writes: Before my period I become highly emotional and say things I normally would not. Can I counteract this tendency?

REPLY

Being emotional and dramatic never kills but there are remedies if you must do something about it. This form of tension stems from the accumulation of fluid in the tissues during the three to six days prior to menstruation. It is corrected by using diuretic drugs that stimulate the kidneys to eliminate salt and fluids from the tissues.

ARTERY X-RAY

B. D. writes: Following an accident, X-rays were taken of my husband's leg. The technician said they showed a trace of cholesterol imbalance. Can X-rays do this?

REPLY

No. Perhaps the technician saw signs of hardening of the arteries. A blood test is needed to determine whether there is too much cholesterol.

RINGWORM PILLS

J. L. writes: Can pills be taken by mouth to cure ringworm of the scalp?

REPLY

Yes. Griseofulvin tablets may be helpful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disorder.

Jail Sentence Given Golf Shop Burglar

A 23-year-old San Rafael man who burglarized a Novato golf shop has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for the felony offense.

Steven Douglas Drown also was placed on two years probation and ordered to pay $650 restitution by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Best ran the trial in which Drown was convicted last month of breaking into the Marin Country Club golf shop Nov. 25.

Police responding to the shop's alarm found Drown outside, but did not arrest him because he said he found the shop door ajar. Novato police said a test with the alarm disproved the story and he was arrested Dec. 7.

Westside Park Is Improved For Horsemen

Westside County Park at Bodega Bay has been improved to accommodate horsemen, according to Sonoma County information officer Richard F. McGlinchey.

Recent work by members of seven riding clubs includes new horse stalls and a large concrete water trough. The facility accommodates 12 horses and is available to horsemen who want to camp overnight at the park.

The new facility is a mile south of riding and hiking trails within the Sonoma Coast State Park. Future plans include completing circular trails that will link the state park to Westside County Park and to Bodega Head. When completed, 10 miles of trails will be available.

State Oil Spill Laws Said Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that states may override federal maritime law and enact strict regulations to deal with offshore oil spills.

In an opinion by Justice William O. Douglas, the Court reversed a 1971 ruling by a special three-judge federal court in Jacksonville, which invalidated Florida's "Oil Spill Prevention Act."

The Florida law provides for recovery by the state of cleanup costs and imposes strict, no-fault liability on waterfront oil-handling facilities and ships using them for any oil spill damage to the state or private individuals.

A suit to bar implementation of the law was filed by merchant shippers, world shipping associations, heavy industries and others. The lower court ruled in their favor on grounds the federal maritime legislation was paramount.

Douglas ruled that the enforcement of the state jurisdiction is not prevented by either the 1970 Water Quality Improvement Act nor the Admiralty Extension Act.

In the 1970 law, Congress dealt with recovery of oil spill clean up costs incurred by the federal government. The law presupposes a coordinated federal-state effort to deal with coastal oil pollution.

Douglas also said the Admiralty Extension Act was not intended to provide an exclusive remedy to state problems.

"To rule as the district court has done is to allow federal admiralty jurisdiction to swallow most of the police power of the states over oil-spillage —an insidious form of pollution of vast concern to every coastal city or port and to all the estuaries on which the life of the ocean and the lives of the coastal people are greatly dependent," the opinion said.

$22 Million Is Cost Of Aides For Brass

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office (GAO) said today the use of enlisted men to cook, tend bar, care for pets and clean house for admirals, generals and Navy captains costs the taxpayers $22 million a year.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., released a GAO report on an investigation of the use of enlisted aides and promised an effort "to outlaw this wasteful and demeaning practice."

"At their rate of pay—the equivalent of $50,000 a year and more including benefits—generals and admirals can and should pay for their own luxuries," he said.

The GAO said it had surveyed 25 per cent of the 1,722 men now serving as personal aides to officers and found that:

—75 per cent of aides in the Army, 49 per cent in the Navy, 88 per cent in the Air Force and 16 per cent of the Marines said they regularly washed their superior's private automobiles.

—53 per cent of Army aides, 39 per cent of the Navy men, 32 per cent of the Air Force aides and 26 per cent of the Marines said they cared for officers' pets.

—Nearly all the aides said their duties included bartending, grocery shopping, cleaning quarters and gardening. Six per cent of these interviewed said they at times were babysitters, 28 per cent said they chauffeured officers' children and 22 per cent said they did laundry.

The GAO said many of the aides "felt obliged to do these tasks if requested to do them by the officer or his wife," even though they were aware that some of the duties were purely personal services.

Service regulations prohibit the use of enlisted men as servants and require an essential military purpose for all duties performed by personal aides.

"Since many of the services performed by enlisted aides benefit the officers personally and also accomplish some military purpose, the line between official and personal services cannot be finely drawn," the report said.

Raise For BART Manager Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The administration committee for Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) has voted to recommend a $7,000 a year raise for general manager B.R. Stokes.

The increase, approved by the committee Tuesday, would bring Stokes' salary to $52,000.

Wife Of Justice Fails To Qualify

SEATTLE (UPI) — Results announced by the Washington State Bar Association Tuesday of the state's February bar examination showed Cathleen Douglas, wife of U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, failed to qualify as a lawyer in the state.

She was not listed among the 94 persons who passed the examinations. Mrs. Douglas, a graduate of American University Law School, recently passed the District of Columbia bar examination and was admitted to that bar.

Douglas is a native of Washington State.

Chavez Asks For Probe Of Growers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers Union (UFWU), has called for congressional investigation of charges that California growers made illegal payments to the Teamsters in an effort to destroy his union.

The Teamsters Union is battling with the UFWU to sign up itinerant lettuce and grape harvesters in California.

Chavez and his general counsel, Jerry Cohen, told a press conference here Tuesday that "$5,000 packages" were turned over to the Teamsters by growers during the UFWU lettuce strike in 1971.

It is illegal for employers to make payments to unions.

Cohen said he did not know how much had been turned over to the Teamsters but contended the "payoffs" had been made at Salinas, Calif., over at least a four-month period in late 1971.

Chavez said evidence of the payments was in the hands of the government but he did not know why no action had been taken.

"We're calling for a congressional investigation of a conspiracy between the Teamsters and growers to destroy our union," Chavez said.

Teen-Aged Choir Will Present Singing Rallies

The Northern California "Impact Team," a teen-aged choir, will open a series of singing rallies at the Novato High School lecture hall at 7:30 p.m. today.

The performances will continue at 7:30 p.m. each evening through Sunday.

The choir, sponsored by the Nazarene Young People's Society of Northern California, will sing at the Novato Community House at 10 a.m. Easter Sunday.

Rev. Wilfred Stukas, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Novato, said performances are open to the public without admission charge.

The program will include contemporary gospel music, old-time favorites and spirituals, he said.

Inmate At Prison Stabbed

A San Mateo County man, serving a term at San Queftin for armed robbery, was stabbed today while working in the prison kitchen, according to Lee DeBord, information officer.

Lin Paul Jeffers, 24, was reported in satisfactory condition in the prison hospital with one stab wound below the left shoulder blade, DeBord said.

Jeffers was serving a six months to life sentence for armed robbery and for escape from a San Mateo County honor farm.

No motive for the 8:45 a.m. attack is known, DeBord said.

A 10.5-inch prison-made knife, with a six-and-one-half inch blade, was used in the attack and was recovered, said DeBord.

Halt To Nuclear Testing Asked

APIA, Samoa (UPI) — Delegates to the seven-nation South Pacific Forum called today for an immediate halt to French nuclear testing in the South Pacific.

They said in a communique that by continuing the tests France was showing a "deplorable indifference" to the peoples of the South Pacific region.

How Nixon Will Use His Control Powers Unknown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won most of his battle for congressional extension of his powers to control wages and prices. But it remains to be seen just how he will use those powers.

A House-Senate conference committee agreed Tuesday to extend the President's wage-price control powers for one year beyond their April 30 expiration. There were still some hitches to be resolved before Congress as a whole passes the extension.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz told reporters Tuesday that "a general across-the-board wage-price freeze is not under active consideration by the President as far as I know."

But when asked whether the administration would announce any new anti-inflation measures this week, Shultz said, "I don't want to make any headlines. I pass." Other Treasury officials have indicated privately that some modification of the existing, largely voluntary wage-price guidelines may be in the offing. Shultz' answer did not rule this out.

Senate leaders decided not to take up the conference report today, meaning a vote could not come before April 30, the day Congress returns from Easter recess and the day that Nixon's wage-price controls expire.

If the compromise bill was defeated, as Republicans threaten, Congress would face a midnight deadline to come up with another compromise bill. Otherwise, Nixon's Phase III economic program would die.

The bill extending the President's control powers was approved by the conference committee Tuesday minus a Senate-passed provision which would have put rents under partial control. The provision would have allowed rents in metropolitan areas with vacancy rates of 5.5 per cent or less to rise only 2.5 per cent a year plus tax, cost increases and capital improvements.

The measure died through a fluke involving a proxy. Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., verbally had given House Banking Committee chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., his proxy vote in favor of the rent provision.

But the proxy was successfully challenged because it was not in writing. Patman and other Democrats tried to find Mitchell, but an aide said he had left town. The remaining conferees — eight Democrats and six Republicans—then defeated the rent provision by a 7-7 tie vote.

Republicans on the conference committee ended up voting against the whole bill because of four amendments they did not like. They have vowed to defeat the bill in its present form when it reaches the House and Senate floors, possibly not until April 30. Congress goes into its Easter recess today.

The amendments opposed by Republicans would:

—Allow Nixon to ration gasoline if he deems it necessary. "This makes the President a virtual czar over the petroleum industry," objected Rep. Albert W. Johnson, R-Pa.

—Require companies with business of more than $250 million a year to disclose the information they give the government to justify price increases of 1.5 per cent or more. The conferees added a provision allowing companies to withhold trade secrets.

—Define substandard earnings as $3.50 an hour or less instead of the present $2.75.

—Bar the President from using any of his authority under the act as an excuse to impound funds appropriated by Congress.

Independents Finding Gasoline Hard To Get

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Diminishing supplies of gasoline are shutting down some independent dealers—a threat to businesses using automotive transportation and to private car owners who normally take to the open road in droves during spring and summer.

Rationing so far has been spotty, arising, according to some retailers, from the desire of major oil companies to hoard their stores for their own outlets.

In Anniston, Ala., A. P. Hubbard, president of Hubbard Oil Co., said Tuesday that six of his 20 service stations have closed because they have no gasoline. He expected the remainder of his stations to exhaust their supply of gasoline within a week and close, unless a new source of gasoline is found.

Hubbard said he has bought gasoline from Crown Central Petroleum Corp. for more than 12 years, but less than two weeks ago the firm notified him it would supply no more gasoline after April 15.

"They've got gasoline but they're going to keep it to supply their big, elegant stations, as they put it," he said.

"We're still trying to find an additional source of supply from any place that we can," he said. "No major oil company will take you on now. They won't take on any new accounts."

Hubbard was in the same bind as Roy Pollard, president of "Save-X," an independent company in southwest Virginia. Pollard also put at least part of the blame on the major distributors.

Pollard, who closed all but two of his 16 stations last week, said, "We believe there is a shortage of gas, but we don't believe that the available supplies are being equitably distributed between the major oil companies and the independents."

Even some municipalities were faced with the prospect of shortages necessary for its civil functions.

For example, Detroit's gasoline contract with Standard, Gulf and Boron for its vehicles, which runs out at the end of this month, shows no immediate prospects of renewal.

The city in the past has asked for bids containing 12-month duration clauses and minimum stipulations.

This year, because of the lack of bids, city purchasing director Arthur Cope said the minimum and duration requirements have been dropped.

"At this point, we'll accept offers of almost any quantity over any period of time,' he said.

A spot check showed that some middlemen and oil companies are introducing rationing to independent distributors.

Robert Atkins of the Bargeway Oil Co., in Glen Ellyn, a suburb of Chicago, said his company had to stop selling gasoline to nine independent stations and had closed down one of its own.

Another jobber said major-brand outlets were now getting about the same monthly amount of gasoline they received last year but had no assurance there would be deliveries beyond April.

Novato Driver Critical From Two-Car Crash

A 33-year-old Novato man was reported in critical condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with injuries suffered in a two-car accident yesterday in San Rafael.

Robert N. Grunigen of 140 Lobo Vista, received facial cuts, possible lung puncture and internal injuries, the hospital reported.

According to police, Grunigen was southbound on Front Street about 5:45 p.m., when an eastbound car on Hoag Street, hit the Grunigen car broadsides. Driver of the other car, William Peter Ashton, 16, of 7 Mariner Drive, Corte Madera, was unhurt, police reported.

Permit Granted For Tennis Club

A use permit for two new tennis courts has been granted the Belvedere Tennis Club by the Tiburon Board of Adjustments.

Development administrator Phil V. Scott said the two new courts will be built parallel to the city's Richardson Bay Pathway south of the five existing courts.

Approval was granted on the condition that the club install no more lights for night play, Scott said.

Also approved were two variances — one to allow a three-story duplex at 11 Linda Vista Avenue, where the zoning ordinance allows only two-and-one-half stories; and the other to allow a deck at 1811 Mar West Street to encroach on the front-yard and sideyard setbacks.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Too Much Coffee Can Cause Wide Variety Of Disorders

"Coffee breaks" became popular because caffeine is a potent central nervous system stimulant that many of us apparently need. Habit also enters the picture in that some people enjoy a few minutes away from the routine of work. Sharing a freshly perked pot with friends is a form of relaxation. Housewives often gather in someone's kitchen to enjoy a klatch.

How much coffee is safe? In my opinion five cups a day is enough considering that an average serving contains up to 100 mg. of caffeine. I know people who drink more than this but some persons are highly susceptible to the stimulating effects of coffee. Each person should be his own judge. Too much leads to wakefulness, nervousness, tremor, palpitation, and digestive disorders. When these symptoms develop, cut down even though the bad effects are temporary and not too serious.

BUT THEY might be serious if they increase your chances of having a heart attack. Some heart specialists believe that the risk increases after five cups a day. I also realize that many coffeehounds also are heavy smokers; these habits go along with the striving, competitive, tense personality, which in itself is characteristic of the coronary-prone individual.

Moderate amounts of caffeine improve mental and muscular effort, diminish fatigue, and produce a quicker or clearer flow of thought. Reactions are faster, but, as might be expected, accuracy of acquired skills is impaired.

At one time, caffeine was used in the treatment of angina pectoris and as a diuretic. However, it was discontinued when better remedies were introduced. Caffeine still is used to combat fatigue and as a headache remedy, often combined with ergotamine. Many cough and cold remedies contain small amounts of caffeine to counteract the depressing effects of the other ingredients.

THE PHYSIOLOGICAL effects of coffee on the heart are variable. One cup may slightly elevate the pulse and systolic blood pressure. But, standing up and walking through the home or apartment has the same effect on the heart. Some people are extremely sensitive to caffeine and one cup is followed by a high pulse rate, dizziness, weakness, and tremors lasting an hour or more. Needless to say, coffee is not for them.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

PREPERIOD TENSION

R. R. writes: Before my period I become highly emotional and say things I normally would not. Can I counteract this tendency?

REPLY

Being emotional and dramatic never kills but there are remedies if you must do something about it. This form of tension stems from the accumulation of fluid in the tissues during the three to six days prior to menstruation. It is corrected by using diuretic drugs that stimulate the kidneys to eliminate salt and fluids from the tissues.

ARTERY X-RAY

B. D. writes: Following an accident, X-rays were taken of my husband's leg. The technician said they showed a trace of cholesterol imbalance. Can X-rays do this?

REPLY

No. Perhaps the technician saw signs of hardening of the arteries. A blood test is needed to determine whether there is too much cholesterol.

RINGWORM PILLS

J. L. writes: Can pills be taken by mouth to cure ringworm of the scalp?

REPLY

Yes. Griseofulvin tablets may be helpful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disorder.

Jail Sentence Given Golf Shop Burglar

A 23-year-old San Rafael man who burglarized a Novato golf shop has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for the felony offense.

Steven Douglas Drown also was placed on two years probation and ordered to pay $650 restitution by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Best ran the trial in which Drown was convicted last month of breaking into the Marin Country Club golf shop Nov. 25.

Police responding to the shop's alarm found Drown outside, but did not arrest him because he said he found the shop door ajar. Novato police said a test with the alarm disproved the story and he was arrested Dec. 7.

Westside Park Is Improved For Horsemen

Westside County Park at Bodega Bay has been improved to accommodate horsemen, according to Sonoma County information officer Richard F. McGlinchey.

Recent work by members of seven riding clubs includes new horse stalls and a large concrete water trough. The facility accommodates 12 horses and is available to horsemen who want to camp overnight at the park.

The new facility is a mile south of riding and hiking trails within the Sonoma Coast State Park. Future plans include completing circular trails that will link the state park to Westside County Park and to Bodega Head. When completed, 10 miles of trails will be available.

How Nixon Will Use His Control Powers Unknown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won most of his battle for congressional extension of his powers to control wages and prices. But it remains to be seen just how he will use those powers.

A House-Senate conference committee agreed Tuesday to extend the President's wage-price control powers for one year beyond their April 30 expiration. There were still some hitches to be resolved before Congress as a whole passes the extension.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz told reporters Tuesday that "a general across-the-board wage-price freeze is not under active consideration by the President as far as I know."

But when asked whether the administration would announce any new anti-inflation measures this week, Shultz said, "I don't want to make any headlines. I pass." Other Treasury officials have indicated privately that some modification of the existing, largely voluntary wage-price guidelines may be in the offing. Shultz' answer did not rule this out.

Senate leaders decided not to take up the conference report today, meaning a vote could not come before April 30, the day Congress returns from Easter recess and the day that Nixon's wage-price controls expire.

If the compromise bill was defeated, as Republicans threaten, Congress would face a midnight deadline to come up with another compromise bill. Otherwise, Nixon's Phase III economic program would die.

The bill extending the President's control powers was approved by the conference committee Tuesday minus a Senate-passed provision which would have put rents under partial control. The provision would have allowed rents in metropolitan areas with vacancy rates of 5.5 per cent or less to rise only 2.5 per cent a year plus tax, cost increases and capital improvements.

The measure died through a fluke involving a proxy. Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., verbally had given House Banking Committee chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., his proxy vote in favor of the rent provision.

But the proxy was successfully challenged because it was not in writing. Patman and other Democrats tried to find Mitchell, but an aide said he had left town. The remaining conferees — eight Democrats and six Republicans—then defeated the rent provision by a 7-7 tie vote.

Republicans on the conference committee ended up voting against the whole bill because of four amendments they did not like. They have vowed to defeat the bill in its present form when it reaches the House and Senate floors, possibly not until April 30. Congress goes into its Easter recess today.

The amendments opposed by Republicans would:

—Allow Nixon to ration gasoline if he deems it necessary. "This makes the President a virtual czar over the petroleum industry," objected Rep. Albert W. Johnson, R-Pa.

—Require companies with business of more than $250 million a year to disclose the information they give the government to justify price increases of 1.5 per cent or more. The conferees added a provision allowing companies to withhold trade secrets.

—Define substandard earnings as $3.50 an hour or less instead of the present $2.75.

—Bar the President from using any of his authority under the act as an excuse to impound funds appropriated by Congress.

Independents Finding Gasoline Hard To Get

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Diminishing supplies of gasoline are shutting down some independent dealers—a threat to businesses using automotive transportation and to private car owners who normally take to the open road in droves during spring and summer.

Rationing so far has been spotty, arising, according to some retailers, from the desire of major oil companies to hoard their stores for their own outlets.

In Anniston, Ala., A. P. Hubbard, president of Hubbard Oil Co., said Tuesday that six of his 20 service stations have closed because they have no gasoline. He expected the remainder of his stations to exhaust their supply of gasoline within a week and close, unless a new source of gasoline is found.

Hubbard said he has bought gasoline from Crown Central Petroleum Corp. for more than 12 years, but less than two weeks ago the firm notified him it would supply no more gasoline after April 15.

"They've got gasoline but they're going to keep it to supply their big, elegant stations, as they put it," he said.

"We're still trying to find an additional source of supply from any place that we can," he said. "No major oil company will take you on now. They won't take on any new accounts."

Hubbard was in the same bind as Roy Pollard, president of "Save-X," an independent company in southwest Virginia. Pollard also put at least part of the blame on the major distributors.

Pollard, who closed all but two of his 16 stations last week, said, "We believe there is a shortage of gas, but we don't believe that the available supplies are being equitably distributed between the major oil companies and the independents."

Even some municipalities were faced with the prospect of shortages necessary for its civil functions.

For example, Detroit's gasoline contract with Standard, Gulf and Boron for its vehicles, which runs out at the end of this month, shows no immediate prospects of renewal.

The city in the past has asked for bids containing 12-month duration clauses and minimum stipulations.

This year, because of the lack of bids, city purchasing director Arthur Cope said the minimum and duration requirements have been dropped.

"At this point, we'll accept offers of almost any quantity over any period of time,' he said.

A spot check showed that some middlemen and oil companies are introducing rationing to independent distributors.

Robert Atkins of the Bargeway Oil Co., in Glen Ellyn, a suburb of Chicago, said his company had to stop selling gasoline to nine independent stations and had closed down one of its own.

Another jobber said major-brand outlets were now getting about the same monthly amount of gasoline they received last year but had no assurance there would be deliveries beyond April.

Novato Driver Critical From Two-Car Crash

A 33-year-old Novato man was reported in critical condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco with injuries suffered in a two-car accident yesterday in San Rafael.

Robert N. Grunigen of 140 Lobo Vista, received facial cuts, possible lung puncture and internal injuries, the hospital reported.

According to police, Grunigen was southbound on Front Street about 5:45 p.m., when an eastbound car on Hoag Street, hit the Grunigen car broadsides. Driver of the other car, William Peter Ashton, 16, of 7 Mariner Drive, Corte Madera, was unhurt, police reported.

Permit Granted For Tennis Club

A use permit for two new tennis courts has been granted the Belvedere Tennis Club by the Tiburon Board of Adjustments.

Development administrator Phil V. Scott said the two new courts will be built parallel to the city's Richardson Bay Pathway south of the five existing courts.

Approval was granted on the condition that the club install no more lights for night play, Scott said.

Also approved were two variances — one to allow a three-story duplex at 11 Linda Vista Avenue, where the zoning ordinance allows only two-and-one-half stories; and the other to allow a deck at 1811 Mar West Street to encroach on the front-yard and sideyard setbacks.

THIS BEAUTY ISN'T SKIN DEEP
The man who built this home was fussy — you can tell by the handsome exterior and landscaping. (Herman Hein), he was fussy about interior details too, for example, the 4 bdrms., 2½ baths and family room are beautifully decorated and "white glove" clean. There's a separate large studio or rumpus room, beautiful picture windows thruout. Quality carpeting, lovely paneling and colonial style kitchen with natural birch cabinets. Available for inspection. ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, April 18, the 108th day of 1973 with 257 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

Symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski was born April 18, 1882.

On this day in history:

In 1775, American patriot Paul Revere began his famed ride through ty Massachusetts countryside calling out. . . "The British are coming!"

In 1906, the San Francisco earthquake began. When it was over three days later, almost 500 persons were dead and more than a quarter of a million were left homeless.

In 1942, Lt. Col. James Doolittle and a squadron of 16 B25s bombed Japan for the first time in World War II.

In 1964, 17 servicemen were killed when two troop planes collided over Ohio.

A thought for the day: British statesman John Selden said, "They that govern the most make the least noise."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizzinesss, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Jail Term Given On Drug Count

A 24-year-old San Francisco man has been jailed for five months by a Marin Superior Court judge for possessing marijuana and heroin in 1971.

Judge David Menary Jr. ordered the jail term and three years probation for Dana William Hope, although Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino held out Monday for nine months in lockup.

The judge had promised Hope no more than six months in jail when he pleaded guilty last month.

Arrested in a Sausalito raid in 1971, he was missing 18 months before being arrested in San Francisco last December on a warrant issued when he did not appear in court.

Hope is also wanted in San Francisco on a burglary charge and in Wisconsin for violating probation.

He told his probation officer he has used LSD more than 1,000 times in six years and tried heroin and cocaine in 1971 and 1972, but has since given up drugs because they are a "death trip."

Salt Lake City, Utah, has been called the "Center of the Mormon World," the "Crossroads of the West" and the "Center of Scenic America."

Sentencing Delayed In Co-Op Robbery

Sentencing of Claudia Vonetta Grayson, 20, of Oakland for her part in the robbery at the Co-Op Market in Corte Market last year was delayed yesterday until May 11 to allow for a psychological report on her.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ordered the delay when Miss Grayson's attorney, Edward Bell, said the report he wants to present cannot be completed until then.

Three others involved in the robbery — reportedly committed to bail out the financially ailing Marin City Learning Center — were sentenced Friday to one-year-to-life in state prison.

They were John Turner, 27, of Marin City and Stephanie Catherine Kline and Candice Yockey, both 26 and from San Francisco. The judge had allowed them to plead guilty to second degree burglary instead of the first degree burglary charge filed by the district attorney.

The original charge carried a sentence of five years to life, but McGuire said the average second degree robber serves 40 months, eleven fewer than the first degree robber.

Police were alerted to the holdup Dec. 31 by a silent alarm in the store safe and arrived before the four could escape with $2,700, which they took from the safe after forcing the assistant store manager to open it. All were arrested after Miss Grayson, the lookout, exchanged shots with a Corte Madera officer. Neither was hit.

Two Hijacking Fines Leveled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has fined two airlines for failing to prevent hijackings.

The FAA said Tuesday it had fined Southern Airlines $1,500 for failing to screen hijackers who took over a jetliner at Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 10 last year. The hijackers collected $2.5 million in ransom money and fled to Cuba.

Piedmont Airlines was fined $500 for failing to prevent a passenger from carrying a gun aboard an airliner in Washington, D.C. The hijacker later agreed to surrender to police at Friendship Airport in Maryland.

Man Accused Of Falsely Taking Money

A preliminary hearing for a 36-year-old Port Costa man on a felony charge of obtaining $2,000 from a Belvedere man under false pretenses has been set for May 15 in Marin Municipal Court.

Frank Pickell Jr. was arrested March 26 by Belvedere police after Ralph L. Stephenson of 101 West Shore Road said he became suspicious after giving Pickell the money to invest in Southern California property.

Neither Pickell nor a third man said to have been involved in the venture was a real estate man so Stephenson called police, according to Chief John W. Jaeger.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, April 18, the 108th day of 1973 with 257 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

Symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski was born April 18, 1882.

On this day in history:

In 1775, American patriot Paul Revere began his famed ride through ty Massachusetts countryside calling out. . . "The British are coming!"

In 1906, the San Francisco earthquake began. When it was over three days later, almost 500 persons were dead and more than a quarter of a million were left homeless.

In 1942, Lt. Col. James Doolittle and a squadron of 16 B25s bombed Japan for the first time in World War II.

In 1964, 17 servicemen were killed when two troop planes collided over Ohio.

A thought for the day: British statesman John Selden said, "They that govern the most make the least noise."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizzinesss, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Jail Term Given On Drug Count

A 24-year-old San Francisco man has been jailed for five months by a Marin Superior Court judge for possessing marijuana and heroin in 1971.

Judge David Menary Jr. ordered the jail term and three years probation for Dana William Hope, although Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino held out Monday for nine months in lockup.

The judge had promised Hope no more than six months in jail when he pleaded guilty last month.

Arrested in a Sausalito raid in 1971, he was missing 18 months before being arrested in San Francisco last December on a warrant issued when he did not appear in court.

Hope is also wanted in San Francisco on a burglary charge and in Wisconsin for violating probation.

He told his probation officer he has used LSD more than 1,000 times in six years and tried heroin and cocaine in 1971 and 1972, but has since given up drugs because they are a "death trip."

Salt Lake City, Utah, has been called the "Center of the Mormon World," the "Crossroads of the West" and the "Center of Scenic America."

Sentencing Delayed In Co-Op Robbery

Sentencing of Claudia Vonetta Grayson, 20, of Oakland for her part in the robbery at the Co-Op Market in Corte Market last year was delayed yesterday until May 11 to allow for a psychological report on her.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ordered the delay when Miss Grayson's attorney, Edward Bell, said the report he wants to present cannot be completed until then.

Three others involved in the robbery — reportedly committed to bail out the financially ailing Marin City Learning Center — were sentenced Friday to one-year-to-life in state prison.

They were John Turner, 27, of Marin City and Stephanie Catherine Kline and Candice Yockey, both 26 and from San Francisco. The judge had allowed them to plead guilty to second degree burglary instead of the first degree burglary charge filed by the district attorney.

The original charge carried a sentence of five years to life, but McGuire said the average second degree robber serves 40 months, eleven fewer than the first degree robber.

Police were alerted to the holdup Dec. 31 by a silent alarm in the store safe and arrived before the four could escape with $2,700, which they took from the safe after forcing the assistant store manager to open it. All were arrested after Miss Grayson, the lookout, exchanged shots with a Corte Madera officer. Neither was hit.

Two Hijacking Fines Leveled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has fined two airlines for failing to prevent hijackings.

The FAA said Tuesday it had fined Southern Airlines $1,500 for failing to screen hijackers who took over a jetliner at Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 10 last year. The hijackers collected $2.5 million in ransom money and fled to Cuba.

Piedmont Airlines was fined $500 for failing to prevent a passenger from carrying a gun aboard an airliner in Washington, D.C. The hijacker later agreed to surrender to police at Friendship Airport in Maryland.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — John H. Poelker, for 16 years the city's controller, was sworn in Tuesday as the 40th mayor of St. Louis.

Man Accused Of Falsely Taking Money

A preliminary hearing for a 36-year-old Port Costa man on a felony charge of obtaining $2,000 from a Belvedere man under false pretenses has been set for May 15 in Marin Municipal Court.

Frank Pickell Jr. was arrested March 26 by Belvedere police after Ralph L. Stephenson of 101 West Shore Road said he became suspicious after giving Pickell the money to invest in Southern California property.

Neither Pickell nor a third man said to have been involved in the venture was a real estate man so Stephenson called police, according to Chief John W. Jaeger.

There's A Change At Las Gallinas

Mike Smith, owner of Las Gallinas Golf Course and Driving Range for the past year, is determined in his effort to have the best facility of its kind in the Bay Area.

Smith, a 33-year-old third generation Marinite, has spruced up the facilities at Las Gallinas with grass tees on the little course (holes ranging from 95 to 180 yards) and improved lighting on the range.

His latest move was to hire Jim Kardas, an accredited Professional Golfers Association (PGA) teacher, and to gain an accredited rating from the PGA for the golfing layout.

Kardas, 36, had been assistant pro the past three years at San Jose Municipal under Mike Rawitser, a former head pro at San Geronimo National. Kardas and veteran Joe Colfer, a teaching pro at Las Gallinas for 11 years, run the golf shop. Assisting them are Charles Overmeyer and Chuck LeFevre.

Kardas lives in Inverness and has cut off much time in his commute to work, since the daily trip to San Jose was taking him nearly two hours each way. That is putting considerable time behind the wheel of his car.

A graduate of Stanford, Kardas played golf on the Farm and another member of the golf team was a fellow who found he could make more money pitching footballs than hitting golf balls. That man, of course, was 49er quarterback John Brodie.

"Brodie didn't really spend too much time with the team at practice," said Kardas. "But he was the kind of athlete who could come off the football field and shoot a 70 or 71."

After his Stanford days, Kardas was hired as director of athletics at Robert Louis Stevenson School, a private school in Pebble Beach, and after three years in the classroom decided he wanted to become a golf pro. He was assistant pro for four years at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and after obtaining his PGA card in 1966 worked a short while at Presidio Army Golf Course in S.F. and then San Geronimo. He made the move to San Jose Muny with Rawitser three years ago.

Smith, a real estate broker with Fox and Carskadon Realtors, also is taking over a driving range on the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Petaluma and after some remodeling, wants to open shop in about a month from now.

"It's not in very good shape right now," said Smith. "We want to make it a similar operation to Las Gallinas. It will be a driving range and golf school."

Yes. Things are different out at Las Gallinas Golf Course and Driving Range.

THINGS ARE ALSO different at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael. Rob McQuade, 25, head pro there the past year, quit the other day because he wants to play tournament golf on one of the satellite circuits. Ed Armbruster is managing the pro shop and assistant manager Carol Young is in the process of hiring teaching pros.

Royals, Athletics Full Of Surprises

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals' fans keep turning out in large numbers, enjoying the new baseball stadium and checking to see if their team is for real.

The crowd of 22,119 at Royals Stadium Tuesday night watched a 14-inning, 5-4 victory over the world champion Oakland A's, who also are an early season surprise.

Kansas City, fourth in the American League West and 16½ games behind Oakland at the end of last season, is now first with a 9-2 record. The A's are 2-7 and last.

With lefthander Vida Blue on the mound, the A's blew a 3-1 lead in the seventh inning Tuesday night. The game was settled when Hal McRae singled to drive in Fred Patek, breaking a 4-4 tie after 3 hours, 52 minutes of play.

Horacio Pina, 0-1, the third Oakland pitcher, took the loss. The winner was reliever Gene Garber, 2-0, who gave up only two hits in 6⅓ innings.

Tonight, the A's will send Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 0-1, against the Royals' Dick Drago, 2-0, in the second game of the three-game series.

Blue was knocked out in the seventh, after allowing only four hits up to that point. He was charged with four runs in his second start of the season.

The A's had given him his lead with runs in the third, fourth and seventh innings.

Ray Fosse singled and Campy Campaneris doubled to produce the first run. Joe Rudi doubled and Sal Bando singled him in during the fourth inning. Gene Tenace doubled and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Billy Conigliaro in the seventh.

The A's tied the score at 4-4 in the eighth when Reggie Jackson singled and came around on Bando's double. Jackson had

Another Honor For Celtics' Heinsohn

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Heinsohn, weaned on greatness with the perennial Boston Celtic championship teams of the late 1950s and early 60s, has added another honor.

Heinsohn, whose Celtics posted the best record in the National Basketball Association last season, was rewarded Tuesday by being named Coach of the Year in balloting by writers covering the league.

Heinsohn received 29 votes from the 51-man panel, three writers from each of the league's 17 cities. Baltimore's Gene Shue was runnerup with 15 votes, followed by Milwaukee's Larry Costello and Atlanta's Cotton Fitzsimmons, who had two each. Red Holzman of New York, Dick Motta of Chicago and Bob Cousy of Kansas City-Omaha also received votes.

Tennis Victory

Mount Tamalpais School defeated Athenian School of Dublin, Contra Costa County, 4-1, in a tennis match yesterday at Dublin. Singles winners for Mount Tam were Eric Chilton, Preston Sargent and Greg Hartman, and doubles winners were John Way-Miles Albert.

West Is Still Mr. Clutch For Lakers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — When the Los Angeles Lakers get down to those final seconds, Jerry West is still their man.

West will be 35 next month and his off games come more often now, but his nickname of "Mr. Clutch" still applies. The 13-year pro from West Virginia had only six points after three quarters and was a dismal 2-for-15 from the floor.

West came through when the Lakers needed it, though, hitting a 15-foot jump shot from the side with eight seconds left as his club stormed from behind to nip the Golden State Warriors 101-99 in their opening NBA semifinal playoff game.

"This was the most tired I've ever felt in a basketball game," said West, who hit his last three shots from the floor and had 11 points in the final period. "I never felt so sluggish. I was just sloshing around out there."

The Lakers needed a thrilling comeback to beat the Chicago Bulls 95-92 in the seventh game of their opening playoff series Sunday night and they had to do the same thing against the Warriors.

"I felt I could get a pretty good shot off," continued West, who got a chance to win the game because of a Golden State turnover that gave the Lakers the ball with 28 seconds left.

"I just tried to run as much time off the clock as I could so they wouldn't be able to get a good shot off if I missed," he said.

Rick Barry was guilty of the first big Warrior turnover when he passed the ball out of bounds. With eight seconds remaining, Jim Barnett passed the ball inbounds but Bill Bridges of the Lakers intercepted.

"I don't know," croaked Laker Coach Bill Sharman. "How many times we can finish like that. It's getting hard on the nerves. I thought our team showed a lot of poise again. That's what I like about a veteran team. Poise and experience are the marks of a veteran team.

"We were physically and emotionally tired. To be that tired and come back to win should give us a great emotional lift."

Jim McMillian, who missed 16 straight shots and had only seven points in the finale against Chicago, came through with 37 points.

"I've always scored a lot of points against Golden State," said the third-year forward from Columbia. "I guess it's a psychological thing. You play a certain team you have done well against and you feel you can score a lot of points."

Nate Thurmond, the Warriors' 6-foot-11 center who helped eliminate Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Milwaukee Bucks in Golden State's first playoff series, had 22 points and Jeff Mullins added 21.

Thurmond outrebounded Wilt Chamberlain, his former teammate, 26-25 and the Warriors won the battle of the boards 62-57.

Los Angeles trailed 53-50 at halftime and was ahead only twice-at the end and at 54-53 with 55 seconds gone in the third quarter—in the second half.

With 7:05 to go, Golden State

GIANTS CLICKING AGAIN

Pitching Is Superb

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — When the San Francisco Giants broke training camp two weeks ago, everyone knew they had a hitting ball club.

But most observers were willing to overlook the Giants because of so-called spotty pitching.

Now, after the first 13 games of the 1973 season the Giants not only have shown the best hitting in the National League but have a team combined earned run pitching average of a little more than three.

Tuesday night in a doubleheader sweep of the Atlanta Braves 15-2 and 2-0 the Giants showed a lot of hitting and good, tight pitching.

Tom Bradley and Jim Barr combined to hold the Braves to only two runs while spacing 10 hits in the opener and in the nightcap. Ron Bryant, with help from young Randy Moffitt over the final 1 2-3 innings, added on a five-hit shutout.

"That's the kind of pitching we'll have to get all season to be contenders," said Manager Charlie Fox. "Up to this point I'd have to say I'm more pleased with our pitching than our hitting. But that's not to say our hitting isn't up. It is after the way we handled the Braves in the first game."

In that opener, the Giants bombed six Atlanta pitchers for 21 hits, the most by an N.L. team since the Cincinnati Reds got 23 against the Montreal Expos on June 29, 1971.

Ed Goodson, settling down at third base, and Chris Speier led the way with four hits each. Speier had two doubles and two singles and drove in four runs while all of Goodson's hits were singles, and he had two RBIs.

Tito Fuentes added a homer and double, while Willie McCovey and Dave Radar had a single and double.

Goodson added on two more singles in the nightcap to finish the long, cold night with hitting honors.

The Giants managed only six hits in the nightcap but bunched three of them in the second to score their first run and Bobby Bonds got the other in the third on his second homer of the year.

Bradley left after the fifth inning of the opener and went to St. Luke's Hospital for X-rays of his right ankle. He stopped a line drive by Ralph Garr in the third but didn't suffer any real damage. He might miss his next turn and get an extra day or two of rest.

"It's sore as it can be," said Bradley, who gained credit for

31 Golfers In Tourney Of Champs

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Thirty-one pro golfers are set to start Thursday in the $200,000 Tournament of Champions, the most exclusive event on the PGA tour.

Only pros who won tournaments designated by the PGA plus the British Open are eligible to play the La Costa Country Club course, a tough and long layout with sometimes high rough.

Last year only eight of 26 entrants broke par 288. The winning score was 280 as Bobby Mitchell and Jack Nicklaus tied at the end of 72 and Mitchell won the playoff for the title.

Last man to qualify this time was Homero Blancas who took the Monsanto Open at Pensacola, Fla., Sunday.

Arnold Palmer is back for the 18th time in this tournament which started in Las Vegas, Nev., 20 years ago.

Prep Sports Going Co-Educational Throughout State

Sports

Independent-Journal, 43
Wednesday, April 18, 1973

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Interscholastic Federation listened to a woman for 15 minutes and changed its mind, deciding to allow all high school sports teams to go co-educational.

"I feel pretty good," said attorney Ellen George after the CIF's Federated Council changed its rules in a special meeting here Tuesday.

"As far as CIF rules are concerned, girls can try out for any boy's teams," CIF Commissioner William W. Russell said of the change that goes into effect July 1.

Rules now provide for separate teams for girls and boys.

Mrs. George, associated with a San Francisco law firm, was allowed to speak to the council Tuesday "as both an individual and on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union."

She said, "I spoke for 15 or 20 minutes and just pointed out changes wrought by women's liberation and new legislation, such as the Civil Rights Act."

Federal legislation passed recently prohibits any sex discrimination in programs receiving federal aid, the attorney noted.

Several court suits have been filed in California the past year on behalf of girls who, challenging the CIF's separate-but-equal rule, wanted to compete on boys' teams.

Mrs. George, who worked with the ACLU on a volunteer basis, was preparing to file a suit on behalf of two San Francisco girls denied the opportunity of competing on their schools' swimming teams.

"That's been made moot now," she said of the case.

Five girls at York School in Monterey County have been competing on boys' tennis and golf teams this spring since a judge issued a temporary restraining order against the CIF.

"The new rule will provide an opportunity for girls to try out for the boys teams whether or not their school has a girl's sports team in that particular sport," Russell said.

But he added, "coaches will still make the decisions on who is most skilled and who should play. In the future, the coach may have to decide whether that's a boy or a girl."

Michigan and New York have made similar rules changes recently. Almost all California high schools are CIF members, including those in Marin and southern Sonoma counties.

Novato In Tourney Finals; Redwood Rebounds To Win

Novato High School slugged its way into the championship game of the sixth annual Santa Rosa Invitational Baseball Tournament yesterday, pounding 14 hits to drub Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 14-3.

The Hornets will play Ukiah for the title at 8:30 tonight at Doyle Park in Santa Rosa. Ukiah reached the finals by an entirely different route, riding Greg Alexander's three-hitter to a 1-0, eight-inning victory over St. Mary's of Stockton.

In the same tournament yesterday, Terra Linda and Petaluma were eliminated, losing 11-7 to Santa Rosa and 5-3 to Fortuna, respectively.

In other tournaments, Redwood sustained a 9-2 loss to Hoover of Fresno but rebounded to beat Roosevelt of Fresno, 8-3, in the Fresno tournament; and Tamalpais lost to Terra Nova of Pacifica, 12-4, in the Terra Nova Easter Tournament.

In non-tournament play, Marin Catholic defeated Wilson of San Francisco, 4-1, and lost to Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, 5-4.

Novato (12-4) started punching Montgomery from the opening bell, scoring 12 runs in the first three innings to give relief pitcher Kurt Mitchell an easy victory.

Dave Brazell went three for four with three runs batted in and four scored to lead the Hornets' romp. Dan Metzger also drove in three runs and Stan Conte knocked in two, while Conte and Jeff Rubino had two hits apiece.

Petaluma pitcher Rick Mossi committed an error in the top of the sixth inning to allow two unearned Fortuna runs to score in a four-run rally.

Terra Linda (7-12) carried a 7-3 lead into the seventh inning, but Santa Rosa scored four runs in the seventh and four more in the eighth to win. Three of the seventh-inning tallies came on a bases-loaded error by the left fielder, and three in the eight also were unearned. Steve Withers hit two triples for the Trojans.

Redwood (15-3) scored three runs off Roosevelt in the second inning and five more in the fourth to clinch the game. Mike Connor hit a two-run single to spark the earlier rally, and the big hit in the later uprising was a two-run single by winning pitcher Mark Ruggles.

In the Hoover game, star pitcher Gene Frey was shelled for seven runs in the three innings he worked.

Tamalpais (5-9) got a three-for-three performance from David Jones, one of the hits being a double, but it was not enough, as Terra Nova built up an 8-0 lead after five innings.

Marin Catholic's (7-10) Mike Haas and Tom Cronin combined for a three-hitter against Wilson. The Wildcats scored three times in the first inning on an RBI single by Rich Lopez and a throwing error by Wilson's shortstop, and got another run in the fourth as Rich Speidel walked and Tim Little tripled.

Cardinal Newman scored twice in the bottom of the seventh inning, the tying run coming on a controversial play. A Cardinal runner who had been forced out at home left the basepath and ran into catcher Speidel, who consequently threw wildly to first base trying to complete a double play, allowing another runner to score from second, 'Cat coach Dave Gonsalves said. The out at first base would have ended the inning and given Marin Catholic the victory. Gonsalves added he showed the umpire a cut Speidel received in the collision, but the umpire refused to change his decision.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

The Accessories Should Be Ready

Everywhere north of the tropics summer is all too short, and to get the maximum boating fun out of it, you've got to be prepared.

There's no fun in working on your boat or engine during the hot days of July and August. That's the time when everything should be running perfectly so that you can be on the water enjoying the boat.

However, I find that much summer time is lost because the accessories and gadgets have been neglected more than the boat or motor. Here are some questions which show what I mean:

Q. I've been using a length of rope as an anchor line for five years. How can I tell if it's still good?

A. Testing its breaking strength is a job for a laboratory machine. But a good rule of thumb is this: Untwist one of the strands so that you can see the fibers at the core. If they still have some of that yellowish, new appearance, there's still life in the rope. If they are a dead gray, like the outside, don't trust your life to it.

Q. The winch rope on my trailer kept breaking last year. Is it possible to replace it with steel wire?

A. It's possible, but the winch drum will have to be built up a little for the steel wire rope. It will not coil — as fiber rope will — over such a small drum without damage.

Q. The paddle I use is frayed at the tip of the blade (from pushing against docks, etc.). Any suggestions?

A. Dry the paddle thoroughly and fiberglass the tip — or the whole blade. It'll last forever.

Q. I'm taking my boat through the Erie canal this year. I'm told I'll need a great deal of rope. How much?

A. Take two lengths of half-inch manila rope, or the equivalent in nylon, at least 80 feet long. These are needed, one fore, one aft, when going through the big barge locks. Remember, the line has to reach from your deck, 50 feet up the side of the locks and back about 10 feet to a bollard.

Q. I have a big outboard, but I want to carry a small one for trolling. Will it be damaging to hang it over the transom off-center?

A. Not a bit. Place the large motor in the middle and hang the smaller one to one side. It will be out of the way when you are going fast when everything must be efficient. Being a bit off-center won't be noticeable for trolling, which is done at only 2 or 3 miles per hour.

Q. What is necessary for the boat trailer to be "fitted out?"

A. Just grease the wheel bearings and check the tires for cuts and bruises. In addition, be certain they are inflated properly. Remember, small trailer tires must be inflated to a much higher pressure than the car tires.

Q. Is there anything I can rig up before the season gets under way to carry my outboard in the car trunk?

A. The best and simplest solution is an inner tube, partially inflated. The motor won't slip off it, and all bumps are adequately cushioned.

Q. Is any special kind of bailer required by law?

A. Not at the moment, but the law may require one soon. However, every boat should carry one. Anything that is adequate will do — a big tin can, a plastic bottle with the bottom cut out, or any other large container. A good bailer can be built out of three-eighths-inch plywood. Make it about five inches square and 10 inches long. Glue and nail the pieces together and screw on a handle.

Q. Is it possible to make (at home) the flotation life-saving cushions that are so popular?

A. Yes. This is done by covering styrene or urethane foam material with fabric. However, these will not be considered as personal flotation devices if you are inspected by the Coast Guard or any other marine law enforcement authority. Only life preservers, vests, or cushions stamped with the Coast Guard approval are classified as life-saving devices. You must carry one "approved" device for each person aboard.

STANLEY CUP

Montreal, Chicago Win Playoff Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The path to the Stanley Cup championship round is fraught with all kinds of unexpected indignities for both the Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers.

Montreal, expected to sweep through to the final after completing a record-breaking regular season, found itself on the brink of calamity Tuesday night before overcoming a two-goal deficit to beat the Philadelphia Flyers, 4-3, in overtime.

Larry Robinson's goal at 6:45 of the extra session enabled the Canadiens to salvage one of the two games on their own ice and sent them to Philadelphia for the next two contests deadlocked at one game each.

The Rangers, though, after eliminating the defending Cup champion Boston Bruins in five games, fell to a 2-1 deficit in their semifinal against Chicago by dropping a 2-1 decision at New York Tuesday night. The Rangers swept the Black Hawks four straight in last year's semis and then won the opening game of this set at Chicago last week.

Action in both series resumes Thursday night with games at Philadelphia and New York.

led 91-82 and the Warriors were in front 99-95 with 2:33 remaining. But the Lakers came back to tie the score on a pair of jumpers by McMillian with 1:47 and 1:21 to go.

"There's no excuse for what happened in the last two and a half minutes," said Warrior Coach Al Attles. "We had them on the ropes and let them get away."

The Western Conference final series continues here Thursday night and then moves to Oakland for the third and fourth games on Saturday and Monday nights.

N.L. ROUNDUP

Jenkins Outduels Seaver

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

In a classic duel between two of the National League's premier pitchers, who would have thought an umpire could steal half the spotlight?

Nevertheless, Ferguson Jenkins' nifty two-hit 1-0 decision over Tom Seaver Wednesday afternoon was almost upstaged by plate umpire Augie Donatelli's controversial final out, foul tip call on the New York Mets' John Milner.

Jenkins, coasting along toward his first victory of the 1973 season for the Chicago Cubs with the aid of Rick Monday's fifth inning solo homer, wound up winning the game in a storm of controversy when Donatelli called Milner out on a foul tip-third strike after the Mets' first baseman thought he had drawn a walk. That brought Mets' Manager Yogi Berra racing out to the plate and a chorus of boos from the 14,549 fans who had heretofore been treated to a dandy of a pitching duel.

In other National League games Wednesday, Cincinnati blanked San Diego 3-0 for its fifth straight win, Philadelphia outslugged Montreal 9-6, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 4-3 in 14 innings, Los Angeles clubbed Houston 7-2 and San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Houston 15-2 and 2-0.

"I heard it hit the bat," Donatelli said after the game in explaining his delay in making a call. "I just wanted to be sure. I don't blame Yogi for arguing."

Other than the disputed final out, the only major difference between Jenkins and Seaver was Monday's homer, the Cub centerfielder's first of the season.

Joe Morgan slammed his third home run in two days, a two-run blast, to pace the streaking Reds to their fifth straight victory. The Reds, leading the National League West, also got a pitching bonus from Ross Grimsley, who scattered eight hits in blanking the Padres.

QUITE A WORKOUT

Playing Platform Tennis In Ross Man's Backyard

By RON LENT

One-half of the West Coast champion doubles team received a "stiff" test Saturday in platform tennis.

I was the stiff.

With partner Mason Fleming shouting encouragement, I readied for the serve of champion Al Seidel. Seidel's partner, Thomas Terry, completed this foursome in Ross.

When the orange, spongy ball bounced over the net, I swung and missed as it bounced off the wooden court and against the 12-foot high metal fence enclosing the court. Though feeling like a monkey in a cage, I endeavored to correctly use my perforated paddle-like racket and either hit the elusive ball or fan the soft breeze circulating around the backyard court of Terry's home.

Rea Smith, Seidel's championship partner, and Webster Otis were looking on from a table near a swimming pool when I inadvertantly returned the ball in play. Smith, Otis, Seidel, Terry and Fleming are among a handful of top notch platform tennis players residing in Ross.

They were assembled at the $8,000 court, one of about five private courts in Marin County, to sharpen their skills in a game akin to tennis. There are no public courts in Marin County. Tennis rules apply, but there are certain exceptions, namely: the ball rebounding off the fence can be returned, the game is played primarily on a wooden surface elevated on a platform, and there is no power serve.

Buoyed by the knowledge that the soft ball negates the booming serve and fosters lengthy volleys on the 30 by 60 court, about a third of the size of a tennis court, I continued playing with steadfast concentration but little success.

I drew a polite compliment from Seidel for my erratic serve and questionable backhand. They seemingly forgot that I deftly placed one ball over the fence.

During the half-hour of play, I found there is not much running in the doubles-oriented game. However, there was ample evidence that the game offers plenty of movement and a good workout, for four of us were perspiring freely when we finished our one set. The Seidel-Terry team prevailed, 6-4 as the victors played an easy, consistent game and allowed us to seal our own fate.

Seidel and Smith, who competed in the Short Hills Invitational Tournament held Jan. 27-28 in Short Hills, N.J., garnered the Northern California Platform Tennis Association championship Jan. 13 on Terry's court, five teams competing.

To promote the game, the pair explained that they were trying to organize a tourney in early October on the courts owned by Otis and Terry. Some 16 doubles teams will compete for the Seidel-Smith title. Platform tennis, which made its local debut two years ago, can be played the year-round and is a sport which puts men and women on equal playing terms.

Otis explained: "Strength is not necessarily a major asset, because you just can't serve the ball that hard. You've got to be coordinated and move around well and know how to play the ball off the fence."

Because the game, which began in Scarsdale, N.Y. in the 1920s, is not well known, the Marin players are trying to inform people about the game. Smith, in particular, is trying to entice youngsters to learn and play the game, but facilities are limited. "We open our courts to all our friends when we can," Smith added.

Smith is currently negotiating for a spot on top of an office building in downtown San Francisco to construct a court, further exposing the game to a big audience in S.F.

It is the Marin players' hope that this tennis-like game for people of all ages will gain the popularity they feel it richly deserves.

Platform tennis, anyone?

Ex-Brave Helps Orioles Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Earl Williams' Baltimore Oriole teammates made it plain how they felt about the ex-Atlanta catcher Tuesday night when he crossed the plate after hitting his first home run as an American Leaguer.

"Big Money," was the greeting they gave Williams after his two-run homer in the eighth inning lifted the Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees. "Big Money."

"I know what they meant," grinned Manager Earl Weaver. "They meant that 20-grand in October—the kind they've been collecting in recent Octobers but missed last year. That's what this game is all about."

Weaver had good reason to gloat because it was he who issued a challenge to the Baltimore front office after the Orioles, who had won four AL pennants in six years, finished third in the AL Eastern Division last season.

"Get me Earl Williams," Weaver told the front office, "and I'll get you a pennant."

The Baltimore front office responded by getting Williams from the Braves in a controversial trade which sent Dave Johnson, Johnny Oates, Pat Dobson and Roric Harrison to Atlanta. Many AL experts thought the Orioles might have given up too much to acquire the power Williams figured to add to their lineup.

The Kansas City Royals beat the Oakland A's 5-4 in 14 innings, the Cleveland Indians downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-3, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Texas Rangers 10- 5, the Detroit Tigers topped the Boston Red Sox 6-3, and the Minnesota Twins whipped the California Angels 10-5 in the other AL games.

Williams, who started Tuesday night's game with a .185 batting average, delivered his game-winning hit off reliever Sparky Lyle with Bobby Grich on base after Boog Powell's sacrifice fly tied the score at 2-2. Dave McNally pitched a four-hitter to win his third straight game for the Orioles.

Gets 300th Win

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Coach Hank Anderson of Montana State recently achieved his 300th basketball victory. He has high hopes for his Bobcats in the Big Sky title race.

Softball Results

Joe Nystrom pitched a one-hitter last night at Albert Field as the Suburban Auto Pistons won a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league game from Kruger's, 6-0. In the other game, the North State Braves took a 4-1 win over the Suburban Auto Blues.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Charles Pasarell ended Stan Smith's record-breaking sequence of 20 straight singles victories Tuesday night by beating him, 6-2, 6-2, in the first round of the $50,000 Clows Classic tennis tournament.

Bob Lutz of Sausalito beat Frew McMillan of South Africa, 6-7, 7-5, 6-1, in another match.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Ken Rosewall, playing in his usual confident and smooth style, proved his right to top seed honors Tuesday, handily taking Premjit Lall of India, 6-3, 6-1 in the opening round of the North Carolina National Bank Tennis Classic.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — Vic Aldridge, 79, a 16-year pitching veteran of the National League, died Tuesday in a Terre Haute hospital. Aldridge, who retired from baseball in 1931 to become a lawyer and later served 12 years in the Indiana Senate, won two games of the 1925 World Series for the Pittsburgh Pirates against the Washington Senators.

his second victory in three decisions. "I'm glad it's not serious but the ankle does hurt a lot."

Bradley gave up six hits and one run in his five innings but when he left the Giants were in front 9-1. Barr gave up four hits and a run the rest of the way to pick up his second save.

All of Atlanta's second game hits were off Bryant, who got a little tired in the eighth and walked three batters. A double-play in between the walks help get him out of trouble.

Sam McDowell was scheduled to pitch for the Giants in the series finale today.

For Goodson, it was his best night in the big leagues although he once got seven hits during a doubleheader in the Class A California League.

"The difference," said Goodson, "is that I have my confidence now that I'm playing every day. It's tough to hit in the majors when you are a part-time player. Coming to the park every day knowing I'm going to play has relaxed me, and you have to be relaxed to do your best."

There's A Change At Las Gallinas

Mike Smith, owner of Las Gallinas Golf Course and Driving Range for the past year, is determined in his effort to have the best facility of its kind in the Bay Area.

Smith, a 33-year-old third generation Marinite, has spruced up the facilities at Las Gallinas with grass tees on the little course (holes ranging from 95 to 180 yards) and improved lighting on the range.

His latest move was to hire Jim Kardas, an accredited Professional Golfers Association (PGA) teacher, and to gain an accredited rating from the PGA for the golfing layout.

Kardas, 36, had been assistant pro the past three years at San Jose Municipal under Mike Rawitser, a former head pro at San Geronimo National. Kardas and veteran Joe Colfer, a teaching pro at Las Gallinas for 11 years, run the golf shop. Assisting them are Charles Overmeyer and Chuck LeFevre.

Kardas lives in Inverness and has cut off much time in his commute to work, since the daily trip to San Jose was taking him nearly two hours each way. That is putting considerable time behind the wheel of his car.

A graduate of Stanford, Kardas played golf on the Farm and another member of the golf team was a fellow who found he could make more money pitching footballs than hitting golf balls. That man, of course, was 49er quarterback John Brodie.

"Brodie didn't really spend too much time with the team at practice," said Kardas. "But he was the kind of athlete who could come off the football field and shoot a 70 or 71."

After his Stanford days, Kardas was hired as director of athletics at Robert Louis Stevenson School, a private school in Pebble Beach, and after three years in the classroom decided he wanted to become a golf pro. He was assistant pro for four years at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and after obtaining his PGA card in 1966 worked a short while at Presidio Army Golf Course in S.F. and then San Geronimo. He made the move to San Jose Muny with Rawitser three years ago.

Smith, a real estate broker with Fox and Carskadon Realtors, also is taking over a driving range on the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Petaluma and after some remodeling, wants to open shop in about a month from now.

"It's not in very good shape right now," said Smith. "We want to make it a similar operation to Las Gallinas. It will be a driving range and golf school."

Yes. Things are different out at Las Gallinas Golf Course and Driving Range.

THINGS ARE ALSO different at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael. Rob McQuade, 25, head pro there the past year, quit the other day because he wants to play tournament golf on one of the satellite circuits. Ed Armbruster is managing the pro shop and assistant manager Carol Young is in the process of hiring teaching pros.

West Is Still Mr. Clutch For Lakers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — When the Los Angeles Lakers get down to those final seconds, Jerry West is still their man.

West will be 35 next month and his off games come more often now, but his nickname of "Mr. Clutch" still applies. The 13-year pro from West Virginia had only six points after three quarters and was a dismal 2-for-15 from the floor.

West came through when the Lakers needed it, though, hitting a 15-foot jump shot from the side with eight seconds left as his club stormed from behind to nip the Golden State Warriors 101-99 in their opening NBA semifinal playoff game.

"This was the most tired I've ever felt in a basketball game," said West, who hit his last three shots from the floor and had 11 points in the final period. "I never felt so sluggish. I was just sloshing around out there."

The Lakers needed a thrilling comeback to beat the Chicago Bulls 95-92 in the seventh game of their opening playoff series Sunday night and they had to do the same thing against the Warriors.

"I felt I could get a pretty good shot off," continued West, who got a chance to win the game because of a Golden State turnover that gave the Lakers the ball with 28 seconds left.

"I just tried to run as much time off the clock as I could so they wouldn't be able to get a good shot off if I missed," he said.

Rick Barry was guilty of the first big Warrior turnover when he passed the ball out of bounds. With eight seconds remaining, Jim Barnett passed the ball inbounds but Bill Bridges of the Lakers intercepted.

"I don't know," croaked Laker Coach Bill Sharman. "How many times we can finish like that. It's getting hard on the nerves. I thought our team showed a lot of poise again. That's what I like about a veteran team. Poise and experience are the marks of a veteran team.

"We were physically and emotionally tired. To be that tired and come back to win should give us a great emotional lift."

Jim McMillian, who missed 16 straight shots and had only seven points in the finale against Chicago, came through with 37 points.

"I've always scored a lot of points against Golden State," said the third-year forward from Columbia. "I guess it's a psychological thing. You play a certain team you have done well against and you feel you can score a lot of points."

Nate Thurmond, the Warriors' 6-foot-11 center who helped eliminate Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Milwaukee Bucks in Golden State's first playoff series, had 22 points and Jeff Mullins added 21.

Thurmond outrebounded Wilt Chamberlain, his former teammate, 26-25 and the Warriors won the battle of the boards 62-57.

Los Angeles trailed 53-50 at halftime and was ahead only twice-at the end and at 54-53 with 55 seconds gone in the third quarter—in the second half.

Prep Sports Going Co-Educational Throughout State

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Interscholastic Federation listened to a woman for 15 minutes and changed its mind, deciding to allow all high school sports teams to go coeducational.

"I feel pretty good," said attorney Ellen George after the CIF's Federated Council changed its rules in a special meeting here Tuesday.

"As far as CIF rules are concerned, girls can try out for any boy's teams," CIF Commissioner William W. Russell said of the change that goes into effect July 1.

Rules now provide for separate teams for girls and boys.

Mrs. George, associated with a San Francisco law firm, was allowed to speak to the council Tuesday "as both an individual and on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union."

She said, "I spoke for 15 or 20 minutes and just pointed out changes wrought by women's liberation and new legislation, such as the Civil Rights Act."

Federal legislation passed recently prohibits any sex discrimination in programs receiving federal aid, the attorney noted.

Several court suits have been filed in California the past year on behalf of girls who, challenging the CIF's separate-but-equal rule, wanted to compete on boys' teams.

Mrs. George, who worked with the ACLU on a volunteer basis, was preparing to file a suit on behalf of two San Francisco girls denied the opportunity of competing on their schools' swimming teams.

"That's been made moot now," she said of the case.

Five girls at York School in Monterey County have been competing on boys' tennis and golf teams this spring since a judge issued a temporary restraining order against the CIF.

"The new rule will provide an opportunity for girls to try out for the boys teams whether or not their school has a girl's sports team in that particular sport," Russell said.

But he added, "coaches will still make the decisions on who is most skilled and who should play. In the future, the coach may have to decide whether that's a boy or a girl."

Michigan and New York have made similar rules changes recently. Almost all California high schools are CIF members, including those in Marin and southern Sonoma counties.

Royals, Athletics Full Of Surprises

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals' fans keep turning out in large numbers, enjoying the new baseball stadium and checking to see if their team is for real.

The crowd of 22,119 at Royals Stadium Tuesday night watched a 14-inning, 5-4 victory over the world champion Oakland A's, who also are an early season surprise.

Kansas City, fourth in the American League West and 16½ games behind Oakland at the end of last season, is now first with a 9-2 record. The A's are 2-7 and last.

With lefthander Vida Blue on the mound, the A's blew a 3-1 lead in the seventh inning Tuesday night. The game was settled when Hal McRae singled to drive in Fred Patek, breaking a 4-4 tie after 3 hours, 52 minutes of play.

Horacio Pina, 0-1, the third Oakland pitcher, took the loss. The winner was reliever Gene Garber, 2-0, who gave up only two hits in 6⅓ innings.

Tonight, the A's will send Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 0-1, against the Royals' Dick Drago, 2-0, in the second game of the three-game series.

Blue was knocked out in the seventh, after allowing only four hits up to that point. He was charged with four runs in his second start of the season.

The A's had given him his lead with runs in the third, fourth and seventh innings.

Ray Fosse singled and Campy Campaneris doubled to produce the first run. Joe Rudi doubled and Sal Bando singled him in during the fourth inning. Gene Tenace doubled and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Billy Conigliaro in the seventh.

The A's tied the score at 4-4 in the eighth when Reggie Jackson singled and came around on Bando's double. Jackson had

Another Honor For Celtics' Heinsohn

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Heinsohn, weaned on greatness with the perennial Boston Celtic championship teams of the late 1950s and early 60s, has added another honor.

Heinsohn, whose Celtics posted the best record in the National Basketball Association last season, was rewarded Tuesday by being named Coach of the Year in balloting by writers covering the league.

Heinsohn received 29 votes from the 51-man panel, three writers from each of the league's 17 cities. Baltimore's Gene Shue was runnerup with 15 votes, followed by Milwaukee's Larry Costello and Atlanta's Cotton Fitzsimmons, who had two each. Red Holzman of New York, Dick Motta of Chicago and Bob Cousy of Kansas City-Omaha also received votes.

GIANTS CLICKING AGAIN

Pitching Is Superb

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — When the San Francisco Giants broke training camp two weeks ago, everyone knew they had a hitting ball club.

But most observers were willing to overlook the Giants because of so-called spotty pitching.

Now, after the first 13 games of the 1973 season the Giants not only have shown the best hitting in the National League but have a team combined earned run pitching average of a little more than three.

Tuesday night in a doubleheader sweep of the Atlanta Braves 15-2 and 2-0 the Giants showed a lot of hitting and good, tight pitching.

Tom Bradley and Jim Barr combined to hold the Braves to only two runs while spacing 10 hits in the opener and in the nightcap. Ron Bryant, with help from young Randy Moffitt over the final 1 2-3 innings, added on a five-hit shutout.

"That's the kind of pitching we'll have to get all season to be contenders," said Manager Charlie Fox. "Up to this point I'd have to say I'm more pleased with our pitching than our hitting. But that's not to say our hitting isn't up. It is after the way we handled the Braves in the first game."

In that opener, the Giants bombed six Atlanta pitchers for 21 hits, the most by an N.L. team since the Cincinnati Reds got 23 against the Montreal Expos on June 29, 1971.

Ed Goodson, settling down at third base, and Chris Speier led the way with four hits each. Speier had two doubles and two singles and drove in four runs while all of Goodson's hits were singles, and he had two RBIs.

Tito Fuentes added a homer and double, while Willie McCovey and Dave Radar had a single and double.

Goodson added on two more singles in the nightcap to finish the long, cold night with hitting honors.

The Giants managed only six hits in the nightcap but bunched three of them in the second to score their first run and Bobby Bonds got the other in the third on his second homer of the year.

Bradley left after the fifth inning of the opener and went to St. Luke's Hospital for X-rays of his right ankle. He stopped a line drive by Ralph Garr in the third but didn't suffer any real damage. He might miss his next turn and get an extra day or two of rest.

"It's sore as it can be," said Bradley, who gained credit for

31 Golfers In Tourney Of Champs

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Thirty-one pro golfers are set to start Thursday in the $200,000 Tournament of Champions, the most exclusive event on the PGA tour.

Only pros who won tournaments designated by the PGA plus the British Open are eligible to play the La Costa Country Club course, a tough and long layout with sometimes high rough.

Last year only eight of 26 entrants broke par 288. The winning score was 280 as Bobby Mitchell and Jack Nicklaus tied at the end of 72 and Mitchell won the playoff for the title.

Last man to qualify this time was Homero Blancas who took the Monsanto Open at Pensacola, Fla., Sunday.

Arnold Palmer is back for the 18th time in this tournament which started in Las Vegas, Nev., 20 years ago.

Novato In Tourney Finals; Redwood Rebounds To Win

Novato High School slugged its way into the championship game of the sixth annual Santa Rosa Invitational Baseball Tournament yesterday, pounding 14 hits to drub Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 14-3.

The Hornets will play Ukiah for the title at 8:30 tonight at Doyle Park in Santa Rosa. Ukiah reached the finals by an entirely different route, riding Greg Alexander's three-hitter to a 1-0, eight-inning victory over St. Mary's of Stockton.

In the same tournament yesterday, Terra Linda and Petaluma were eliminated, losing 11-7 to Santa Rosa and 5-3 to Fortuna, respectively.

In other tournaments, Redwood sustained a 9-2 loss to Hoover of Fresno but rebounded to beat Roosevelt of Fresno, 8-3, in the Fresno tournament; and Tamalpais lost to Terra Nova of Pacifica, 12-4, in the Terra Nova Easter Tournament.

In non-tournament play, Marin Catholic defeated Wilson of San Francisco, 4-1, and lost to Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, 5-4.

Novato (12-4) started punching Montgomery from the opening bell, scoring 12 runs in the first three innings to give relief pitcher Kurt Mitchell an easy victory.

Dave Brazell went three for four with three runs batted in and four scored to lead the Hornets' romp. Dan Metzger also drove in three runs and Stan Conte knocked in two, while Conte and Jeff Rubino had two hits apiece.

Petaluma pitcher Rick Mossi committed an error in the top of the sixth inning to allow two unearned Fortuna runs to score in a four-run rally.

Terra Linda (7-12) carried a 7-3 lead into the seventh inning, but Santa Rosa scored four runs in the seventh and four more in the eighth to win. Three of the seventh-inning tallies came on a bases-loaded error by the left fielder, and three in the eight also were unearned. Steve Withers hit two triples for the Trojans.

Redwood (15-3) scored three runs off Roosevelt in the second inning and five more in the fourth to clinch the game. Mike Connor hit a two-run single to spark the earlier rally, and the big hit in the later uprising was a two-run single by winning pitcher Mark Ruggles.

In the Hoover game, star pitcher Gene Frey was shelled for seven runs in the three innings he worked.

Tamalpais (5-9) got a three-for-three performance from David Jones, one of the hits being a double, but it was not enough, as Terra Nova built up an 8-0 lead after five innings.

Marin Catholic's (7-10) Mike Haas and Tom Cronin combined for a three-hitter against Wilson. The Wildcats scored three times in the first inning on an RBI single by Rich Lopez and a throwing error by Wilson's shortstop, and got another run in the fourth as Rich Speidel walked and Tim Little tripled.

Cardinal Newman scored twice in the bottom of the seventh inning, the tying run coming on a controversial play. A Cardinal runner who had been forced out at home left the basepath and ran into catcher Speidel, who consequently threw wildly to first base trying to complete a double play, allowing another runner to score from second, 'Cat coach Dave Gonsalves said. The out at first base would have ended the inning and given Marin Catholic the victory. Gonsalves added he showed the umpire a cut Speidel received in the collision, but the umpire refused to change his decision.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Central Securities Market Discussed

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you comment on the proposed central securities market? What effect would such a stock exchange have on the individual investor? — A.G.

A. The Securities and Exchange Commission has recently released a "white paper" giving details of a proposed central securities market. Adoption of the plan, either in toto or in part, will be contingent upon the outcome of public hearings to be held following the formal release of the proposed plan. Competitive price differences between the exchanges and the various other markets would be eliminated by their inclusion under a new regulatory body and a national communication system.

The changes being suggested involve specialists, the third market and block positioners. However, considerable industry opposition is expected in these areas. As for the small investor, whose numbers have been dwindling, this plan would give them more equal footing with institutions. In 1972 the number of individual shareholders declined 2½ per cent or 800,000 according to estimates published by the New York Stock Exchange.

The importance of the individual investor in providing liquidity and continuity in the marketplace is obviously being recognized by the industry and the SEC as witness several of its proposals. For instance, a block positioner, who currently matches institutional buy and sell orders, would be required to open a block and fill any existing individual limit orders which fell within a block's trading range unless the market was at that price level.

Thus the small investor would have the same competitive edge that an institution now enjoys. Executions by third market dealers who negotiate over-the-counter transactions in listed issues would be subject to the same rule. In other words individuals would be able to participate in the discounts and premiums over trading levels that are now available only to the large buyers.

Other proposals set forth in the SEC plan would require third market dealers to accept the same responsibilities that exchange specialists now assume. Regional exchanges would also be asked to upgrade their requirements for specialists.

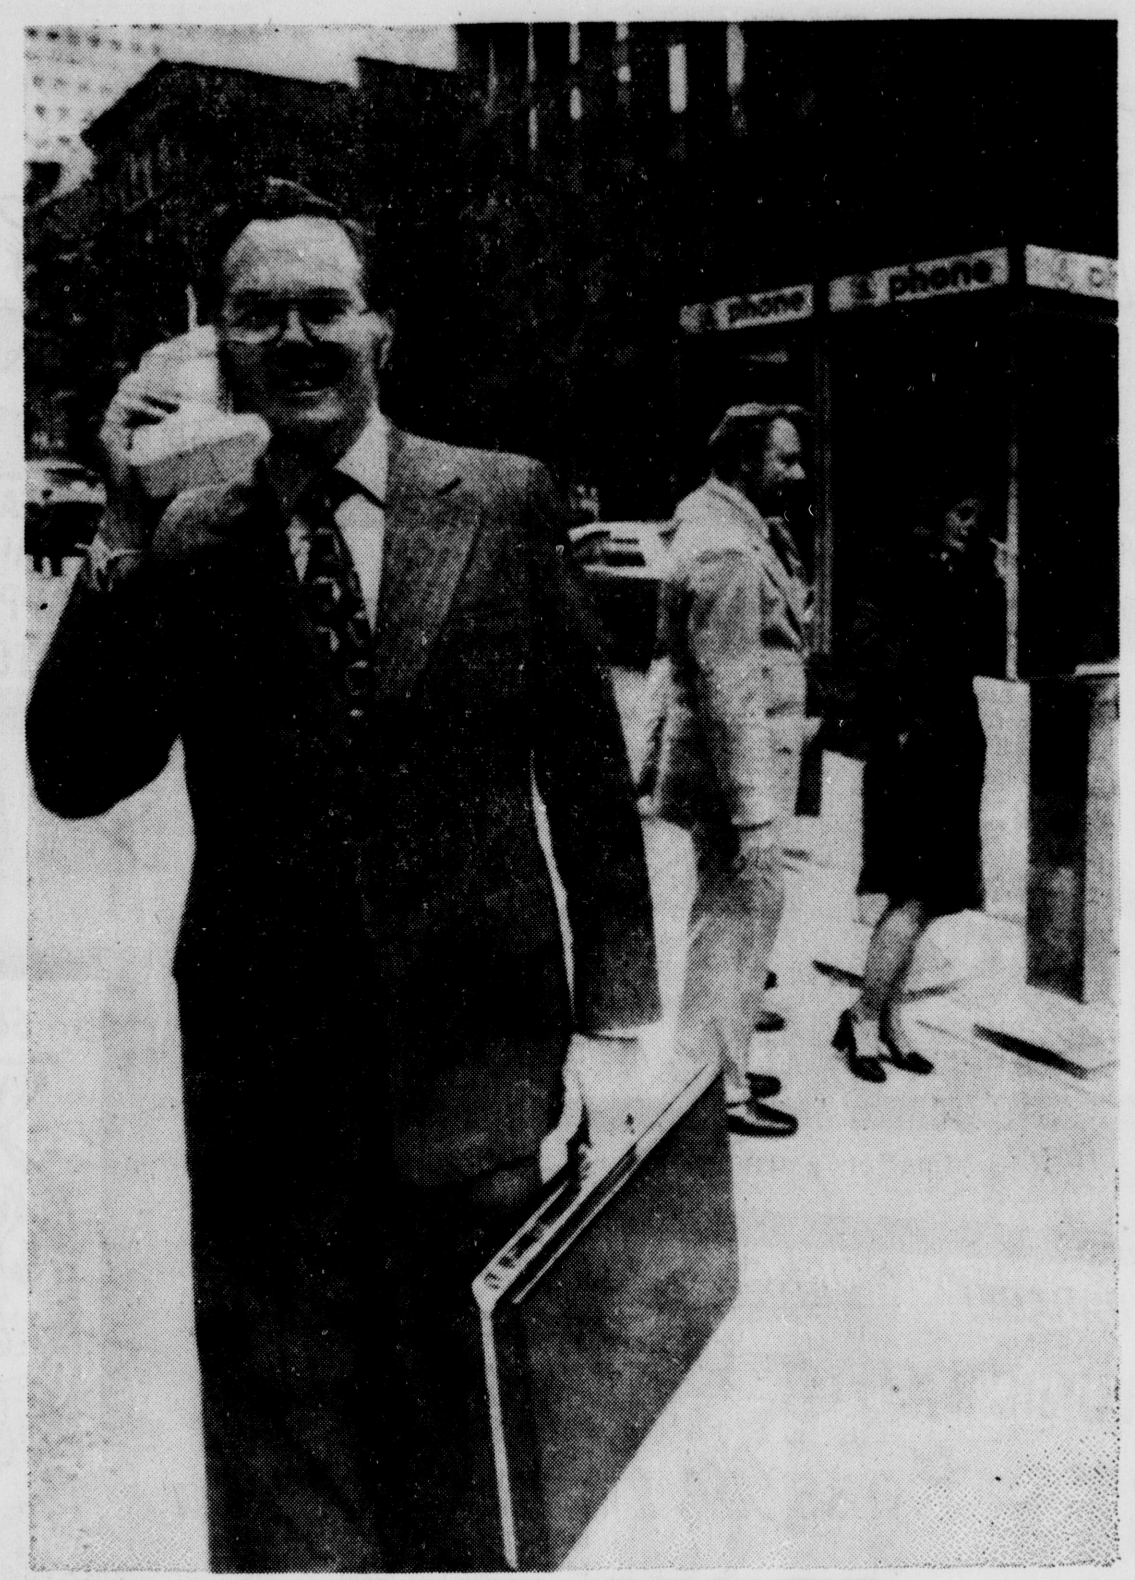
Market On Rebound In Late Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices turned mixed near the close today in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Prices recovered some from early lows, but there was no news to account for the move.

According to Tom Wilson of Standard & Poor's, the market was suffering from neglect. "It is concerned with uncertainty regarding the question of economic controls and with congress about to recess, uncertainty exists about the future of controls," Wilson said.

Trading on the American Stock Exchange was lower in moderate trading.

Boise Cascade was higher. The company reported sharply higher first quarter earnings of 52 cents a share compared to 8 cents a share a year ago.



JUST CARRY YOUR PHONE

Motorola vice president John F. Mitchell shows how easily the company's newest production — Dyna TAC Portable Radio Telephone System — can be used from the heart of a city. Motorola recently unveiled the portable telephone in New York and said it can be fully operative in the city by 1976. It will enable a user to call from virtually anywhere in the metropolitan area to any other telephone in the world.

Loans Increase At Bankamerica

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bankamerica Corp. Monday reported an unprecedented 18 per cent increase in loans in announcing 1973 first quarter consolidated income of $47,375,000, or 69 cents a share.

President A.W. Clausen said that loans rose by $3,160,454,000 to $20,677,659,000, reflecting strong credit demand in both consumer and business sectors that appeared to be continuing in April.

Consolidated income, up 13.1 per cent, compared with $41,847,000 or 61 cents a share, for the same period a year ago.

Coast Exchanges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, organized in 1957 through the merger of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Stock Exchange, is the largest outside New York, based on share value.

Herb's Pool Service Plans To Double Size At Present Location

Herb's Pool Service, at 3765 Redwood Highway across from the Marin County Civic Center, plans to double its size in a new building adjacent to its present location.

Herb Dougan, owner of the pool service, said he will start building his new office and shop building as soon as he can get a sewer hookup permit from the Las Gallinas Sanitary District. The structure will be concrete tilt-up with modern exterior. It will be one-story at the outset, with a second story to be added later.

Herb's Pool Service has been operating in Marin for 15 years, the first three years on Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael and the last 12 years at the present location. It provides all service accessories for swimming pools except the actual construction.

When Herb's Pool Service moves into its new building, Booby's Restaurant will take over the present Herb's building, remodeling it for restaurant use. A new A & W Restaurant is going up at the old Booby's site at 3741 Redwood Highway.

THE ART FESTIVAL in downtown San Rafael will continue throughout this week, with more than 1,500 pieces of art on display in store windows. The Marin Society of Artists has on parade a variety of art work including ceramics, jewelry, weavings, sculpture, and paintings.

The annual Downtown Art Show is sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Merchants Association, and the Society of Artists.

REDWOOD BANCORP, parent company of Redwood Bank, has applied to the State Banking Department for permission to relocate the head office from San Rafael to a new office at 735 Montgomery Street near the Transamerica Pyramid Building in San Francisco.

The purpose of the change is to "strengthen the corporation's ties with the financial community centered in San Francisco," said W. J. Waksvik, secretary of the bank.

The corporation wants to move its San Francisco bank from 1810 Union Street to 735 Montgomery, where an old garage has been remodeled into a modern four-story building.

Relocation of the head office to Montgomery Street would not change the operations of the corporation's Redwood Banks in San Rafael, Napa, Vallejo and San Mateo.

STAN'S APPLIANCE Center in Novato, at Grant Avenue and Highway 101, has been taken over by Robert Durham as sole owner.

Stanley Orman, who owned the store for about 12 years, sold out to Durham, who has been his partner for the past six years.

Durham said he will continue to operate the business without change — same name and same policies. Stan's Appliance Center handles all major appliances, primarily Whirlpool and Amana brands.

HOEFER, DIETERICH and Brown Inc. of San Francisco, headed by John H. Hoefer of Belvedere, has been appointed to handle the advertising and merchandising programs for Nulaid Foods Inc., one of the largest marketers of eggs in California.

CAMPERING GUIDE — A free, eight-page pamphlet containing tips for both the novice and experienced recreational vehicle owner is being distributed by Dodge dealers.

"Guidelines to Safe and Carefree Campering" gives tips on the proper loading of a recreational vehicle, safe trailer and tow vehicle combinations, and even a section on RV lingo.

RALPH H. CLADER of San Rafael won a 20-year service award from the R. T. French Co. of Rochester, N.Y. Clader is a food service sales representative covering the San Francisco area.

HOME SAVINGS and Loan Association, with headquarters in Beverly Hills, is planning a new Tiburon branch office on Tiburon Boulevard just north of Safeway Store.

The present Tiburon branch is located at 10 Beach Road. The new structure, with 4,500 square feet of floor space, will be built on 32,000 square feet of land purchased by Home Savings.

U-CART CONCRETE, a new service to help the do-it-yourself homeowner, has been added at Marin Landscape Materials in Novato, corner of Highway 101 and Atherton Avenue.

Small amounts of ready mixed, wet concrete are available in little dumping trailers, which are attached to the customer's car. One-fourth yard to a full yard of concrete can be hauled to backyard jobs such as patios, walkways and curbs.

E. E. BULLARD Co. of Sausalito, manufacturers of industrial safety equipment, announced the appointment of two new regional sales managers. They are Stephen R. Whited of Barrington, Ill., covering the middle Atlantic States; and Stephen A. Straughan of Greensboro, N.C., covering the southeastern area.

K. L. (JIM) RICE Jr. of Tiburon will speak at the San Francisco Advertising Club luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Sheraton-Palace in San Francisco. He is vice president of account management for Hoefer, Dieterich & Brown advertising agency.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

The Accessories Should Be Ready

Everywhere north of the tropics summer is all too short, and to get the maximum boating fun out of it, you've got to be prepared.

There's no fun in working on your boat or engine during the hot days of July and August. That's the time when everything should be running perfectly so that you can be on the water enjoying the boat.

However, I find that much summer time is lost because the accessories and gadgets have been neglected more than the boat or motor. Here are some questions which show what I mean:

Q. I've been using a length of rope as an anchor line for five years. How can I tell if it's still good?

A. Testing its breaking strength is a job for a laboratory machine. But a good rule of thumb is this: Untwist one of the strands so that you can see the fibers at the core. If they still have some of that yellowish, new appearance, there's still life in the rope. If they are a dead gray, like the outside, don't trust your life to it.

Q. The winch rope on my trailer kept breaking last year. Is it possible to replace it with steel wire?

A. It's possible, but the winch drum will have to be built up a little for the steel wire rope. It will not coil — as fiber rope will — over such a small drum without damage.

Q. The paddle I use is frayed at the tip of the blade (from pushing against docks, etc.). Any suggestions?

A. Dry the paddle thoroughly and fiberglass the tip — or the whole blade. It'll last forever.

Q. I'm taking my boat through the Erie canal this year. I'm told I'll need a great deal of rope. How much?

A. Take two lengths of half-inch manila rope, or the equivalent in nylon, at least 80 feet long. These are needed, one fore, one aft, when going through the big barge locks. Remember, the line has to reach from your deck, 50 feet up the side of the locks and back about 10 feet to a bollard.

Q. I have a big outboard, but I want to carry a small one for trolling. Will it be damaging to hang it over the transom off-center?

A. Not a bit. Place the large motor in the middle and hang the smaller one to one side. It will be out of the way when you are going fast when everything must be efficient. Being a bit off-center won't be noticeable for trolling, which is done at only 2 or 3 miles per hour.

Q. What is necessary for the boat trailer to be "fitted out?"

A. Just grease the wheel bearings and check the tires for cuts and bruises. In addition, be certain they are inflated properly. Remember, small trailer tires must be inflated to a much higher pressure than the car tires.

Q. Is there anything I can rig up before the season gets under way to carry my outboard in the car trunk?

A. The best and simplest solution is an inner tube, partially inflated. The motor won't slip off it, and all bumps are adequately cushioned.

Q. Is any special kind of bailer required by law?

A. Not at the moment, but the law may require one soon. However, every boat should carry one. Anything that is adequate will do — a big tin can, a plastic bottle with the bottom cut out, or any other large container. A good bailer can be built out of three-eighths-inch plywood. Make it about five inches square and 10 inches long. Glue and nail the pieces together and screw on a handle.

Q. Is it possible to make (at home) the flotation life-saving cushions that are so popular?

A. Yes. This is done by covering styrene or urethane foam material with fabric. However, these will not be considered as personal flotation devices if you are inspected by the Coast Guard or any other marine law enforcement authority. Only life preservers, vests, or cushions stamped with the Coast Guard approval are classified as life-saving devices. You must carry one "approved" device for each person aboard.

STANLEY CUP

Montreal, Chicago Win Playoff Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The path to the Stanley Cup championship round is fraught with all kinds of unexpected indignities for both the Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers.

Montreal, expected to sweep through to the final after completing a record-breaking regular season, found itself on the brink of calamity Tuesday night before overcoming a two-goal deficit to beat the Philadelphia Flyers, 4-3, in overtime.

Larry Robinson's goal at 6:45 of the extra session enabled the Canadiens to salvage one of the two games on their own ice and sent them to Philadelphia for the next two contests deadlocked at one game each.

The Rangers, though, after eliminating the defending Cup champion Boston Bruins in five games, fell to a 2-1 deficit in their semifinal against Chicago by dropping a 2-1 decision at New York Tuesday night. The Rangers swept the Black Hawks four straight in last year's semis and then won the opening game of this set at Chicago last week.

Action in both series resumes Thursday night with games at Philadelphia and New York.

led 91-82 and the Warriors were in front 99-95 with 2:33 remaining. But the Lakers came back to tie the score on a pair of jumpers by McMillian with 1:47 and 1:21 to go.

"There's no excuse for what happened in the last two and a half minutes," said Warrior Coach Al Attles. "We had them on the ropes and let them get away."

The Western Conference final series continues here Thursday night and then moves to Oakland for the third and fourth games on Saturday and Monday nights.

N.L. ROUNDUP

Jenkins Outduels Seaver

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

In a classic duel between two of the National League's premier pitchers, who would have thought an umpire could steal half the spotlight?

Nevertheless, Ferguson Jenkins' nifty two-hit 1-0 decision over Tom Seaver Wednesday afternoon was almost upstaged by plate umpire Augie Donatelli's controversial final out, foul tip call on the New York Mets' John Milner.

Jenkins, coasting along toward his first victory of the 1973 season for the Chicago Cubs with the aid of Rick Monday's fifth inning solo homer, wound up winning the game in a storm of controversy when Donatelli called Milner out on a foul tip-third strike after the Mets' first baseman thought he had drawn a walk. That brought Mets' Manager Yogi Berra racing out to the plate and a chorus of boos from the 14,549 fans who had heretofore been treated to a dandy of a pitching duel.

In other National League games Wednesday, Cincinnati blanked San Diego 3-0 for its fifth straight win, Philadelphia outslugged Montreal 9-6, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 4-3 in 14 innings, Los Angeles clubbed Houston 7-2 and San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Houston 15-2 and 2-0.

"I heard it hit the bat," Donatelli said after the game in explaining his delay in making a call. "I just wanted to be sure. I don't blame Yogi for arguing."

Other than the disputed final out, the only major difference between Jenkins and Seaver was Monday's homer, the Cub centerfielder's first of the season.

Joe Morgan slammed his third home run in two days, a two-run blast, to pace the streaking Reds to their fifth straight victory. The Reds, leading the National League West, also got a pitching bonus from Ross Grimsley, who scattered eight hits in blanking the Padres.

QUITE A WORKOUT

Playing Platform Tennis In Ross Man's Backyard

By RON LENT

One-half of the West Coast champion doubles team received a "stiff" test Saturday in platform tennis.

I was the stiff.

With partner Mason Fleming shouting encouragement, I readied for the serve of champion Al Seidel. Seidel's partner, Thomas Terry, completed this foursome in Ross.

When the orange, spongy ball bounced over the net, I swung and missed as it bounced off the wooden court and against the 12-foot high metal fence enclosing the court. Though feeling like a monkey in a cage, I endeavored to correctly use my perforated paddle-like racket and either hit the elusive ball or fan the soft breeze circulating around the backyard court of Terry's home.

Rea Smith, Seidel's championship partner, and Webster Otis were looking on from a table near a swimming pool when I inadvertantly returned the ball in play. Smith, Otis, Seidel, Terry and Fleming are among a handful of top notch platform tennis players residing in Ross.

They were assembled at the $8,000 court, one of about five private courts in Marin County, to sharpen their skills in a game akin to tennis. There are no public courts in Marin County. Tennis rules apply, but there are certain exceptions, namely: the ball rebounding off the fence can be returned, the game is played primarily on a wooden surface elevated on a platform, and there is no power serve.

Buoyed by the knowledge that the soft ball negates the booming serve and fosters lengthy volleys on the 30 by 60 court, about a third of the size of a tennis court, I continued playing with steadfast concentration but little success.

I drew a polite compliment from Seidel for my erratic serve and questionable backhand. They seemingly forgot that I deftly placed one ball over the fence.

During the half-hour of play, I found there is not much running in the doubles-oriented game. However, there was ample evidence that the game offers plenty of movement and a good workout, for four of us were perspiring freely when we finished our one set. The Seidel-Terry team prevailed, 6-4 as the victors played an easy, consistent game and allowed us to seal our own fate.

Seidel and Smith, who competed in the Short Hills Invitational Tournament held Jan. 27-28 in Short Hills, N.J., garnered the Northern California Platform Tennis Association championship Jan. 13 on Terry's court, five teams competing.

To promote the game, the pair explained that they were trying to organize a tourney in early October on the courts owned by Otis and Terry. Some 16 doubles teams will compete for the Seidel-Smith title. Platform tennis, which made its local debut two years ago, can be played the year-round and is a sport which puts men and women on equal playing terms.

Otis explained: "Strength is not necessarily a major asset, because you just can't serve the ball that hard. You've got to be coordinated and move around well and know how to play the ball off the fence."

Because the game, which began in Scarsdale, N.Y. in the 1920s, is not well known, the Marin players are trying to inform people about the game. Smith, in particular, is trying to entice youngsters to learn and play the game, but facilities are limited. "We open our courts to all our friends when we can," Smith added.

Smith is currently negotiating for a spot on top of an office building in downtown San Francisco to construct a court, further exposing the game to a big audience in S.F.

It is the Marin players' hope that this tennis-like game for people of all ages will gain the popularity they feel it richly deserves.

Platform tennis, anyone?

Ex-Brave Helps Orioles Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Earl Williams' Baltimore Oriole teammates made it plain how they felt about the ex-Atlanta catcher Tuesday night when he crossed the plate after hitting his first home run as an American Leaguer.

"Big Money," was the greeting they gave Williams after his two-run homer in the eighth inning lifted the Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees. "Big Money."

"I know what they meant," grinned Manager Earl Weaver. "They meant that 20-grand in October—the kind they've been collecting in recent Octobers but missed last year. That's what this game is all about."

Weaver had good reason to gloat because it was he who issued a challenge to the Baltimore front office after the Orioles, who had won four AL pennants in six years, finished third in the AL Eastern Division last season.

"Get me Earl Williams," Weaver told the front office, "and I'll get you a pennant."

The Baltimore front office responded by getting Williams from the Braves in a controversial trade which sent Dave Johnson, Johnny Oates, Pat Dobson and Roric Harrison to Atlanta. Many AL experts thought the Orioles might have given up too much to acquire the power Williams figured to add to their lineup.

The Kansas City Royals beat the Oakland A's 5-4 in 14 innings, the Cleveland Indians downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-3, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Texas Rangers 10- 5, the Detroit Tigers topped the Boston Red Sox 6-3, and the Minnesota Twins whipped the California Angels 10-5 in the other AL games.

Williams, who started Tuesday night's game with a .185 batting average, delivered his game-winning hit off reliever Sparky Lyle with Bobby Grich on base after Boog Powell's sacrifice fly tied the score at 2-2. Dave McNally pitched a four-hitter to win his third straight game for the Orioles.

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Coach Hank Anderson of Montana State recently achieved his 300th basketball victory. He has high hopes for his Bobcats in the Big Sky title race.

Softball Results

Joe Nystrom pitched a one-hitter last night at Albert Field as the Suburban Auto Pistons won a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league game from Kruger's, 6-0. In the other game, the North State Braves took a 4-1 win over the Suburban Auto Blues.

his second victory in three decisions. "I'm glad it's not serious but the ankle does hurt a lot."

Bradley gave up six hits and one run in his five innings but when he left the Giants were in front 9-1. Barr gave up four hits and a run the rest of the way to pick up his second save.

All of Atlanta's second game hits were off Bryant, who got a little tired in the eighth and walked three batters. A double-play in between the walks help get him out of trouble.

Sam McDowell was scheduled to pitch for the Giants in the series finale today.

For Goodson, it was his best night in the big leagues although he once got seven hits during a doubleheader in the Class A California League.

"The difference," said Goodson, "is that I have my confidence now that I'm playing every day. It's tough to hit in the majors when you are a part-time player. Coming to the park every day knowing I'm going to play has relaxed me, and you have to be relaxed to do your best."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Central Securities Market Discussed

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you comment on the proposed central securities market? What effect would such a stock exchange have on the individual investor? — A.G.

A. The Securities and Exchange Commission has recently released a "white paper" giving details of a proposed central securities market. Adoption of the plan, either in toto or in part, will be contingent upon the outcome of public hearings to be held following the formal release of the proposed plan. Competitive price differences between the exchanges and the various other markets would be eliminated by their inclusion under a new regulatory body and a national communication system.

The changes being suggested involve specialists, the third market and block positioners. However, considerable industry opposition is expected in these areas. As for the small investor, whose numbers have been dwindling, this plan would give them more equal footing with institutions. In 1972 the number of individual shareholders declined 2½ per cent or 800,000 according to estimates published by the New York Stock Exchange.

The importance of the individual investor in providing liquidity and continuity in the marketplace is obviously being recognized by the industry and the SEC as witness several of its proposals. For instance, a block positioner, who currently matches institutional buy and sell orders, would be required to open a block and fill any existing individual limit orders which fell within a block's trading range unless the market was at that price level.

Thus the small investor would have the same competitive edge that an institution now enjoys. Executions by third market dealers who negotiate over-the-counter transactions in listed issues would be subject to the same rule. In other words individuals would be able to participate in the discounts and premiums over trading levels that are now available only to the large buyers.

Other proposals set forth in the SEC plan would require third market dealers to accept the same responsibilities that exchange specialists now assume. Regional exchanges would also be asked to upgrade their requirements for specialists.

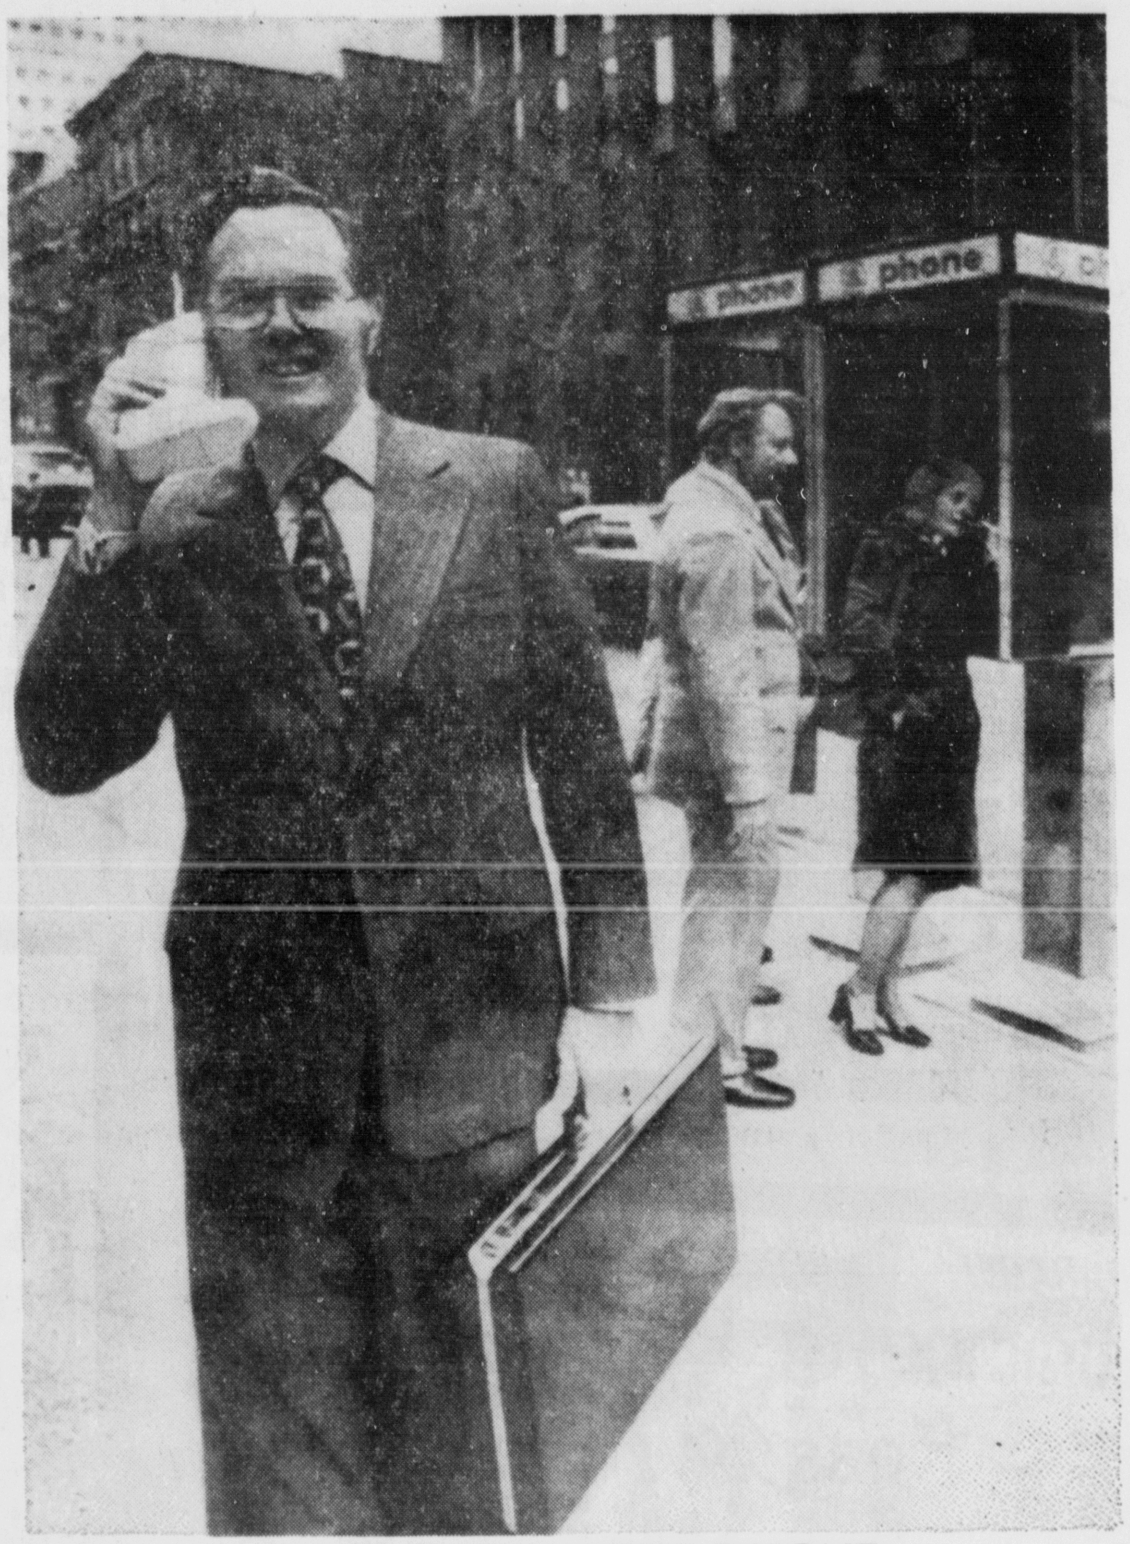
Market On Rebound In Late Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices turned mixed near the close today in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Prices recovered some from early lows, but there was no news to account for the move.

According to Tom Wilson of Standard & Poor's, the market was suffering from neglect. "It is concerned with uncertainty regarding the question of economic controls and with congress about to recess, uncertainty exists about the future of controls," Wilson said.

Trading on the American Stock Exchange was lower in moderate trading.

Boise Cascade was higher. The company reported sharply higher first quarter earnings of 52 cents a share compared to 8 cents a share a year ago.



JUST CARRY YOUR PHONE

Motorola vice president John F. Mitchell shows how easily the company's newest production — Dyna TAC Portable Radio Telephone System — can be used from the heart of a city. Motorola recently unveiled the portable telephone in New York and said it can be fully operative in the city by 1976. It will enable a user to call from virtually anywhere in the metropolitan area to any other telephone in the world.

Loans Increase At Bankamerica

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bankamerica Corp. Monday reported an unprecedented 18 per cent increase in loans in announcing 1973 first quarter consolidated income of $47,375,000, or 69 cents a share.

President A.W. Clausen said that loans rose by $3,160,454,000 to $20,677,659,000, reflecting strong credit demand in both consumer and business sectors that appeared to be continuing in April.

Consolidated income, up 13.1 per cent, compared with $41,847,000 or 61 cents a share, for the same period a year ago.

Coast Exchanges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, organized in 1957 through the merger of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Stock Exchange, is the largest outside New York, based on share value.

Herb's Pool Service Plans To Double Size At Present Location

Herb's Pool Service, at 3765 Redwood Highway across from the Marin County Civic Center, plans to double its size in a new building adjacent to its present location.

Herb Dougan, owner of the pool service, said he will start building his new office and shop building as soon as he can get a sewer hookup permit from the Las Gallinas Sanitary District. The structure will be concrete tilt-up with modern exterior. It will be one-story at the outset, with a second story to be added later.

Herb's Pool Service has been operating in Marin for 15 years, the first three years on Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael and the last 12 years at the present location. It provides all service accessories for swimming pools except the actual construction.

When Herb's Pool Service moves into its new building, Booby's Restaurant will take over the present Herb's building, remodeling it for restaurant use. A new A & W Restaurant is going up at the old Booby's site at 3741 Redwood Highway.

THE ART FESTIVAL in downtown San Rafael will continue throughout this week, with more than 1,500 pieces of art on display in store windows. The Marin Society of Artists has on parade a variety of art work including ceramics, jewelry, weavings, sculpture, and paintings.

The annual Downtown Art Show is sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Merchants Association, and the Society of Artists.

REDWOOD BANCORP, parent company of Redwood Bank, has applied to the State Banking Department for permission to relocate the head office from San Rafael to a new office at 735 Montgomery Street near the Transamerica Pyramid Building in San Francisco.

The purpose of the change is to "strengthen the corporation's ties with the financial community centered in San Francisco," said W. J. Waksvik, secretary of the bank.

The corporation wants to move its San Francisco bank from 1810 Union Street to 735 Montgomery, where an old garage has been remodeled into a modern four-story building.

Relocation of the head office to Montgomery Street would not change the operations of the corporation's Redwood Banks in San Rafael, Napa, Vallejo and San Mateo.

STAN'S APPLIANCE Center in Novato, at Grant Avenue and Highway 101, has been taken over by Robert Durham as sole owner.

Stanley Orman, who owned the store for about 12 years, sold out to Durham, who has been his partner for the past six years.

Durham said he will continue to operate the business without change — same name and same policies. Stan's Appliance Center handles all major appliances, primarily Whirlpool and Amana brands.

HOEFER, DIETERICH and Brown Inc. of San Francisco, headed by John H. Hoefer of Belvedere, has been appointed to handle the advertising and merchandising programs for Nulaid Foods Inc., one of the largest marketers of eggs in California.

CAMPERING GUIDE — A free, eight-page pamphlet containing tips for both the novice and experienced recreational vehicle owner is being distributed by Dodge dealers.

"Guidelines to Safe and Carefree Campering" gives tips on the proper loading of a recreational vehicle, safe trailer and tow vehicle combinations, and even a section on RV lingo.

RALPH H. CLADER of San Rafael won a 20-year service award from the R. T. French Co. of Rochester, N.Y. Clader is a food service sales representative covering the San Francisco area.

HOME SAVINGS and Loan Association, with headquarters in Beverly Hills, is planning a new Tiburon branch office on Tiburon Boulevard just north of Safeway Store.

The present Tiburon branch is located at 10 Beach Road. The new structure, with 4,500 square feet of floor space, will be built on 32,000 square feet of land purchased by Home Savings.

U-CART CONCRETE, a new service to help the do-it-yourself homeowner, has been added at Marin Landscape Materials in Novato, corner of Highway 101 and Atherton Avenue.

Small amounts of ready mixed, wet concrete are available in little dumping trailers, which are attached to the customer's car. One-fourth yard to a full yard of concrete can be hauled to backyard jobs such as patios, walkways and curbs.

E. E. BULLARD Co. of Sausalito, manufacturers of industrial safety equipment, announced the appointment of two new regional sales managers. They are Stephen R. Whited of Barrington, Ill., covering the middle Atlantic States; and Stephen A. Straughan of Greensboro, N.C., covering the southeastern area.

K. L. (JIM) RICE Jr. of Tiburon will speak at the San Francisco Advertising Club luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Sheraton-Palace in San Francisco. He is vice president of account management for Hoefer, Dieterich & Brown advertising agency.

POOR CHOICE

West opened a trump (a poor choice against a slam contract), and South won with the jack. South shrewdly took the diamond finesse at once. If it lost, he wanted East to have no information to guide him.

As it turned out, East couldn't work out the best return. He knew that he had to lead back a heart or a club, but he couldn't decide which was better. Hearts looked safer, so he returned the ten of hearts.

RUN TRICKS

Now South could take the rest of the tricks very easily, discarding a heart and a club on dummy's diamonds —after drawing the rest of the trumps.

How should East have known that a club lead was better than the ten of hearts?

FIND SHORT SUIT

The question was: Which suit was South short of? He obviously had a long spade suit and three diamonds. If South had a losing singleton, that was the suit that East wanted to lead.

If South had a losing singleton in hearts, West would have a strong eight-card heart suit. In that case, West would have led a heart instead of a trump. What's more, West might have enterd the bidding. Since West had not bid and had not led a heart, this possibility had to be rejected.

CLUB THE BEST

There was no such reason for discarding the possibility that South had a singleton club. This matched up with all the evidence. Hence East should have known that a club return was best.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠-6 3 2
♥-10 8
♦-Q 9 4
♣-K 7 5 3 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds.

You have adequate trump support with five points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. This is just enough for a raise of partner's suit.

Professor's Bag: Stream Beds

CHICAGO (AP) — Reading ancient stream beds and uncorking their history is the work of Dr. John Clark, associate curator of sedimentary petrology, department of geology, Field Museum.

A northeastern Colorado lodge of sandstone particularly interests him. He says the 35-million-year-old stream bed — as barren as a moon plain — reveals its wanderings like a roadmap.

Clark said the stream at one time was as wide as the broken ribbon of rock, about 1,000 feet and as deep as the thickest crossbeds, about four feet.

POOR CHOICE

West opened a trump (a poor choice against a slam contract), and South won with the jack. South shrewdly took the diamond finesse at once. If it lost, he wanted East to have no information to guide him.

As it turned out, East couldn't work out the best return. He knew that he had to lead back a heart or a club, but he couldn't decide which was better. Hearts looked safer, so he returned the ten of hearts.

RUN TRICKS

Now South could take the rest of the tricks very easily, discarding a heart and a club on dummy's diamonds —after drawing the rest of the trumps.

How should East have known that a club lead was better than the ten of hearts?

FIND SHORT SUIT

The question was: Which suit was South short of? He obviously had a long spade suit and three diamonds. If South had a losing singleton, that was the suit that East wanted to lead.

If South had a losing singleton in hearts, West would have a strong eight-card heart suit. In that case, West would have led a heart instead of a trump. What's more, West might have enterd the bidding. Since West had not bid and had not led a heart, this possibility had to be rejected.

CLUB THE BEST

There was no such reason for discarding the possibility that South had a singleton club. This matched up with all the evidence. Hence East should have known that a club return was best.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- 6 3 2
♥- 10 8
♦- Q 9 4
♣- K 7 5 3 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds.

You have adequate trump support with five points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. This is just enough for a raise of partner's suit.

Professor's Bag: Stream Beds

CHICAGO (AP) — Reading ancient stream beds and uncorking their history is the work of Dr. John Clark, associate curator of sedimentary petrology, department of geology, Field Museum.

A northeastern Colorado lodge of sandstone particularly interests him. He says the 35-million-year-old stream bed — as barren as a moon plain — reveals its wanderings like a roadmap.

Clark said the stream at one time was as wide as the broken ribbon of rock, about 1,000 feet and as deep as the thickest crossbeds, about four feet.

State Plans Auto Theft Crackdown

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol is preparing a massive attack against one of the state's biggest crime problems—auto theft.

The CHP has been awarded a $1.25 million federal anticrime grant to coordinate a one-year statewide program with local law enforcement officers to track down auto thieves no matter where they go in California.

Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski said the "professional" thief engaged in stealing cars "is finding it lucrative and not particularly risky —at least at this moment."

California, with more than 140,000 vehicle thefts annually, has the third highest per capita theft rate in the nation, Pudinski said. One of every six major crimes committed in the state is a car theft.

Car thefts, which cost Californians about $100 million a year, have been increasing by an average of 8 per cent annually in the last three years. Pudinski said only one theft in eight is solved through arrests —a decline from a one-in-three rate several years ago.

Also, the rate of recovering stolen cars has dropped from 90 per cent to 80 per cent in the past three years.

Pudinski said the biggest problem in catching auto thieves is that local police departments do not have the time or manpower to seek thieves who flee to other localities. Car theft rings in many cases avoid arrest by moving from one town to another, he said.

Responding to the problem, the CHP on July 1 will intensify its efforts to assist local police with car theft investigations. While local police will retain responsibility for investigations, the CHP will concentrate its assistance efforts on apprehending car thieves, especially theft rings, who move from one community to another.

Using the federal grant and $416,667 in state money, the CHP is increasing its statewide auto theft investigation team—already one of the largest in the nation—from 47 to 97 officers.

The California Council on Criminal Justice, which approved the federal grant to the CHP, also plans to appropriate another $2 million to police in communities with the worst stolen car problems. Los Angeles Couunty has 50 per cent of all vehicle thefts statewide.

Inspector B.R. Smith, who heads the CHP program, said officers also will work with private businesses concerned with auto thefts, such as auto dismantlers, scrap metal dealers, and repair shops, in locating stolen vehicles or parts.

Pudinski said about 75 per cent of professional car thieves strip cars for parts while the remaining 25 per cent alter or counterfeit car ownership papers.

To prevent registration of stolen cars, the CHP plans to work with the Department of Motor Vehicles to develop tighter DMV titling and licensing procedures. Also, the patrol and DMV will inspect certain vehicles, mostly those from out of state, at the time of registration.

The CHP plans to improve a state computerized system which provides up-to-date information on stolen vehicles for law officers. The effort also will include additional training for law officers in handling auto theft investigations plus a public education program on how to prevent theft.

The CHP will form a statewide vehicle theft advisory committee, composed of representatives of the patrol, local law enforcement agencies and affected private businesses.

The total program was based on recommendations made by a consulting firm, Arthur Young & Co., which conducted a study of the auto theft problem on behalf of the CHP.

Pudinski said the program provides the means for law enforcement "to make the auto theft business not only less profitable but considerably more uncomfortable for the thief."

Streamlining? No, Call It Pyramiding

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
50 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

Nobody mentioned C. Northcote Parkinson when County Administrator John F. Barrows presented his two "super-agency" proposals to the Marin County Board of Supervisors. But the eminent British historian and author must have been there in spirit, lurking somewhere in the wings and smiling a pleased but cynical smile. For one of his "laws" was being demonstrated.

The original "Parkinson's Law" was that "the amount of work expands to match the number of people hired to do it." But he put forth a lot of corollaries, one of which provides the genesis for Barrows' plans.

THE COUNTY administrator proposed consolidation of county departments. This would come in two parts.

Part 1 would consolidate the planning, public works, and parks and recreation departments, with the new "department of planning and public facilities" to be headed by Ray W. Foreaker, now public works director.

Part 2 would consolidate the probation, welfare ("public social services"), and health-medical-mental health (already a consolidation) into a new "department of health and human services" to be headed by Betty L. Presley, now welfare director.

Barrows called these proposed consolidations "streamlining." He told the supervisors they would "add to efficiency" in the county government.

BARROWS' proposals fit very neatly into "Parkinson's Law" on the structure of organizations, which goes like this:

A is placed in charge of an operation, with B and C as assistants. Pretty soon (through the functioning of the original "Parkinson's Law") there is too much work for B. But A does not simply add a third assistant. To do so would not raise the top of the pyramid — the spot A occupies. Instead, he gives B and C each two assistants, thus both broadening the base and raising the apex. Eventually, there will be enough (or too much) work for all of them, simply through "Parkinson's Law." Then he goes through the same process again.

The test of an executive, according to Parkinson, is how much he can raise and widen the pyramid while keeping himself on top.

OUR COUNTY government does not fit this neat pyramidal structure. We have an assortment of departments. Each grows inexorably, but their growth creates no new layers of administrtion. It does not raise the man on top (Barrows).

The county administrator's plan would change that by introducing a new layer. Miss Presley would require a new welfare director under her as overall head of "health and human services." Foreaker would have to add a new public works director under himself as head of "planning and public facilities." The pyramid would begin growing in the proper Parkinsonian fashion.

This was started when health, mental health and medical departments were combined under Dr. Donovan O. Cooke. At the time, Barrows said that also would be "streamlining" and "add to efficiency." By now we know it has simply added to expense.

Streamlining? Efficiency? No, the correct word is pyramiding.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Our Senator Writes

In the current controversy in Washington over vetoes, fund impoundments and spending ceilings, members of Congress are painted as "budget busters" and "big spenders" while the President is portrayed as the one who wants to hold down government spending, reduce the federal deficit and avoid a tax increase.

Neither statement is really accurate. And the elements of a compromise are now at hand that should limit spending, prevent a tax increase, reduce the budget deficit — and end what threatens to become a constitutional crisis.

Congress has, indeed, been rather loose and slipshod in some money matters, appropriating funds for this program and that without regard to an overall budget figure.

Nonetheless, Congress did cut appropriations $18 billion below the amount President Nixon requested in his first four years. And now the President, for the first time in history, has requested that both military and overall spending should go up (instead of down) following a war.

The overwhelming majority of the Senate — Democrats and Republicans alike — voted recently to set a spending ceiling for fiscal 1974 that is $700 million less than the ceiling proposed by the President.

Quite a few of us have been working for some time for a new and more responsible congressional approach to budgeting. Back in 1971, I joined Republican Senator Roth of Delaware in proposing a spending ceiling, but at that time only 18 Democrats and 19 Republicans voted with us.

President Nixon's request for a $250 billion spending ceiling last fall had my strong support. I opposed, however, his demand that he alone should decide which federal programs should be left untouched and which programs should be reduced or eliminated altogether in order to keep federal spending below that ceiling.

Now with Republican Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois and Independent Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, I have introduced a bill that would create permanent machinery by which Congress would set a spending ceiling eacy year. Our reform bill is at this moment being studied by a special Senate committee. I'm sure Congress will soon adopt a budget process along the lines of our proposal.

So what's the argument about? The real argument between the Congress and the President is not over how much to spend, but over what to spend it on.

Through impoundments, vetoes and budget reductions, President Nixon wants to reduce spending in ways that I and, I think, a majority in the Congress deem unwise: in education, health, housing, transportation, aid to veterans and in efforts to reduce toxic air, filthy water, unemployment, poverty, alcoholism, plus that major cause of crime — drug addiction. . . .

An overwhelming majority in the Senate has voiced opposition to aid to North Vietnam — at least until the war is really over and we are assured that necessary programs here at home are adequately funded. Expenditures of this sort have had a great deal to do with the declining value of the overseas dollar. As long as we keep up wasteful, unproductive military spending abroad, the dollar will be in trouble and we will fail to meet pressing needs here at home.

Some of the President's people have derisively called this spending debate a "motherhood issue". And they are right. It is. And I'm not ashamed to say that I'm on momma's side. . .

Journalistic Acrobatics In Peterzell Column

A part of Mr. Peterzell's April 2 column referred to the newly established Regional Citizens Forum and to me personally. Reports as this one make Mr. Agnew's criticism of the press quite believable!

Firstly, he arbitrarily labels me as being a "conservative" and then he sighs, "how odd it seemed that both Marinites elected to run the new Regional Citizens Forum were conservative Republicans!" In the same breath, he asserts in effect that regionalism is a horror to the conservatives. Thus, implied in this journalistic acrobatics is the following:

1. It is odd that "conservative Republicans" are interested in regional and civic problems;
2. Since I am a "conservative," by Mr. Peterzell's own arbitrary definition, it is odd that I am concerned with the problems of a regional nature;
3. Since the conservatives consider regional government a sort of "horror chamber," so must I too.

Well, all the above is humbug!. . .

In the same tendentious column, Mr. Peterzell wonders why Marin citizens don't get involved more in civic issues! To the other maligned Marinite and to me, his writing certainly does not offer much encouragement.

Let Termites Chomp Down Those Drydocks

Cost estimates for removal of the drydocks from Richardson Bay have been in the thousands of dollars and much valuable time has been spent discussing legalities and various methods for removal, all to be paid for by the taxpayer.

Rather than watch grown men continue to suffer in anquish in their struggle to find an inexpensive method of removal, I offer the county supervisors, the Corps of Engineers, and any others involved, the following solution:

It appears the structure, above the surface at least, is mostly wood. As we all know, Marin County has a large community of wood-destroying termites. After all their years of destruction they are probably looking for a way to repay all those homeowners who have furnished them with all those delicious buildings. They could chomp the drydocks right down to the waterline. And when they get to the waterline, they will no longer bother the homeowner/taxpayer. A glorious deed of repayment. What a beautiful way to go!

How to get the termites? Many Marinites have a ready and generous supply. I know my neighbor has a very healthy family in his garage walls at the present time. Their chomping proficiency would certainly qualify them for the project.

As I recall, there is a species of marine termite that could take care of the subsurface sections.

Oh yes, it may take them 20 years to chomp it down, but this is about equal to the time it will take the officials to decide on what to do without this plan.

Libraries, Facing Budget Bind, Neglect Booms For Recruiting

WASHINGTON — There is no more logical time to work in the public library than Saturday afternoon. Most people are off work, students are out of class, the duty of skimming the fat Sunday papers is still hours away. So you gather notebook and ball points and walk up the street in the rain, and when you get there the library is closed.

It was a shock at first. Surely it must be temporary, for repairs or some newly transplanted holiday. But no. That is the schedule now. And it is not a Washington aberration, either. In city after city, libraries or branches are shut during the very hours when you would expect them to be busiest. The reason administrators give is lack of money.

CONFRONTED BY THOSE closed doors, anybody who uses books the way a plumber uses wrenches naturally is in an unreceptive mood for considering Mr. Nixon's intention to eliminate all direct federal funds for public and school libraries. It falls particularly flat when accompanied by the President's greetings to the librarians during National Library Week, in which he spoke highly of reading and writing.

The predictable reaction to those circumstances is to condemn the budget-slashing move that forces library administrators to compete with paving contractors and police commissioners for revenue-sharing dollars, or do without federal help. It is a hopeless contest. And while, at it, one naturally should swat the President for yet another example of saying one thing and acting in the opposite direction.

With enthusiasm, I hereby do so. But there is much more to the plight of the nation's libraries than the provision or withholding of federal aid. Particularly in the major cities, they are caught in a serious bind between escalating costs and diminished use by a population among which the habit of reading books becomes as rare and suspicious as not watching television.

HERE IN WASHINGTON, the city's public library system has been losing patronage steadily for a decade. Fewer books were circulated during each month than in each previous one. Such statistics are not very heavy ammunition for a librarian to carry into competition for funds against other intensely lobbied public programs.

To gain some standing in municipal budget competition, the libraries are forced to seek out more users to make their statistics more impressive. This is not a new effort, but an intensified version of what they have been doing ever since the television era began.

It is hard enough in middle or upper-class communities and neighborhoods, where some older residents have at least a vestige of the book-using habit of another day, and where the young are largely oriented toward reaching college. In a community where a growing majority of the people are undereducated and unmotivated that way, where school reading levels are consistently far below the national average, a library is likely to stand as alien ground — a target for vandalism, if any attention at all.

ONE MOVE TOWARD changing that attitude here has been to name the new downtown central library for Martin Luther King Jr. The new director planned to install a stock-ticker and news-service machine in its lobby. He announced a telephone question-answering service, 12 hours a day. He programmed a regular course in investment, and a bus to give card holders free express rides to neighborhood branches. All that came atop the library's broadening into bookmobiles and film, records, tapes and other media.

The director told of dreaming for 25 years of "seeing the population of our cities embracing all the free information available to them, making their lives better, doing their jobs better, improving themselves." Which is commendable, and what libraries are supposed to be all about.

But their administrators now run expensive recruiting programs, like loss leaders in a bargain basement, just to bring patrons through the door. To deserve funds on the basis of user statistics, they cut operating hours and spend proportionally less money on books and more on gimmicks.

It probably makes sense as business, but it is a losing spiral. The libraries can survive in the short run without the federal money Mr. Nixon wants to take away, which helped pay for the recruiting programs designed to attract more money. But in the long run, they lose their purpose if they do not have, and serve, a clientele that knows how and loves to read.

President Discovers Economic Controls Are Dangerously Habit-Forming

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration is becoming more deeply mired in a policy of government control of the economy which it doesn't relish and wants to end it.

The President is not moving away from controls — he is moving in the direction of more. And the pressures from nearly every direction are mounting to go the whole distance: the tightest economic controls of wages, prices, profits, rents, interest rates — everything — the nation has ever experienced in peacetime.

THE ISSUE I am raising is not whether the original freeze was necessary to deal with an acute stage of the inflation. In Phase 3, President Nixon did shed some controls in order, as he said, to "hasten" a return to the free market. This step is not hastening a return to the free market. Quite the opposite. Nearly every step toward decontrol is being followed by a step backward.

This isn't the way the President wanted it. It isn't the way he hoped it would be, but it is working out that way.

This shouldn't be a surprise to the White House. Those who know how reluctant President Nixon was to embrace controls in the first place also know that there were important economists in the administration who explicitly warned that it would be far more difficult to get rid of controls than to impose them. Those who sounded those warnings are now proving to be right.

Phase 3 was supposed to be a bridge from control to decontrol. But it is now evident that it is not reaching to the other side. The political, economic and public pressures are simply too much. Now the administration is turning around again and heading into more controls, not fewer.

It has returned the oil industry to mandatory controls. It has called public hearings on recent lumber price increases, and the outlook is for stiffer curbs. It has imposed price ceilings on meat despite its own misgivings and warnings about rationing, black markets and other possible evils.

WHEN THE WHITE HOUSE first began to explore the 1971 wage-price-rent freeze, there were economists and others — some inside but mostly outside the government — who were saying, "Try it, you'll like it!"

President Nixon never has liked it and remains philosophically committed to the merits of a free, unfettered economy. But large and powerful groups in the country are now showing that, having tasted controls, they like them very much.

Labor leaders like them. Housewives like them. Much of the public likes them. The politicians like them. Even many businessmen are beginning to like them. They will raise their voices to give routine praise for the free market, but there is little evidence that they are putting any hard pressure on the administration to decontrol.

Purchasing World recently surveyed the views of corporate purchasing agents. Earlier — before President Nixon instituted the wage-price freeze — the magazine found "that the majority of the purchasing profession was dead set against any type of controls." Now, in 1973, they find a total turnaround. The corporate purchasing agents, by 73 per cent, favor a return to Phase 2 control. They tried it; they liked it.

Now Congress is straining at the leash to pass a bill which is laden with controls that the President certainly doesn't want. It will take political courage to get controls off the back of the economy — even when he believes it beneficial.

Two Citizens Challenge Disregard Of Constitution

By RUS WALTON

Someone finally had the guts to take California's state senators to court for violating the Constitution.

A suit has been filed in the State Supreme Court to set aside the seating of Alan Robbins as the senator from the 22nd District (San Fernando Valley). It charges that Robbins does not meet the one-year residency requirement for legislators, as set forth in Art. IV, Sec. 2 (c) of the State Constitution.

The petition also charges the Senate with abdicating its duty to uphold the constitution.

". . . Seating Robbins is void and unconstitutional" because "the Senate has ignored its constitutional duty to determine the residence qualifications" of Mr. Robbins and has "in effect, abolished a constitutionally imposed requirement," says the petition.

THE PETITIONERS are Dick Gulbranson, North Hollywood, and Ron Elersich, 22nd District. The two state they are acting on behalf of "all voters in the district. . . and all citizens and taxpayers in the state. . . who all have been injured and are being injured by the conduct" of the 26 senators who voted to seat Robbins.

They claim that permitting an unqualified invidiaul to sit as a state senator adulterates the entire legislative process and does damage to representative government.

Gulbranson and Elersich ask the court to force the Senate to show cause why it should not be "absolutely and forever restrained from permitting Alan Robbins to serve" as a senator. Failing that, they ask the Court to order the Senate "to inquire fully. . . by appropriate investigation and hearing. . . into whether or not Alan Robbins had been a resident of the 22nd District for one year immediately preceding his election to the Senate on Feb. 27, 1973."

The petition alleges that Robbins moved into the 22nd District in December, 1972 — less than 100 days before the special election — for the specific purpose of seeking the Senate seat.

ATTACHED to the petition, copies of which were served on each senator, were numerous documents to support its claims. Those documents were not new to the 38 senators who were present in chambers on March 5. That was the day Sen. John Harmer (R-Glendale) tried to block the seating of Robbins because of the residency requirement.

Most of the senators ignored those documents. They refused to discuss them and voted 26-10 to seat Robbins. Nineteen Democrats and seven Republicans threw the constitution in the trash can that day.

But now someone is trying to hold them accountable, trying to undo their arrogant misfeasance.

The Assembly is just as bad. Over the years both houses have flaunted the residency requirement. In January, 1973, the Assembly voted to seat Howard Berman from the 57th District. Berman had not resided in that district for one year prior to election, and the assemblymen knew it. But no one had the courage to take that one to court

At last a challenge has been raised.

Now, perhaps, we will find out whether politicians in Babylon are really free to flaunt the constitution.

Streamlining? No, Call It Pyramiding

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
50 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

Nobody mentioned C. Northcote Parkinson when County Administrator John F. Barrows presented his two "super-agency" proposals to the Marin County Board of Supervisors. But the eminent British historian and author must have been there in spirit, lurking somewhere in the wings and smiling a pleased but cynical smile. For one of his "laws" was being demonstrated.

The original "Parkinson's Law" was that "the amount of work expands to match the number of people hired to do it." But he put forth a lot of corollaries, one of which provides the genesis for Barrows' plans.

THE COUNTY administrator proposed consolidation of county departments. This would come in two parts.

Part 1 would consolidate the planning, public works, and parks and recreation departments, with the new "department of planning and public facilities" to be headed by Ray W. Foreaker, now public works director.

Part 2 would consolidate the probation, welfare ("public social services"), and health-medical-mental health (already a consolidation) into a new "department of health and human services" to be headed by Betty L. Presley, now welfare director.

Barrows called these proposed consolidations "streamlining." He told the supervisors they would "add to efficiency" in the county government.

BARROWS' proposals fit very neatly into "Parkinson's Law" on the structure of organizations, which goes like this:

A is placed in charge of an operation, with B and C as assistants. Pretty soon (through the functioning of the original "Parkinson's Law") there is too much work for B. But A does not simply add a third assistant. To do so would not raise the top of the pyramid — the spot A occupies. Instead, he gives B and C each two assistants, thus both broadening the base and raising the apex. Eventually, there will be enough (or too much) work for all of them, simply through "Parkinson's Law." Then he goes through the same process again.

The test of an executive, according to Parkinson, is how much he can raise and widen the pyramid while keeping himself on top.

OUR COUNTY government does not fit this neat pyramidal structure. We have an assortment of departments. Each grows inexorably, but their growth creates no new layers of administrtion. It does not raise the man on top (Barrows).

The county administrator's plan would change that by introducing a new layer. Miss Presley would require a new welfare director under her as overall head of "health and human services." Foreaker would have to add a new public works director under himself as head of "planning and public facilities." The pyramid would begin growing in the proper Parkinsonian fashion.

This was started when health, mental health and medical departments were combined under Dr. Donovan O. Cooke. At the time, Barrows said that also would be "streamlining" and "add to efficiency." By now we know it has simply added to expense.

Streamlining? Efficiency? No, the correct word is pyramiding.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Our Senator Writes

In the current controversy in Washington over vetoes, fund impoundments and spending ceilings, members of Congress are painted as "budget busters" and "big spenders" while the President is portrayed as the one who wants to hold down government spending, reduce the federal deficit and avoid a tax increase.

Neither statement is really accurate. And the elements of a compromise are now at hand that should limit spending, prevent a tax increase, reduce the budget deficit — and end what threatens to become a constitutional crisis.

Congress has, indeed, been rather loose and slipshod in some money matters, appropriating funds for this program and that without regard to an overall budget figure.

Nonetheless, Congress did cut appropriations $18 billion below the amount President Nixon requested in his first four years. And now the President, for the first time in history, has requested that both military and overall spending should go up (instead of down) following a war.

The overwhelming majority of the Senate — Democrats and Republicans alike — voted recently to set a spending ceiling for fiscal 1974 that is $700 million less than the ceiling proposed by the President.

Quite a few of us have been working for some time for a new and more responsible congressional approach to budgeting. Back in 1971, I joined Republican Senator Roth of Delaware in proposing a spending ceiling, but at that time only 18 Democrats and 19 Republicans voted with us.

President Nixon's request for a $250 billion spending ceiling last fall had my strong support. I opposed, however, his demand that he alone should decide which federal programs should be left untouched and which programs should be reduced or eliminated altogether in order to keep federal spending below that ceiling.

Now with Republican Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois and Independent Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, I have introduced a bill that would create permanent machinery by which Congress would set a spending ceiling eacy year. Our reform bill is at this moment being studied by a special Senate committee. I'm sure Congress will soon adopt a budget process along the lines of our proposal.

So what's the argument about? The real argument between the Congress and the President is not over how much to spend, but over what to spend it on.

Through impoundments, vetoes and budget reductions, President Nixon wants to reduce spending in ways that I and, I think, a majority in the Congress deem unwise: in education, health, housing, transportation, aid to veterans and in efforts to reduce toxic air, filthy water, unemployment, poverty, alcoholism, plus that major cause of crime — drug addiction. . . .

An overwhelming majority in the Senate has voiced opposition to aid to North Vietnam — at least until the war is really over and we are assured that necessary programs here at home are adequately funded. Expenditures of this sort have had a great deal to do with the declining value of the overseas dollar. As long as we keep up wasteful, unproductive military spending abroad, the dollar will be in trouble and we will fail to meet pressing needs here at home.

Some of the President's people have derisively called this spending debate a "motherhood issue". And they are right. It is. And I'm not ashamed to say that I'm on momma's side. . .

President Discovers Economic Controls Are Dangerously Habit-Forming

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration is becoming more deeply mired in a policy of government control of the economy which it doesn't relish and wants to end it.

The President is not moving away from controls — he is moving in the direction of more. Nearly every step toward decontrol is being followed by a step backward.

Two Citizens Challenge Disregard Of Constitution

By RUS WALTON

Someone finally had the guts to take California's state senators to court for violating the Constitution.

A suit has been filed in the State Supreme Court to set aside the seating of Alan Robbins as the senator from the 22nd District (San Fernando Valley). It charges that Robbins does not meet the one-year residency requirement for legislators, as set forth in Art. IV, Sec. 2 (c) of the State Constitution.

The petition also charges the Senate with abdicating its duty to uphold the constitution.

". . . Seating Robbins is void and unconstitutional" because "the Senate has ignored its constitutional duty to determine the residence qualifications" of Mr. Robbins and has "in effect, abolished a constitutionally imposed requirement," says the petition.

THE PETITIONERS are Dick Gulbranson, North Hollywood, and Ron Elersich, 22nd District. The two state they are acting on behalf of "all voters in the district. . . and all citizens and taxpayers in the state. . . who all have been injured and are being injured by the conduct" of the 26 senators who voted to seat Robbins.

They claim that permitting an unqualified invidiaul to sit as a state senator adulterates the entire legislative process and does damage to representative government.

Gulbranson and Elersich ask the court to force the Senate to show cause why it should not be "absolutely and forever restrained from permitting Alan Robbins to serve" as a senator. Failing that, they ask the Court to order the Senate "to inquire fully. . . by appropriate investigation and hearing. . . into whether or not Alan Robbins had been a resident of the 22nd District for one year immediately preceding his election to the Senate on Feb. 27, 1973."

The petition alleges that Robbins moved into the 22nd District in December, 1972 — less than 100 days before the special election — for the specific purpose of seeking the Senate seat.

ATTACHED to the petition, copies of which were served on each senator, were numerous documents to support its claims. Those documents were not new to the 38 senators who were present in chambers on March 5. That was the day Sen. John Harmer (R-Glendale) tried to block the seating of Robbins because of the residency requirement.

Most of the senators ignored those documents. They refused to discuss them and voted 26-10 to seat Robbins. Nineteen Democrats and seven Republicans threw the constitution in the trash can that day.

But now someone is trying to hold them accountable, trying to undo their arrogant misfeasance.

The Assembly is just as bad. Over the years both houses have flaunted the residency requirement. In January, 1973, the Assembly voted to seat Howard Berman from the 57th District. Berman had not resided in that district for one year prior to election, and the assemblymen knew it. But no one had the courage to take that one to court.

At last a challenge has been raised.

Now, perhaps, we will find out whether politicians in Babylon are really free to flaunt the constitution.

Joske Gets Kick In Pants As Reward For His Service

Marin County is going to miss Pierre Joske when he leaves. And have no doubts, he will leave if county supervisors approve lumping his parks and recreation department with planning and public works.

Why shouldn't he? The county administrator's proposed consolidation of the three departments deals him and his parks program out.

It amounts to a slap in the face to a department head, who like Assessor Bert Broemmel, is considered tops in his field, statewide.

AROUND CIVIC CENTER, Lucky Pierre generally is grouped in the category of administrators who run tight shops. For the public, that means service — like immaculately kept parks and grounds with a crew of only eight men.

While there's justification in shaking up the mess known as the planning department through a reorganization, the same doesn't apply to parks and recreation.

It wasn't too long ago when the board offered to reward administrators running efficient departments.

If Joske gets a kick in the head as his reward, what can the other 30 or so appointed officials expect?

WHEN JOSKE took over in 1966, the county's parks program was mediocre. It amounted to a half-finished Paradise Beach Park, tiny Miller Park on Tomales Bay, Agate Beach, Muir Beach Overlook, and some other odds and ends.

Today, the county has a first-class park system, owing in part to Joske's efforts — and more than $1.5 million in state and federal grants — McNear's Beach Park, Stafford Lake Park, Civic Center grounds, Deer Park, a growing system of bicycle paths, Bolinas Lagoon preservation and the North Bay Front Park, currently in the acquisition and development stage.

It hasn't been cheap but parks are one of the few places where local taxpayers can see their dollars at work.

So what does Joske get out of it?

Thanks a lot, Pierre, now here's your promised reward — thump — and take your assistant with you.

SPEAKING OF consolidations, there's a rumor that next year the county administrator will recommend consolidating every county department into one called the department of county government.

Presumably, Dr. Donovan Cooke will head it while still maintaining his private practice in Belvedere as he now does as head of the mammoth health department and "full-time" coroner.

Waldie Makes Known Current Finances

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate Jerome Waldie has disclosed details of his campaign contributors and his state and federal income tax forms for 1972.

The Contra Costa County Democrat also said that if elected California chief executive he would require all of his policy-making appointees to fully disclose their income taxes.

He reported $47,558.74 in income, including $42,500 from his salary as a congressman, $2,000 from the law firm he was associated with until this year, and $1,950 from speech honorariums.

The forms show he paid $2,396.05 in state income tax and $8,712.85 in federal income tax for 1972.

Waldie said yesterday he hopes to raise $250,000 to finance his campaign this year — $100,000 from a testimonial dinner in San Francisco, $100,000 from a Los Angeles testimonial, and $50,000 from a mail solicitation.

He reported at a news conference that the largest contributor to his campaign has been the Oakland law firm of Farrow & Segura, which has provided $5,500. Next largest was $3,000 from Texas oilman Edwin Singer, who built the Sequoia Oil Co. refinery in Contra Costa County 12 years ago.

On other topics, Waldie:

Said he opposes Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax limitation initiative.

Contended the Nixon administration should have concentrated more on cutbacks in American's foreign bases, rather than bases at home where welfare and unemployment payments to those thrown out of work "might well offset any military budget savings."

Called the American resumption of bombing in Laos "very dangerous" and stemming from policies that could cause American bombing to resume in Vietnam.

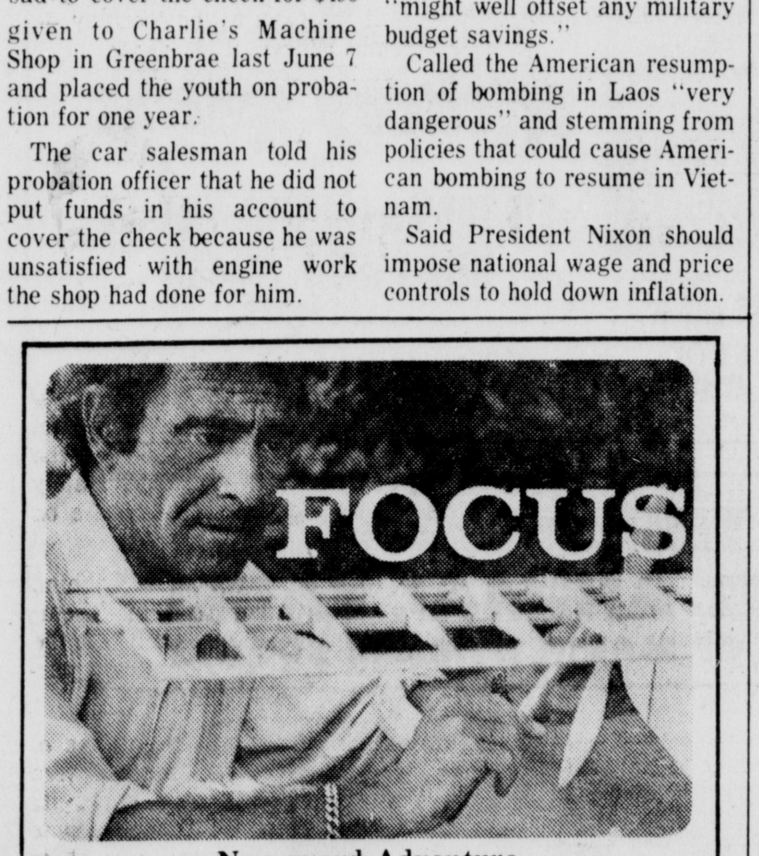
Said President Nixon should impose national wage and price controls to hold down inflation.

$500 Fine For Check Charge

Victor James Massad, 20, of Eureka has been fined $500 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of writing a check larger than his bank balance.

In addition to the fine, Judge David Menary Jr. ordered Massad to cover the check for $496 given to Charlie's Machine Shop in Greenbrae last June 7 and placed the youth on probation for one year.

The car salesman told his probation officer that he did not put funds in his account to cover the check because he was unsatisfied with engine work the shop had done for him.



Newsword Adventure

April is Hobby Month. The word "hobby" is an old variation of the names "Robbie" or "Robin" and was used by the Irish to refer to a small horse or pony. It acquired its present meaning when it became part of the word "hobby-horse" which applies to any toy horse large enough to straddle. If a person was said to be "on one of his pet hobbies" or "riding a hobby," it did not literally mean he was on a toy horse, but that he was engaged in an idle, entertaining occupation which gave as much pleasure as a child finds rocking on a "hobby-horse."

CTA Takes Positions On Variety Of Bills

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The California Teachers Association, which maintains the most active and powerful lobby in Sacramento, has taken positions on 98 pieces of legislation.

Many of the bills it is sponsoring or supporting are bread-and-butter measures to improve salary, retirement and fringe benefits for teachers. But its positions on some others are of interest.

CTA SUPPORTS Assembly Bill 298 (Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Sherman Oaks, and Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles), which would preclude the Commission for Teacher Preparation and Licensing from revoking a credential for immoral or unprofessional conduct unless such conduct could be proved to "have adversely affected the students or fellow teachers," to be likely to recur, and not to have been accompanied by "extenuating circumstances."

It also supports AB 496 (Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland), which would require courtroom procedures in administrative hearings on teacher dismissal.

CTA OPPOSES SB 17 (Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach), which would permit (not require) the state Department of Finance to make special audits of school districts to assure that state funds were properly used.

It opposes AB 159 (Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, and others), which would do away with mandatory student body fees at state colleges and universities. But it unsuccessfully supported AB 230 (Assemblyman Ray Gonzales, D-Bakersfield), which would have forbidden charging faculty members to park their cars in state college parking lots. The bill was killed in committee.

It opposes AB 99 (Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-Campbell), which would authorize year-around school calendars. It also opposes AB 277 (Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose), which would permit students to attend school only four days per week by lengthening their school day. And it is equally opposed to Vasconcellos's AB 122, which would permit schools to hold classes on Saturdays and Sundays.

IN LINE WITH its determination to keep school calendars intact, CTA disapproves (not quite so strong as "opposes") AB 103 (Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach), which would permit large high school districts to hold evening and summer vocational classes for their students.

And just in case schools go on year-around operation despite its opposition, CTA approves AB 142 (Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento), which would provide state funds for installing air conditioning in school buildings where a year-around calendar was adopted. (The bill says nothing about air conditioning for the popular optional summer school classes.)

Determined that all aspects of education must be "professional," CTA opposes AB 566 (Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista), which would eliminate the word "professional" as applied to preparation for vocational teaching.

EVEN CTA, however, is not always consistent. While both sponsoring and supporting a list of bills to expand and improve benefits under the State Teachers Retirement System, it opposes SB 392 (Sen. David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles), which would allow credit toward retirement during any period that a teacher was on leave — instead of only during sabbatical leaves, as at present.

Not all the bills on which CTA has taken positions are school bills. And some inconsistency appears in its stand on two proposed constitutional amendments. It opposes ACA 6 (Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco), which would require a two-thirds vote of the legislature to pass revenue bills. But it also opposes SCA 8 (Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek), which would eliminate the existing two-thirds requirement to change bank tax rates.

Inmates Protest On Church Roof

GRATERFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Six inmates who didn't want to be placed within the regular inmate population at the Graterford state prison sought refuge Tuesday on a church roof.

Prison officials finally talked the six men off the roof of the three-story prison chapel two hours later.

A spokesman said the six would be placed in the "behavior adjustment unit," which he said was like solitary confinement.

Wallace Is Now Using Crutches

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Despite the fact his paralysis has not improved, Gov. George C. Wallace is able to propel himself forward on crutches, according to his staff.

Wallace has been paralysed from the waist down since an assassination attempt last May 15 in Laurel, Md.

Press secretary Bill Joe Camp said doctors told the governor at that time he stood a 90 per cent chance of being ambulatory.

New Space Role

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Gerald Griffin, who was chief flight director for the Apollo 12, 15 and 17 moon missions, was named Tuesday as assistant administrator for legislative affairs for the national space agency.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00
